U.S. PRICES TAKE JUMP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices in the U.S. soared 1.3 per cent in April for their biggest gain in 3½ years, the labor department said today.

On an annual basis that represents a 15.6 per cent advance — more than double the administration's 6.75 to seven per cent projection for inflation in 1978.

The New York Stock Exchange reacted to the news by losing ground for the third straight session today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 15.50 points in the past two days, dropped another 5.29 to 823.54 by 2 p.m.

Rapidly climbing food costs were again a major problem last month, advancing at an annual rate of 22.8 per cent. But unlike past months, the non-food sector also registered a sharp gain.

The 1.3 per cent jump in the department's Producer Price Index for Finished Goods — those products ready for sale to final users — was the steepest since a 1.9 per cent gain in November 1974.

It was also more than twice as high as the 0.6 per cent climb during March, and even exceeded February's 1.1 per cent increase when much of the nation was suffering from severe winter weather.

The consumer foods sector moved up by 1.9 per cent last month. With the exception of a huge 2.9 per cent gain in February, the food price increase was the biggest since the 2.5 per cent advance in February 1977, the department said.

NEW DEAL BOOSTS DOLLAR

Ottawa Gets $3B Credit

Times News Services

TORONTO — Another massive federal borrowing program, in the form of $3 billion in standby credits with U.S. banks, was announced here Wednesday by Finance Minister Jean Chretien.

News of the credit line boosted the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar in early trading today.

When the New York market opened, the Canadian dollar traded at 88.77 U.S. cents — up from Wednesday's close of 88.56. Shortly after trading began, the exchange rate jumped to 88.95, then retreated one-fifth of a cent by midday.

Chretien also said the government plans a large Canadian Savings Bond campaign this fall, despite ealier announcements that Ottawa would rely less on CSBs to raise funds.

Chretien said the eight-year standby agreement was with a nine-member consortium of U.S. banks led by Citicorp International Group of New York. The total line of credit will be available for four years from the date of signing, with interest rates based on U.S. bank prime lending rate.

The size of the U.S. credit deal was a surprise to the Toronto Bond Traders' Association, to whom the finance minister made the announcement. Earlier predictions were that the figure would be only about $1 billion.

The government has already arranged a $2.5 billion U.S. standby arrangement with the Canadian chartered banks with the money being used to defend the dollar on international money markets. To April 30, about $1.35 billion of that had been used.

Chretien announced last week the government was borrowing 1.5 billion West German marks (about $725 million U.S.) and was arranging the standby with U.S. and other foreign banks. He did not specify the amount of the new standby then.

The government borrowings have been severely criticized by opposition members of Parliament, who claimed last week interest rates on the loans totalled some $750,000 a day, although Chretien has dismissed that figure as "false."

Chretien, who noted the federal government's deficit for the current fiscal year—which began last April 1, will be $11.5 billion, said debt financing this year should be accomplished without "disruptive effects on the market."

"Some part may be financed through a reduction of the present very high cash balances and part through increases in holdings of Canada Savings Bonds, treasury bills and marketable bonds," he said.

"There will be a large Canada Savings Bond campaign this fall, in view of the overall size of cash requirements and in order to encourage the reinvestment of the special $2 billion in interest coming due," he said.

Yet he added the government will stick to its policy that "generally less reliance" should be placed on

NOT WORRIED

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is not worried that Canadians are investing record amounts of money outside their own country.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien Wednesday said in the Commons he does not consider it bad or unusual.

He said Canadian firms which invest abroad open new doors for Canadian technology and expertise to gain ground in new markets.

"If we want capital to come into Canada we have to be in a society that permits the free movement of capital," Chretien said.

United States commerce department figures mentioned in the Commons show that last year, Canadians invested $440 million in the U.S. That is the highest amount ever recorded since the American government began compiling statistics 33 years ago.

"This minister is always late to recognize a crisis," NDP leader Ed Broadbent said. "At the current rate of export of capital, in 1978 we will export some $1 billion. That means thousands of jobs lost to Canadians."

Gas Port Banned

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — City council has voted to ban any development of liquified natural gas ports in the city's harbor.

With the Tuesday vote, gas ports joined petroleum as substances that Port Angeles prohibits from large-scale delivery into the harbor.

IRA Hits Station

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Provisional Irish Republican Army guerrillas damaged Londonderry's main railway station in a multiple bomb attack early today, police said.

Three raiders, one of them armed, were disturbed while planting the bombs by a porter who was held at gunpoint in a signal box.

The gunman told him to warn the police that four bombs had been planted. The gang then fled.

The first bomb went off while the porter was telephoning police. The second exploded as police arrived seven minutes later and two others went off within the next half hour.

It was the second Provisional IRA attack on railroad installations in Ulster in the past 24 hours.

OUT-OF-CONTROL FERRY HITS WHARF

NANAIMO (CP) — An equipment malfunction aboard the Queen of Coquitlam ferry is thought to be the cause of an accident Tuesday which resulted in about $250,000 worth of damage to the British Columbia Ferries loading wharf here.

A spokesman for the Crown ferries corporation said Wednesday that the Queen of Coquitlam was approaching the dock according to normal procedure at 4:57 p.m. It came into the dock much faster than expected, however, damaging the vessel's loading doors and the overhead ramp on shore.

There was no problem unloading the vessel, and it made a return trip to Vancouver where it was put in dry dock for repairs.

The spokesman said $250,000 was only a tentative estimate. The ferry was expected to be operating again by the weekend.

5-Cent Battle On Booze

B.C. drinkers will pay a surcharge of up to a nickel a bottle to finance a $2 million advertising campaign telling them to imbibe less.

The cabinet Wednesday authorized Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair to launch the program.

Mair said the moderation program will definitely go ahead, but the five-cent levy may be less if the federal government, as is hoped, supports the project.

"The five cents has been authorized so that we can go that way if necessary," Mair said.

The surcharge will apply only to hard liquor.

Asked if the campaign would be blunt or soft-sell, the minister said: "I get the mood of the government as being the same as my mood — that you don't pussy-foot on messages of this sort."

School Buried

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — A mudslide engulfed a provincial schoolhouse in northeastern Bahia state, killing as many as 40 schoolchildren, newspaper reports said today.

The Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Globo said the school, located in Fazenda Tombador some 80 miles north of the provincial capital of Salvador, was buried in mud shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday after days of rain had loosened the soil of a drought-parched hill overlooking the building.

O Globo said authorities in Salvador sent at least 30 federal police and rescuers to the scene, but by midnight only four bodies — those of three children and a teacher — had been recovered.

The Rio newspaper O Dia said firemen in Alagoinhas, a few miles from the school, told them that the building had been completely covered, trapping the entire student body of 40 children inside.

Quebec Byelection Chance for Ryan?

Times News Services

Quebec Premier Rene Levesque Wednesday called a July 5 byelection for Montreal's Notre Dame de Grace riding, vacated by the resignation of Bryce Mackasey.

The call came just as Claude Ryan — the man most observers feel could easily win the seat — was winding up a highly-publicized jaunt to Ottawa to confer with Prime Minister Trudeau on constitutional reform.

Ryan, who took over as Quebec Liberal leader less than three weeks ago and has no seat in the provincial legislature, refused to tip his hand on whether or not he will run.

In Ottawa, Trudeau and Ryan "agreed to proceed differently" in an intensive examination of fundamental constitutional matters which divide Quebec and the rest of Canada.

The agreement came during what Ryan called a "frank and cordial conversation" that lasted three hours over lunch at 24 Sussex Drive.

The meeting was the first between Trudeau and Ryan since he took over the Quebec Liberals last month.

Both leaders appeared to have made a conscious effort to bury past differences. The luncheon date had been expected to break up about 2 p.m. but lasted almost 90 minutes longer.

Ryan contended some of the unity problems now facing Canada have resulted because "some of the fundamental aspects of our situation have not been thoroughly examined."

Trudeau said he had told Ryan much the same as he told the provincial premiers when he visited them last November and December, that his government intended making certain constitutional proposals.

Cloud-Burst Killer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This sea-level city is a sodden city today, still reeling from a 23-centimetre deluge that flooded streets, washed away cars, shorted out telephone service—and killed three persons.

They'd Deal With Devil

OTTAWA (CP) — A government corporation that helps finance export sales would do business with the devil, provided the devil had a good credit rating.

John MacDonald, president of the Export Development Corp. (EDC), said Wednesday the corporation's sole interest is to promote export business and it does not consider the politics of the people and countries it deals with.

He was testifying before the Commons finance committee as some members questioned EDC dealings with countries such as Guatemala and Indonesia, whose governments hold political prisoners.

John Rodriguez (NDP—Nickel Belt) said EDC financing will create more competition for Canadian businesses and eventually lead to more unemployment in Canada. But MacDonald said that at least Canadian companies are getting contracts to export machinery and components to the foreign countries.

Rodriguez, apparently exasperated, finally suggested the EDC would be prepared to do business with Adolf Hitler if he was still alive. MacDonald said he first would have to consult the government.

John Crosbie (PC—St. John's West), asked MacDonald to clarify whether the government corporation would "do business with the devil."

"A credit-worthy devil," MacDonald replied with a smile.

The finance committee is considering legislation that would raise to $26 billion from $8.85 billion the EDC's operating limits.

2,000 More Troops To Join Peacekeepers

Times News Services

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council voted without dissent Wednesday to increase the UN peacekeeping force in Lebanon by 2,000 troops to a total of 6,000.

The resolution was supported by 12 of the council's 15 members. Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union abstained and China, which opposes peacekeeping forces, did not vote.

William Barton, Canada's permanent ambassador to the UN, told the council it is vital that the resources of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) be sufficient to carry out their mandate.

Barton said the member states of the UN owe it to the peacekeepers to ensure that they have adequate forces to handle the task, as well as moral and political support.

He also condemned attacks on the UN troops.

"To fire on UN troops is to fire on the member states of the United Nations."

The added troops are expected to come from Fiji, Iran and Ireland. Contingents from France, Iran, Nepal, Norway, Senegal and Sweden are already serving in Lebanon. In addition, a small Canadian group is helping provide logistics and communications.

Meanwhile, Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat began a crackdown today on radicals who launched assaults on the UN troops, reliable Palestinian sources reported.

They said Arafat ordered the arrest and court martial of everyone involved in attacking with mortars the French military barracks near the biblical port of Tyre, ambushing two French patrols in the city.

The sources said military police units of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) began the arrests early today.

Free Family Aid to Be Cut?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The ministry of human resources is considering a proposal that would apply user fees to family-support services, forcing low-income families either to pay for preventive counselling or do without.

"The target is low-income and single-parent families," said one social worker who opposes the plan. "Items like counselling, support groups and help for their kids will be the first to go.

"We'll be called in at the crisis stage. Well, it's too late and too costly to do anything then."

A draft policy, recommending that family programs be phased in under income tests by early next year, was recently distributed to senior personnel in the ministry.

The ministry now limits the user fee, based on income tests, to day-care and homemaker services. Special-need day care, the infant-development program and all ongoing social intervention will be subject to income tests under the new scheme, the brief says.

NDP Human Resources Critic Rosemary Brown (Vancouver—Burrard), a former social worker herself, says the draft policy is destructive and short-sighted.

She said Human Resources Minister Vander Zalm doesn't understand the burden of poverty on poor people.

In the long run, such a policy will cost society more because it will effect an end of preventive social work.

She said the human resources ministry is shifting the burden of responsibility onto the attorney-general and health ministries who will eventually have to deal with the problems.

Limited income people who need the services but who can't afford the extra expense will opt not to take advantage of them, she added.

Deputy Minister John Noble said payment will encourage families to be independent.

But Hugh Millar, executive director of the B.C. Association of Social Workers, said "this ludicrous plan attacks the least vocal and most powerless group."

"Besides, who is going to collect the bills?" he asked. "They'd better hire more people or services will be cut. Workers don't have time to do all that paper shuffling."

Gov't View of Aged Rapped

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition parties banded together Wednesday to roast the federal government for its attitude toward thousands of elderly Canadians whose incomes hover near or below the poverty line.

Opposition MPs branded the government as mean, cruel and heartless for withdrawing the spouse's allowances upon the death of the elder marriage partner.

Flora MacDonald moved a Progressive Conservative motion condemning government social policies for the elderly and particularly the termination of spouse's allowances. The comments came on a day when opposition parties chose the subject for debate.

"The surviving spouse should be allowed to keep the spouse's allowance," Miss MacDonald said. "Surely the government should not look to the death of the elder marriage partner in order to achieve a windfall profit."

Stanley Knowles, the veteran New Democrat MP who has long argued the cause of widows and pensioners, supported the motion.

"If you can't expect two people to live on one pension, how can you expect one person to live on no pension," he asked.

But Welfare Minister Monique Begin said letting widows keep the $130-a-month pension would discriminate against single women under 65 who have no right to it. She added that in any event the government could not afford the Conservative proposal.

Miss MacDonald (Kingston-and-the-Islands) zeroed in on a number of government social programs including the pensions that are provided for senior citizens living on fixed and low incomes.

"It is so discouraging to think that in the Canada of today one-third of the elderly, some one million Canadians, live below the poverty line," she said.

She said the situation for unattached women aged 60 to 65 is especially cruel because no government pensions reach most of them.

Miss Begin said there is no principle behind the spouse's allowance program. It was meant "to answer the urgent problem of a couple. . .to help a practical situation, no more, no less."

To maintain the allowance until age 65 no matter if the pensioner spouse was dead would only multiply the inequities for other people, often unmarried women.

She said her first priority is to find help for single parents or two-parent families with children who are the working poor. She said these people are the most vulnerable in society and need the greatest help.

Her second priority was to find a solution for those in need between 60 and 64.

Knowles moved an amendment to the motion urging the government to stop cutting off spouse's allowances.

Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) said the government has been saying for 10 years that costs were a problem but that at some point it would move to correct the situation.

He urged the government to hasten the day when it will provide pensions for all those between 60 and 65 who are out of the labor market.

TWISTER RIPS OFF ROOF

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — A tornado ripped the roof off an elementary school near the St. Petersburg-Clearwater Airport about noon today, injuring an undertermined number of students.

A spokesman at Morton Plant Hospital said the hospital had been alerted to expect 70-to-75 youngsters, but the extent of their injuries was not known.

The twister, dipping down out of a massive storm front moving down the Florida peninsula, ripped the roof off the High Point Elementary School and also damaged a nearby vocational school and the High Point fire station.

The school is located just west of the airport between St. Petersburg and Clearwater.

Three rescue units and an engine company were dispatched from the St. Petersburg Fire Department.

Strike Pay Profitable

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-six members of the International Union of Operating Engineers, in their 13th week on strike against University of British Columbia power plants, are about to have their $100 weekly strike pay doubled — and Bill Kadey, union business manager, said Wednesday each man might soon receive as much as $350 a week.

Kadey said union local 882 has a "war chest (strike fund) so big I could stay out there myself for two years at these strike rates."

He said the fund is about $135,000 in cash, plus bonds.

The local's international office contributes $25 a week for each striker and, if necessary, working union members could be assessed to provide further aid, Kadey said.

UBC has made a 15-month and 24-month offer that would increase the power engineers' rates to a base of $1,489 and a maximum of $1,951 monthly.

Kadey said his union wants "some recognition of the discrepancy" between the current $1,587 paid power house maintenance men on strike, and $1,710 paid campus maintenance tradesmen of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

He said, despite UBC's offer, the gap will widen when the general construction industry settles this year because UBC tradesmen rates are geared to that.

Kadey said the union has a problem in bringing the strike to a head. Picketing is on a selective basis to avoid contravening the Essential Services Act, he said.

Now here – an affordable way to move up to radials.

ATLAS MK. IV THE AFFORDABLE RADIAL

Many people would like to move up from conventional belted tires to the smoother ride and improved handling given by radial tires, but, our steel-belted Mark V was too much tire for the kind of driving they did.

So, we found a solution to the problem.

MK. IV: THE AFFORDABLE RADIAL

It's the Mark IV — a new radial in the Atlas line. Mark IV is built with 2 tough Polyester body plies and 2 glass belts. The Atlas Mark IV radial gives you better cornering, ride and safety than conventional belted tires — at a price that makes it easier for you to move up to radials.

That's why we call it the affordable radial.

One Farewell Flush As Trailer Park Water Cut Off

PORT HARDY (CP) — Logger Bill Towe filled his bathtub to the brim and gave his toilet a fond farewell flush Wednesday as he awaited a shutdown of water and sewer lines servicing his home and five others at a trailer park in this north Vancouver Island community.

"They told us they were going to cut everything off no later than Wednesday night," said Towe who lives in a MacMillan Bloedel-owned park in the southeast corner of Port Hardy with his wife and five children.

"When the bathtub is empty, I'm out of water and I guess I'll have to move out. You can't live in a trailer home with a big family and no sewer and water for long."

Towe and five other families — a total of 24 people — were told this week that MB planned to cut off company-operated water and sewer lines servicing the site effective Wednesday, the final step in closing the park.

Late Wednesday, residents of the six trailers were busily draining the dregs from a big water storage tank the company filled as a farewell gesture after the lines were cut by municipal engineers — a final binge of bathing, brushing and gargling before the drought sets in for real.

The water and sewer services have been provided by the company through a system independent of the municipal facilities since MB first opened the trailer park for its logging employees in the 1940s.

But the company now is in the process of dismantling the system that once served 25 families and converting to municipal lines to service a subdivision it has under construction adjacent to the park. The two systems are incompatible.

All but six families moved, mainly to the provincial government's nearby Cedar Heights strata title trailer park, after being notified of the company's plans.

Towe bought his $12,000 trailer home last November — 17 months after MB's property management division sent out its first batch of notices to vacate.

"I figured i could get into the Cedar Heights trailer park when the time came to move," said Towe. "So, I applied to the government for permission to relocate there, but I learned a few weeks later that the new strata council established by Cedar Heights residents had rejected us."

The council turned down Towe's application and those of other families at the old site, on grounds that their trailers were substandard and unable to meet rigid new zoning standards. The municipality and the provincial government are powerless to intervene.

Towe feels he and the others have been discriminated against by the strata council.

Port Hardy mayor Brian Klaver said he'd like to help, but there's nothing the municipality can do.

Towe said he has arranged to rent an apartment in Port McNeill, south of Port Hardy, if worst comes to worst.

A FORTUNE WASHED AWAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Hawkes and Bob Hansen gazed wistfully as a fortune of herring roe — one kilometre long, one metre wide and .3 metres deep — washed up on a Point Roberts beach, and they sadly saw it washed away a few hours later.

Their sad problem was that its illegal to harvest the washed-up eggs, said Art Phillips, Washington state fisheries department officer.

The roe washed ashore in a natural, though infrequent occurrence, said Wayne Lowden, a Canadian fisheries department officer. He said that normally the roe would be caught by seaweed and would eventually hatch into herring.

Hawkes. . .fingering part of trove

The tide, however, came up and a strong south-easterly wind blew the roe to shore, he said.

"Look at that," said Hawkes, holding a quantity of roe in his hands. "That's $12 right there. Isn't that incredible."

A spokesman for W. Babcock and Co. Ltd., Vancouver fishbrokers, said roe sells for about $9 a pound in Canada. He said Canadian fishermen catch herring expressly for their roe and receive about $1,000 for a ton of the fish.

About 10 per cent of the fish is roe.

Joli Tied To Pot Smuggling

Times News Services

SEATTLE — A sailboat that has won several international races has been seized as part of an investigation into the attempted smuggling of 37 tons of marijuana into the United States, federal officials say.

"Marijuana debris" was found on board the 61-foot Joli, said Leslie Tayer, acting regional director of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

No one was aboard the vessel when it was seized while moored in Sequim Bay, Tayer said and No arrests have been made.

The boat is worth between $250,000 to $400,000 and among races it has won is the Victoria-to-Maui race in 1974.

Meanwhile, the agent in charge of United States customs in Blaine said Wednesday that three persons had been arrested for smuggling and other crimes as the result of a six-week investigation co-ordinated by the Vancouver police department.

Leslie Kinney said that in addition to the arrests, three luxury cars, two handguns and $36,000 in cash and cheques were seized at a motel in that community.

Award Limit Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Insurance Corporation of B.C. president Robbie Sherrell says lawyers are making too much money out of accident settlements.

Legal costs, he told the annual conference of the Insurance Agents Association of B.C., should be limited to "a reasonable area."

He said he believes attempts should be made to improve the present system under which damages are awarded according to blame before any move is made to a straight no-fault system in which the injured person's own insurance coverage is used for payment regardless of who is to blame for the accident.

One of the other things wrong with the present system, he said, is that there are no limits on court awards.

While awards made by Canadian courts are not now too high when compared with those in other countries, they are in relation to the injuries, Sherrell said.

He said lawyers who work on a contingency fee — a payment system under which they get an agreed percentage of any award, but nothing if the case is lost — are not entitled to half the damages given to an injured person.

Sherrell said that even a lawyer who gets only 10 per cent of an award of $100,000 and who might spend two weeks of his time on the case, receives $10,000 which is "a pretty good wage."

Sherrell noted that the contingency fee system is not used by many lawyers in Canada but said there is provision for it here.

Hard-Nosed Building Talks Seen

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia construction companies are taking a tough line in contract negotiations with building trade unions, according to a spokesman for the carpenters and joiners union.

Colin Snell said the hard-nosed approach has become apparent during the initial stages of individual trade bargaining currently under way to replace construction industry agreements which expired at midnight Sunday night.

"They're trying to turn the clock back on our agreements, but we're not going to sit back and see our contracts scuttled like that," he said.

The Great Coal Giveaway

The story that Liberal leader Gordon Gibson is unfolding concerning coal leases in B.C. reveals problems so serious that the government should immediately take a second look at the whole situation.

Gibson says the coal lease story is a "resource scandal" as big as any in our province's history. Those are exceedingly strong words, but Gibson can produce the evidence to show that a hasty decision, perhaps ill-considered, made by the government three months ago, could, if it remains in place, have harmful effects on the resource development in B.C. for years to come.

The problem, as Gibson freely admits, is that coal lease procedures are so complex and technical that they will never excite the imagination of the public or become a politically hot issue. But in fact the resolution of the matter is sure to have a far greater long-term effect on the province than the ticket-juggling antics of Jack Davis or the patronage appointments of Ed Smith.

Already the results of the coal lease policy are beginning to come clear: a few large companies, some now engaged in coal development, others moving in from the oil and natural gas fields, are acquiring exploration rights — which almost automatically means production rights — to the remaining known Crown-owned coalfields in B.C. for a minimal charge. No competitive bids are required, no bonus payments to the government are demanded and the government is giving up all the land rather than saving some for future sale or lease.

The most amazing part of this is that it is all in direct contradiction to the policy the government was proposing last summer. At that point, with an NDP-imposed moratorium on coal licences still in place, Premier Bill Bennett, emphasizing the growing importance of coal to the B.C. economy, said the government was working on a competitive bid system for coal similar to that now in effect for oil and natural gas leases — a system that brings the government millions of dollars in revenue every year (more than $140 million last year). There was also an understanding that, like oil and gas leases, coal leases would be allotted on a checkerboard pattern with the government holding back some of the alternate squares for future use.

Last fall Mines Minister Jim Chabot went further and told a coal conference in Edmonton that a bid system had been worked out and was ready to go into operation.

So, what happened? In early February last year the cabinet's coal committee met with representatives of the coal industry, then met on its own to make a final policy decision. The decision: to abandon entirely the idea of bids and checkerboards and go back to the old system of first come, first serve in allowing leases on any and all coal lands in B.C.

Within days the large oil and coal corporations had their applications in for leases covering almost 600 square miles of prime coal land.

Although the applications are still being processed, the companies will probably get leases on Crown land that could eventually net them millions of dollars a year in profits, practically for the price of a piece of paper and a guarantee that some exploration and development work will be done each year.

This is simply not the best way of disposing of B.C.'s non-renewable resources. Far more care should be taken to ensure that everyone, small companies as well as large corporations, has a fair chance to bid for leases and that the people of B.C. receive their fair share of the province's resources.

There does not appear to be any great need for haste to get this coal out of the ground. Indeed most of the coal involved is metallurgical coal for which the current market is extremely soft. The "stall" that Bennett has announced should last as long as it takes for the government to develop a policy that better meets the needs of the 1970s.

Hale and Hearty Humbug

We are as happy as a motel operator on the July 1 weekend that Captain Cook and the bicentennial of his discovery of Friendly Cove have brought prosperity and wealth to the B.C. tourist industry, but there ought to be a law restraining Travel Industry Minister Grace McCarthy's press release writers.

The latest on her behalf from Vrlak Robinson Advertising Ltd. announces in prose so breathless it pants the momentous news that the Royal Hudson train is returning to B.C. after a transcontinental tour. A simple declarative sentence or two would have sufficed, no?

No. Read on, but not on a full stomach.

"Hale [sic] the homebound Hudson! The Royal Hudson Steam Train, whistling 'Oh [sic] Canada' with notes made sweeter by proud success, is on her way home. British Columbia's renowned travelling ambassador is now in the west, completing the last leg of a spectacular transcontinental journey. A mission has been fulfilled, and Engine 2860, the harbinger of the Captain Cook Bicentennial, has carried the spirit of British Columbia across the land."

Next, when they change her oil, an epic poem in iambic pentameter with heroic refrain: "Ho, the home-grown Hudson humbug!"

BRUCE HUTCHISON

Playing Politics for Keeps

Of all political campaigns in Canada's modern history the one already under way is surely the most bewildering, its issues most confused, its immediate partisan result most dubious. But if the public views it with a mixture of apathy and alarm, the decision ahead is uniquely important because the next government must lead us through times uniquely dangerous, for reasons plain to everyone. The nation is no longer playing the old genial game of politics. It is playing for keeps.

Two parties, Liberal and Conservative — names virtually meaningless nowadays — seek a mandate to govern us. A mandate, yes, but for what policy, what kind of government, what kind of nation, what kind of world? The parties do not say because they do not know, beyond vague generalities, in Canada or anywhere else. This election is a minor local incident in a worldwide process of change, revolution, disorder or human progress, describe it as you please. No wonder the politicians in all countries utter only solemn warnings and sleek platitudes to disguise their dearth of answers.

Unworkable

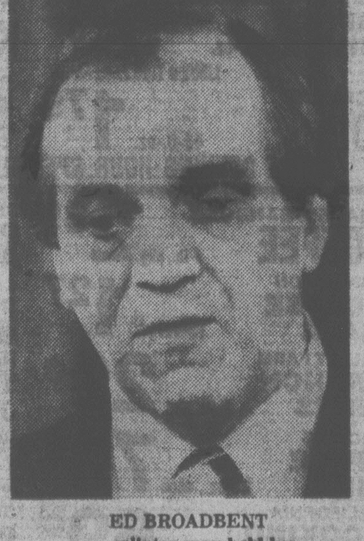
In fact, we are asked to give our next government almost a blank cheque negotiable at the bank oddly known as participatory democracy, but there is nothing new in that procedure. We have signed many such cheques in the past and Edmund Burke's classic message to his electors of Bristol, in the 18th century, still holds good. The government and parliament of a free society must act in circumstances unforeseeable on election day, frequently on information unknown to the public and sometimes with unpopular though essential measures.

Lincoln's devotion to government "of the people, by the people and for the people" was never more than a distant aspiration quite unworkable in day-to-day business, more unworkable than ever in these chaotic times. With additional experience he said: "I claim not to have controlled events but confess plainly that events have controlled me." So they will control the next Canadian government, regardless of its plans and intentions.

Does anyone suppose, for example, that the people can decide the interest rate, the money supply and the foreign loans arranged by the Bank of Canada and intimately affecting every aspect of the economy; the bargaining of new tariff and trade deals at Geneva; the details of foreign and defence planning that, by their nature, are secret? Can anyone foresee the future of the strained and limping world economy in which Canada earns its livelihood? Of course not.

The choice facing us, therefore, is not between one sacred principle or another, not between the ideological right and left, not between good and evil, not between two satisfactory alternatives but between two clumsy political coalitions neither of them adequate and neither truly a national party.

Which group can better manage the imponderables of the next four years? That is the practical question confronting us, personified and greatly overdramatized by two men, Pierre Trudeau and Joe Clark, as if they were indispensable, the future hopeless if they disappeared.



ED BROADBENT
. . . splinter may hold key

We know that Trudeau is brilliant, exciting and often infuriating but we also know that the economic and financial record of his government cannot be defended.

We know, on the other hand that Clark has yet to prove himself able to govern the nation when he has no experience in any office. Even if he possesses the necessary talents for later use, his government could not succeed without a credible presence in Quebec, so far lacking just as Trudeau has failed to win the confidence of the west.

That is not the way our political system was intended to work, and used to work, but it is the way things happen to be. The election offers us Hobson's ancient choice and we must make the best of it. But we need not expect either party to find painless, simple solutions for our problems whatever the candidates say in the campaign.

The problems are so deeply entrenched, of such long origins, the result of so many blunders that it will take a considerable time, and more patience, to solve them, even in a favorable world climate.

This is true of the strictly economic problems and truer of the so-called national unity problems. For there can be no chance of negotiating new constitutional arrangements with the separatist regime of Quebec which proposes to destroy the constitution and the nation together.

Years of Uncertainty

It should be possible to negotiate with a government led by Claude Ryan, assuming that he can beat Rene Levesque, but it will not be quick or easy. We face at least several years of uncertainty, trial and error, inescapable under any federal government.

Meanwhile, the most reassuring news in Canada today is that the public has begun to grasp these facts of life after ignoring and aggravating them for a full decade or more.

If Canadians have indeed clarified their understanding of reality, they could make a third choice, far worse than the other two. They could elect a government without a majority, living at the mercy of a New Democratic Party splinter, Ed Broadbent's policies rejected at the polls but dominant in the House of Commons, a minority in control, the democratic process burlesqued.

Unthinkable as it may appear, the opinion polls suggest that we are capable of repeating the worst of all mistakes which cost us dear in some former elections. We still have the time but do we have the sense to avoid it?

Sir Neal Sticks His Foot In

LONDON — Britain's first celebration on May Day with the workers of the world was a washout at home but a bomb abroad, thanks to the chief of defence staff.

Sir Neal Cameron, marshal of the Royal Air Force and Britain's military boss, told the Chinese they share a common enemy "whose capital is Moscow."

He made the remark on a visit to tank troops in Peking before the Russians had even finished taking the salute in Red Square or British socialists had picked up sodden banners from the march to Hyde Park Corner.

Drunken Rabbit?

It made what was otherwise a disastrously damp and dull bank holiday go off like a squib. While relations between Britain and China have been ahead of the rest of the west — in terms of diplomatic recognition, contact, trade and cultural exchange — Cameron was certainly stretching things by joining the Chinese in the next great war against the Soviet Union.

Pravda summoned up its vilest epithets in horrified reaction. Sir Neal, the official Soviet newspaper declared, was like "an intoxicated hare." At least that was the British translation.

The left wing of Britain's labor government was not far behind in fury. Norman Atkinson, a hard-line MP, linked the loquacious defence chief with "mischief-making" leaks which are being investigated in the defence department. Sir Neal's invitation to the Chinese to pool weaponry know-how would wreck the cause of disarmament. Perhaps so, if one were looking for such an excuse.

The reflex was equally amusing on the other side: Sir Neal was quite right, and his remarks "extremely sensible," according to the Conservative party defence spokesman, Sir Ian Gilmour.

This apparent plunge by Britain into major league power politics was downplayed at first by Foreign Secretary David Owen, who said he did not think what the air marshal said would alienate the Soviet Union.

Under certain circumstances this might be true. The Russians might just laugh it off, as they themselves said. After all, what is Britain going to do to them? In such a context what anyone says just doesn't matter.

But there was a reason for the cuddly stuff, one unfortunately at the root of all too much of the world's diplomacy; Britain wants to sell arms to China.

Specifically, Britain wants to sell Harrier "jump jets" — aircraft with virtually vertical takeoff and landing capability. Just the thing for border skirmishing. And the Chinese have been becoming more apprehensive again about the Russian threat along their border, heightened in their view by a recent report that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev "inspected" the Russian side.

Other items the Chinese are interested in buying from Britain include Rolls-Royce engines, air-to-air and surface-to-air missiles and antitank weapons.

They plan to send a military mission to Britain later this year to have a look at some of this stuff.

Owen could not have put it more succinctly: "We wish to improve our trade, cultural and historic links with China and are prepared to discuss matters of defence interest."

Owen subsequently conceded that there is a deliberate attempt by Britain to improve relations with China, even though he also indicated that Sir Neal's remarks were his own work and had not been previously cleared in Whitehall.

Military Snub

But not all Britain's NATO allies will take an enthusiastic view of the British initiative to play Peking off against Moscow, a la Nixon.

The U.S. for one, might object. It likes to keep these things under its own control. Anything (like new fighter jets) that might upset the situation in Korea or Taiwan — and anywhere in southeast Asia — would cause U.S. apprehension.

The British, most uncharitably, hint that the U.S. only wants to hold off British arms sales until it has perfected its own "jump jets" to sell to China.

There is, finally, one more possible explanation of Sir Neal's audacious conduct. He might just be miffed at the snub military leaders got from Prime Minister James Callaghan. They wanted to consult him before he announced pay raises for servicemen which have since been criticized as inadequate.

Birds in the Bush

How strange! On the one hand a man is paid to attract businesses to Victoria in order to create more job opportunities, and on the other hand the actions of some council members and union leaders seem intent on destroying an established business that provides an important service to some citizens, plus jobs for over 100 people.

AirWest airline provides a speedy transit service for business executives and government officials who must travel frequently to Vancouver, saving valuable time and eliminating costly overnight stays, costs which if incurred, would be passed on to consumers or taxpayers.

The needs of tourists will be catered to with individuals hawking a variety of wares on the causeway, yet AirWest, catering to the needs of citizens all the year round, seems to be getting the bum's rush.

Wouldn't it be wiser to be more accommodating with the bird in our hand, if we wish to attract the birds in the bush? — Ruby A. Pearson, 2085 Avondale Road.

Wonderful Show

The folk arts of many parts of the Indian subcontinent portrayed a phase of Canada's multicultural heritage recently at Oak Bay junior high school auditorium. Here a truly family audience, ranging from babes in arms to grandparents, were being shown, the old remembering, and the cast of young and not so young reliving the age-old group amusements of music, song and dance, while those of non-Indian origin saw some of the source material for Canada's future artists. The grace of the colorful sari-clad ladies, the vigorous dance of vividly clad men, the gentle circular dances of the ladies, the wild drum-ridden Punjabi Bhangra, the beautiful Punjabi bridal ritual, songs of Bengal and the Punjab and a sitar medley and songs made for delightfully different evening for the writer.

To Mr. Sehmi, the architect of the performance and to his wife Surindra belongs the credit for a very successful presentation. May I, on behalf of all those of non-Indian origin, offer him and his cast heartfelt thanks for a very pleasant live introduction to India and its people. May the Victoria Cultural Association of India and Canada long continue their efforts in assisting in the development of a greater Canadian culture. — E. F. Smith, 820 Craigflower Road.

Goofy Garbage

Although new to B.C. from Ontario I can't understand why this city's garbage here is so difficult to be picked up. Presently, if your trash is in the correct type can, correct size, correct handles on it, you have an unobstructed view and path to it, easy to lift, your chances of having it picked up are good. But, if your trash in in plastic cans, bagged in plastic bags and neatly put out front with the rest, you'll likely have it thrown back on your yard for the city's loose animal kingdom to tear it apart prior to you getting home from work.

How come, you ask? You can't expect our taxes to keep this city clean too, do you? After all who needs a clean town?

A Good Bylaw

I, for one, am sorry Saanich's tree protection bylaw is being condemned without any sort of trial. It is an extremely advanced concept, but apparently beyond acceptance by many who are unable to "see the forest for the trees."

The originator of this proposed bylaw should be congratulated on his foresight and initiative. It could have been the much-needed basis of similar bylaws in other areas, to prevent the loss of so many of our trees by chop-happy individuals. — Virginia Bartkow, 2772 Vantilburg Crescent.

Snake's Belly

The Socreds have increased taxes, ferry rates, Hydro, bus fares and so on while lowering aid to the needy and handicapped and almost all programs for people.

The latest of their jolly capers needs some comment.

Now they are raising an unquenchable thirst! The taxes on liquor and cigarettes are nothing but an abomination and a direct cut in the pleasures and income of the needy.

It has always been considered, until this screwball dynasty took over, that a workingman was entitled to have a beer or drink or two after a hard day's labor. At today's prices I can see a drop in liquor revenue rather than an increase.

As a pensioner how can I afford to buy four drinks for my wife and I? What cost 40 cents a few years back now costs $2 or more. This gang is out to rob us of all our little perquisites of life and confine us to our homes which we can't afford!

Then there is the cry of paying off a debt that never existed except in their phoney books. Space won't permit going into this thoroughly but it rates like all their other legislation, lower than a snake's belly! — P. Simpson, 2536 Forbes Street.

Menu for the Future: Chips with Everything

katharine whitehorn

LONDON — The last time I met the computer people they were jovially swapping stories of outwitting their machines or their employers, of getting the computers to wipe their circuits clean if the programmer was ever sacked, or to shell out a million illegal dollars without leaving a trace.

I met them again a few days ago at the Association for Computing Machinery Conference; it was a very different scene. They were confused; they were doubtful; they were wondering whether, like Dr. Frankenstein, they had created a monster that nobody could control.

What has changed in the meantime, of course, is simply the silicon chip on to which dirt-cheap, pea-sized item it is now possible to put as much information as would once have taken a computer as big as the Ritz. Governments and firms and unions, too, are beginning to realize that we're into a second industrial revolution.

It's not just that, as every schoolboy knows, pocket calculators have removed the need for learning your tables. The calculator industry itself is going for a Burton; also the Swiss watch industry, since all those tiny workings can now be put on to a chip costing less than $3. People who use British Leyland as a swear-word can now stop: in another 10 years even the welding will be automated, and English as she is Speke will simply disappear.

Warehousing, mining, shopping will be done with scarcely any people; and in particular the 'word-processing' jobs of typing and duplicating and printing will be done by computers and TV screens instead. It's calculated that eight typists will soon be able to cope with the letters of 1,000 executives — though heaven knows who will smooth their egos and make their tea.

One can be skeptical about some of it, of course. We are supposed to be able to shop without leaving the house but who wants to? Or the automated house itself. In theory it might be able to wake you up and cook your coffee for you, but in practice you're as likely to be on the phone trying to get the repair man to come and stop it giving you 40 bottles of lemonade instead.

And though the new generation of computers can work here, there and everywhere, so that men can work at home, I bet they'll still prefer to congregate in offices. Just as well, perhaps; my husband works at home, and we are still on speaking terms, but I assure you it's only because we are known for our saintly natures and I'm out half the time anyway.

Still, a vast amount of it is all going to come true, and soon at that. And there's no point in talking about reflation and retraining and job mobility and changes in the money supply as a 'cure' for unemployment; for the plain fact of the matter is that we are never going to have enough jobs again. Not, at least, as we conceive of them now.

There are several scenarios being kicked around, none of them very cheering. We can try to put off the whole thing, with unions blocking automation — but that way our goods will cost twice what any other country's do. We won't be able to buy our raw materials, nor import food, firms will go bust, so we'll get the unemployment anyway.

We can get in on the act ourselves and hope that we can gradually go over to more and more service jobs instead of manufacturing ones, just as we have moved from agriculture to manufacturing in the past 200 years. Optimists say why not, teachers can teach smaller classes (though half of their jobs can be done by machines, too), we can have more social workers and psychologists and dance teachers; and this theory that we can live by taking in one another's brainwashing does have some quite serious economic backers.

Or, of course, if we get five million unemployed we might well have a revolution; following Russia and China, whose solution to unemployment is more inefficiency. So it could take six dockets and eight people to buy a pencil sharpener or 40 Chinese to manhandle one small cart across a road. Even then they have their own raw materials and food sources; we haven't.

We might avoid at least some of the unemployment by spreading the work a whole lot thinner — this is the solution favored by Barrie Sherman of ASTMS, th union that's done the most work on this — as well it might, since white-collar jobs are so seriously threatened. It's certainly a far better answer than having half the work-force just standing idle — there's all the difference in the world between having even a two-hour-a-day job round which to arrange your bee-keeping, your chess, your pint at the pub and having no reason to get up in the morning at all.

Unless, of course, we can change our whole attitude to work; so that people no longer define themselves by what they do; and gentlemen in England now abed can stay there with a clear conscience thinking beautiful thoughts. But I don't know how the hell you do this — it's not just the 'Protestant work ethic' — of all the world's peoples the ones most fixed on the value of work and the worker are the Russians, who were never Protestant, and the Chinese, who were never even Christian.

And there's the extreme Ivan Illich proposition, of course, that we go back to using legs instead of cars, herbs instead of doctors and give over on technology altogether. But even if he's right about peasants getting such a kick out of building their own hovels and plucking their own geese, I don't see how eight million Londoners, say, can suddenly start growing their own corn and keeping pigs in the tower block flats.

The government has finally set up some committtees on all this, and there seem to be computer conferences erupting almost every week. But one wishes, not for the first time, that our rulers read more science fiction. Just about every horror possibility has been thrashed out there — they could start with John Brunner's The Shockwave Rider and then have a bash at Vonnegut's Player Piano, a truly ghastly picture of a society where muscle has no meaning, everyone is fed and catered for by machines, and the only people who enjoy anything are the people who plan the computers. But such things don't figure much in curricula devoted to conventional economics and how to drag in the vote in Bradford.

I don't know the answer — or even if there is one. But women had better start thinking about it; partly because it's their secretarial jobs that will get the chop next, and partly because there's bound to be a move to get us back into the kitchen and leave what jobs there are for men— though whether they'll be happy to start supporting their sisters and aunts and daughters again is another matter. Who knows — we might even, if things get bad enough, be glad to go. It would be ironical if the only people left in an automated society who ever had any fun were the people who program the computers and the women who program the children. They will never, I fancy, manage to automate that.

Not the Time for Moralizing

By MICHAEL VALPY

Police stand guard over 600 bales of marijuana seized last month in Maine

OTTAWA — How governments work for you — a comparative study. The issue is this: what are the responsibilities of the ministry of national health and welfare to try to protect a certain group of Canadians from the risk of severe lung damage?

What are the responsibilities, that is, when that group of Canadians is the marijuana-smoking section of the population? A group, by health and welfare calculations, that is currently swelling by 25,000 to 32,000 more people each year.

Several weeks ago the news came out that the United States government was behind a scheme to spray marijuana fields in Mexico with the herbicide Paraquat. Paraquat is supposed to turn marijuana plants into fine dust within three days under direct exposure to sunlight.

What the perpetrators of this scheme did not figure on — and let's consider it analagous to the G-men dropping arsenic into illicit stills during Prohibition — was that the marijuana would be harvested on the day of spraying and then stored away from sunlight where it would not disintegrate.

Thus Paraquat-sprayed marijuana has made its way to the commercial market. Although toxic dose levels are not known precisely, public health officials in the United States and Canada say inhalation of Paraquat can cause irreversible lung damage and they have warned of poisoning symptoms that include severe anemia, nose bleeds, diarrhea and eye irritation.

Late last week the health protection branch of national health and welfare announced that two — from Oshawa and Oakville — of 33 samples of marijuana it had tested contained Paraquat. The 33 samples were all seized in arrests by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and came from communities from coast to coast (one sample, for example, was from Trail).

Paraquat levels in the contaminated samples were 150 (Oshawa) and 170 (Oakville) parts per million. No one knows what a safe level is, but some American public health people, before the marijuana problem, had been using an upper limit of 0.5 to 1.0 ppm.

The RCMP is the only source for marijuana the health protection branch is using. The branch does not know when the contaminated marijuana was seized. It does not know its distribution range ("After all, when you're arrested, you say as little as possible," a branch spokesman said. That, however, is exactly the problem with relying on police-seized samples.)

The branch does not know how much marijuana on the market might have come from Mexico — although the spokesman said he was "a hundred per cent positive the RCMP would have that kind of information." (It is estimated that 20 per cent of the marijuana sold in the U.S. comes from Mexico.) And neither the branch nor the office of Health and Welfare Minister Monique Begin could say if any more testing would be done, or whether the RCMP would be asked to supply more samples.

What the branch spokesman did say was this: It is most unlikely that testing will be done on samples brought in by worried users. "There is a moral and philosophical problem," he said. "This is an illegal substance . . . and should we be in the business of doing quality control on an illegal substance? How far do you go?"

He made the question rather rhetorical. "There's a little bit of moralizing in our statement. That's as far as we're going."

The moral and philosophical dilemma is appreciated. But let us look at how it has been handled in the United States by government agencies, particularly the federal Centre for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia.

"We've not faced up squarely to the moral and philosophical dilemma, I'm afraid," the centre's Dr. Philip Landrigan told me. "We're going ahead with it as a health problem."

How incredibly daring by Canadian standards.

The centre is approaching the problem on two fronts.

First, it is giving what assistance it can to private or state laboratories licensed by federal authorities to test illegal substances. The assistance is in the form of providing testing standards once the presence of Paraquat is determined (the centre plays a similar role in testing children's blood for lead levels).

Second, the centre has begun studies of dose-response relationships — that is, determining the relationship between alleged symptoms of Paraquat toxicity and the amount of marijuana smoked and the chemical analysis of the marijuana used.

Marijuana users are told they can bring in their samples to a designated laboratory and — to protect their anonymity — label it with nothing more than a five-digit number. A week later, they call the laboratory, give the number, and are told whether their stash is pure or not.

Dr. Landrigan says this whole approach has been worked out with the co-operation of federal and state government authorities and police. He also suggested (strongly) that support for the spraying scheme is about to be withdrawn.

Well . . . back to Canada.

The federal health and welfare people, to begin with, have at least a 10-year history of discouraging designated laboratories in Canada from doing quality control tests on illegal drugs. (They put pressures, for example, on Ontario's Addiction Research Foundation in the late 1960s to cut out doing analyses and reports on street LSD for the presence of strychnine and other substances; the same arguments were used then as now.)

Then out to Vancouver . . . where the one regional designated laboratory (at Vancouver General Hospital) is balking at doing tests, and where the RCMP is putting pressure on the local branch of the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) to turn over the samples it is holding for testing so that they can be destroyed.

So much for an approach to a health problem.

Of course, marijuana is illegal and people should stop smoking it. They should also stop smoking cigarettes, eating junk food, boozing themselves into oblivion and sitting around in front of the television set instead of going out and doing exercise.

Brave Are the Young

By JOHN LEONARD
New York Times

They are very young, my friends. (Everybody all around me gets younger and younger; it is a deplorable trend.) They have lived together in Rochester for several years. Living together in Rochester is somewhat better than living alone in Rochester, but still no bargain. It seems always to be cold in Rochester; in mid-April it was snowing in Rochester; Rochester is the second cloudiest city in America, behind Seattle. In massive, windowless buildings all over Rochester people are coating film.

* * *

On the campus of the Rochester Institute of Technology, the art students must trudge a mile over the frozen tundra to achieve a dandy wind tunnel. It is dangerous to cross the frozen tundra with a large canvas; the wind picks you up like a sail and you are suddenly in Buffalo. My colleague Richard Eder suggests that a new school of American miniaturists will emerge, all of them former art students at RIT who had to carry their paintings in their pockets.

Don't ask why Richard Eder was in Rochester. He was on his way to Milwaukee. One of the nice things about reviewing books for a living, instead of reviewing plays, is that books stay home. I was in Rochester to defend the printed word against the apocalyptic seizures of McLuhanism, and to see my young friends. At least Richard Eder had a trench coat. I am writing a memo to God about the weather in Rochester. While I am at it, I will explain that it is the purpose of parking lots to be near something. Why are all of Rochester's parking lots in Buffalo?

My young friends are soon to be married, and to leave Rochester. I, of couse, consider both of these decisions to be sensible. She was glad to see me because she is my sister, and that is her job. He was glad to see me because my sister is a vegetarian, and I was taking them out to a restaurant where he was allowed to look at meat.

My young friends have a car. It is obligatory in Rochester to have a car, in order to occupy all the space in the parking lots in Buffalo. This car lacked a back seat. There was, instead, a kind of wind tunnel, where my sister stretched out flat, making jokes. I sat in front because I could not stretch out, even on a rack; my body was a clenched fist. We drove through swamps and psychiatric hospitals to their apartment. It consists of two rooms. I don't count the kitchen because young people in the reduced circumstances of graduate studentship don't really have kitchens; they have closets. Besides, without meat there is no kitchen; there are merely ice cubes.

In the smaller of these two rooms, they work. In the larger, they read and listen to music and sleep. They sleep in a loft abutting the nonkitchen, which is an efficient use of space and a fine place to hide the Sunday newspapers, unless you are not a midget and want some ice cubes. I am known occasionally to exaggerate, and my young friends aren't midgets. But neither have they ever been asked to join a basketball team. They are close to the earth, to be nearer, I suppose, to the roots they eat. I thawed.

* * *

And I was surprisingly happy. My sister grew up in California, where she learned to play the guitar and sing "All My Trials" and set type and eat roots and stretch out to make jokes. She smiles constantly, which isn't popular in Rochester, where they think you're trying to steal their body heat or the coat on their film. Of Whittaker Chambers, Arthur Koestler said: "Such peculiar birds are found only in the trees of the revolution." Of my sister, I say: "Such a splendid bird can thaw even Rochester." The best sort of Californian makes a California nest, even in the trees of Eastman Kodak. She brought California with her, like a guitar: white-washed walls, smokey cats, impertinent plants, books, records, prints and sunlight. There was probably sand in the bathroom, although I never found a bathroom. I thawed in California, which is the idea that there is a future.

And I was pitched into the past, remembering a two-room apartment in San Francisco when my circumstances were so reduced that the bed was in a closet and the kitchen was a hot plate and we listened to Harry Belafonte and read Herb Caen. Grim, indeed, but we didn't know it at the time. Children and artichokes and Lee Harvey Oswald were still in the future, unseen ghosts. It was possible to go on a Sunday to Golden State Park, for free, to eat sourdough and drink zinfandel and watch the dentists on their polo ponies brandish mallets. Between one chukker and another we would tread upon the green, and tamp down divots dislodged by the hooves of the rich. Our film had not yet been developed.

* * *

The young are brave, of course, because they are innocent and belong in California, where nothing dies including love. A Rochester is unimaginable to the young. I am, humbly, a miniaturist, with pocket-size thoughts. In Paris, in the Tuileries, the trees are wired for sound. You can listen to a poet, as long as he is French. Poets are the ghosts in the trees of the French Revolution. I don't know about Rochester. Maybe there's a tree in my sister's bathroom, with the sand. Maybe the bathrooms, like the parking lots, are in Buffalo.

I am a tree in a wind tunnel; youth blows by. California recedes from the Union.

My sister plays the guitar; her hair is chords. I wish her a future, and love, and some place to park, and lofty music.

S. KOREA TRADE CONTRACT EYED

Economic Development Minister Don Phillips said Wednesday he expects export contracts to be signed soon with South Korea.

Phillips made the statement after meeting a South Korean trade delegation led by Yie Joon Chang, the country's minister of energy and natural resources. The talks centred on possible export of British Columbia thermal and metallurgical coal to Korea.

He said the export outlook looks good because Korea plans to build a new mill to enable it to double its iron and steel production and two new thermal generators.

Phillips said that before exports can take place, however, a firm negotiating framework must be set up among the two governments and various companies involved.

Premier Bill Bennett also met briefly with the delegation.

Budget Not Tied To Election

Opposition critics are wrong if they think the Social Credit government's budget is an election budget, Premier Bill Bennett said Wednesday.

"There will be no provincial election this year," he told the legislature during debate on his estimates.

"We were elected to do something for the people of B.C. — to get the economy on the move again — and we are doing it as can be seen in our budget."

Bennett renewed his pledge to establish a heritage fund similar to that in Alberta following a plea by Cyril Shelford (SC — Skeena) for a fund which would permit government bodies to borrow without having to go outside the province.

This, he said, would reduce the province's reliance on foreign investment.

Gas Shortage Now Surplus

A surplus of B.C. natural gas this year is the result of the province honoring its commitments to supply U.S. markets last year, Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Jim Chabot said Wednesday.

Chabot confirmed the B.C. Petroleum Corp. has asked B.C. gas producers to cut production substantially.

The addition of Alberta gas to U.S. Pacific Northwest markets is the main reason, he said. Last year when it became obvious B.C. couldn't meet its commitments to U.S. customers, the province reluctantly made an agreement with Alberta to help with supplies.

Now both B.C. and Alberta gas is pouring into the U.S. and there is a surplus.

Chabot said he doesn't believe the cutbacks are as high as 30 per cent, as suggested in the legislature Tuesday by Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East).

Handicapped Home Opening on Friday

The official opening of the G.R. Pearkes Clinic's new home for handicapped adults will take place at 2 p.m. Friday at 238 Obed Avenue.

Board chairman Joe Bourque will be joined by Sen. Ray Perrault of Vancouver, as well as provincial and municipal representatives.

Previously confined to a hospital setting, the four wheelchair residents of the new home (two men and two women) will now be able to live independently.

The home is the first of its kind to be built in Canada and has been jointly designed by the residents and architect.

The project was completed in 15 months at a cost of $88,000. It was financed under the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation's social housing program with contributions from service clubs and individuals.

The four residents have spent the past year preparing themselves to move into the group home.

THE SHELL X-100 STEEL RADIAL

THE SECOND BEST REASON TO GET IT IS THE PRICE

What's the first and best reason of all? Security when you and your family are on the road. You get it because the Shell X-100 Steel Radial is built tough. With double steel belts you can count on for protection against common road hazards like potholes or debris. Protection you can't be sure of with lower priced fabric-belted radials.

The X-100 Steel Radial is built to last. It's made to meet or exceed original specifications. It has a 40,000 mile rating. And it's backed with a warranty: not just against manufacturer's defects but also for protection against common road hazards.*

Compared to belted-bias tires, the X-100 Steel Radial delivers a smoother ride with improved handling. Plus better gas mileage because there's less rolling resistance.

How much do you have to pay for a tire this good? That's the second best reason to get it because the X-100 Steel Radial is priced from just $47.95 or less! What's more, if you're not completely satisfied, your Shell dealer will refund your money up to 30 days after purchase.

The Shell X-100 Steel Radial. Security on the road, Shell's unique 30 day trial period plus good price value. That's reason enough to see your Shell dealer today!

Fish Jobs Investigated

Labor Minister Allan Williams said Wednesday he has requested a report on the status of Japanese citizens working in B.C. canneries on temporary work permits.

He made the statement in the legislature in reply to a question by Graham Lea (NDP — Prince Rupert) who asked if the minister had been in contact with federal officials about the conditions attached to the work permits issued to the 450 Japanese workers.

"The practice of issuing temporary work visas is a matter which we view with some concern," Williams said. "It is a practice of the federal department that we have been unable to control as yet."

Lea said outside the legislature the Japanese were hired as "so-called technicians" but are doing ordinary work.

"There is no need to have one single Japanese working in B.C. canneries, especially in view of the high unemployment here."

Lea said the imported workers are living in substandard housing provided by the companies, and were being paid on the lower Japanese wage scale as a result of arrangements made through the firms purchasing the canned goods.

Ferry Lease Saves $20M Says Wolfe

The sale and subsequent leaseback of three ferries will save the B.C. government more than $20.8 million, Finance Minister Evan Wolfe said Wednesday.

Wolfe told the legislature the government received $48.4 million for the three vessels — the Queen of Coquitlam, the Queen of Alberni and the Queen of Cowichan — which were sold through investment dealer McLeod, Young, Weir Ltd.

He said the firm received commissions totalling $243,000 for the sale of the vessels.

The minister said the effective rate of interest being paid is 7.09 per cent excluding the acquisition of the ferries at the end of the lease, or 7.71 per cent if the ferries are acquired.

Wolfe calculated that the sale-leaseback of the Queen of Alberni will save the province $370,880 a year for 18 years; the Queen of Coquitlam, $431,800; and the Queen of Cowichan, $355,300.

Indians Eligible

Letters informing certain native Indian bands they were not eligible for the provincial government's summer youth employment program were inappropriate, Labor Minister Allan Williams said Wednesday.

Williams, minister responsible for Indian affairs, said the bands are eligible if they comply with the regulations.

Graham Lea (NDP — Prince Rupert) asked Williams Tuesday to comment on a letter sent by his ministry to the Kitasoo Band which states: "I regret to inform you that native Indian bands do not qualify from funding under the program."

Williams said the letter was in error.

INDUSTRIAL PARK PLAN

The B.C. Development Corporation is planning to transform the Railwest railcar manufacturing plant site in Squamish into an industrial park, Economic Development Minister Don Phillips said Wednesday.

Phillips said in an interview that 45 companies from several countries expressed interest in the Crown-owned plant which halted production last summer because of lack of business, but none was willing to revive it.

The minister said, however, that several of the 25 firms which visited the plant site expressed interest in parts of it.

Therefore, Phillips said, the BCDC plans to transform the plant site into a small industrial park, breaking up the factory into three or four smaller segments.

today's markets

Toronto

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.44 million shares compared with 2.24 million at the same time Wednesday.

Great-West Life Assurance climbed 9⅜ to a new high of $92½ a share on the sale of 3,500 shares following its noon resumption after a report that Investors Group Ltd. was considering an offer for all shares at $95 a share. The Winnipeg-based company holds a 50.1-per-cent interest.

Canadian Vickers' parent company said it was negotiating a possible sale of its 72 per cent interest. It last traded at $30¾ a share.

Among other industrials, Atco Industries A dropped ¾ to $13, Home Oil A ½ to $40, Bell Canada ⅛ to $55⅞, Canadian Imperial Bank ⅜ to $27⅜ and Alcan Aluminium ¼ to $30⅞.

Power Corp. A gained 1¼ to $16, Pacific Petroleums ¾ to $38¼, Imasco A ⅝ to $34⅜, Laurentide Financial ⅝ to $8⅞ and Noranda Mines A ⅛ to $25¾.

Brenda Mines fell ¼ to $10⅜, Consolidated Morrison Explorations five cents to $1.38 and Ego Mines five cents to $2.23. Camflo Mines advanced ⅞ to $13¼ and Sigma Mines Quebec ⅜ to $30⅞.

Amalgamated Bonanza Petroleum eased ½ to $35⅛. Total Petroleum North America ¼ to $10⅛ and Ranger Oil Canada ¼ to $36¾. Numac Oil and Gas rose 1¼ to $27⅜ and Ram Petroleums ½ to $13½.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost ground for the third straight session today following the U.S. government's report of a sharp rise in wholesale prices.

Trading was active. NYSE volume totaled 25.31 million shares at mid-afternoon.

Analysts also said the market's declines of the past two days seemed to have convinced many traders that the spring rally which set trading-volume records last month had run its course.

The selling pressure was concentrated in the first hour, when the Dow fell more than 10 points. After that prices staged a gradual recovery.

American Telephone and Telegraph, the most active NYSE issue, fell ⅝ to $62⅛. A 200,000-share block traded at $61¾.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 279,800 shares, compared with 366,800 shares traded up to the same time Wednesday. Simpson's Ltd. dipped ⅛ to $5⅛, Moore Corp. ⅛ to $32¾, CP Ltd. ⅛ to $18⅛, Crush International ⅝ to $14, Brascan A ⅛ to $17, Norcen Energy Resources ⅛ to $15¾ and Bell Canada ⅛ to $55⅞. Noranda A climbed ⅛ to $25¾, Power Corp. A 1¼ to $16, IAC Ltd. ⅛ to $18 and Gaz Metropolitain ¼ to $6¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices were sharply higher near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was up 5.9 to 447.8 an hour before the close. Leading industrials fell back from earlier highs, while gold issues climbed with higher bullion prices. Canadian stocks eased.

Ford Sales Near Record

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. reports car sales increased by 6.1 per cent and truck sales by 20.9 per cent in April.

William L. Hawkins, vice-president and general manager, said car sales totalled 21,148 compared with 19,928 in April of 1977.

Truck sales came to 12,467, a record for the month, compared with 10,309 in April of last year.

Hawkins said the combined car and truck sales of 33,615 were 117 units short of the record high for April set in 1974.

Japanese To Plead For Oil

TOKYO (AP) — Japan plans to renew its request to the United States to exchange Alaskan crude oil for some of the Middle East crude imported by Japan, the economic newspaper Nihon Keizai Shimbun reported today.

It said the swap would diversify supply sources for Japan and help reduce America's huge trade deficit with Japan.

The plan is being discussed by both governments and agreement may be reached soon, the newspaper said.

It quoted U.S. government sources as saying that of 1.2 million barrels of crude that Alaska can supply a day, 700,000 barrels are going to the West Coast, leaving a surplus of 500,000.

If all the surplus were taken by Japan, it would total 180 million barrels a year, valued at $2.37 billion, or about 10 per cent of the $23.57 billion worth of oil Japan imported last year, the newspaper said.

Building Increases In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. builders increased new construction by 32 per cent in March as the housing industry recovered from its winter slump.

Privately owned housing units were started at a rate of 2.07 million units per year, up from 1.57 million units per year in February, 1978, but about the same as the rate of 2.09 million housing units in March 1977.

Building permits, an indication of future housing trends, increased 14 percent to 1.72 million units in March. That was slightly above the rate of 1.7 million in a similarly strong March in 1977.

The department also said the combined personal income of Americans increased 1.2 per cent in March, returning to the strong levels of last year.

Cassiar Asbestos

Cassiar Asbestos Corp. reported first quarter profits dropped to $3.7 million or 68 cents a share from $6 million, or $1.10 a share for the same period in 1977.

Revenue was $19.5 million, compared with $30.4 million.

"The reduced sales were primarily due to the buildup of inventory by customers after we announced a price increase last fall to begin Jan. 1," J. G. Berry, general manager, told the company's annual meeting.

President Peter Steen, said "the indications are that this situation will improve as the year progresses, and we expect to meet our sales targets for 1978."

He said that total spending at the Cassiar mine in 1977 was $12.8 million.

"Some time this summer our Clinton Creek operation, along with our transport arm in Whitehorse, will be closing down because the Clinton ore body has been fully exploited," Steen said.

Cyprus Anvil

Cyprus Anvil Mining Corp. reported that it lost $3,259,000 or 43 cents a share in the first quarter of 1978, compared with a restated profit of $1,851,000, or 24 cents a share in the first quarter last year.

Revenue was $24,976,000, compared with $24,026,000.

A company spokesman said the loss was due "principally to the impact of lower zinc prices on final settlements for sales of the previous quarter, and inventory valuation".

"These results should not be indicative of performance in subsequent quarters this year," the spokesman said.

Inglis Ltd.

The president of Inglis Ltd. of Toronto says the company probably will achieve a significant increase in sales and improved profits this year, despite continuing weak demand for major home appliances.

Robert Collins-Wright said the company is reasonably confident that consumer demand for Inglis products, increased efficiency in factories and close control of expenses will be reflected in improved sales and profit, compared with those of 1977.

The annual meeting also was told that profit for the three months ended March 31, 1978 was $171,000 or 13 cents a share on sales of about $26.36 million, compared with profit of $118,000 or nine cents a share on sales of $23.6 million a year earlier.

Loblaw

The chairman of Loblaw Cos. Ltd. of Toronto says the company has resumed payment of dividends to shareholders because of an increase in sales and profits.

W. Galen Weston told the annual meeting that Loblaw has instituted an extremely cautious dividend policy of 2.5 cents a share, payable quarterly beginning July 1.

The company paid a special dividend of 6.5 cents on A and B shares in December but before that no dividends had been paid on class A or class B shares since Oct. 15, 1976.

From December, 1965, to October, 1976, dividends had been paid at a rate of 38 cents a share annually.

Weston said that Loblaws Ltd., the subsidiary which operates all Loblaws supermarkets in Ontario, now accounts for 18 per cent of the company's total sales. He said the company plans to open 84 new or enlarged stores in 1978 and 1979, 40 of them in Canada and 44 of them in the United States.

Noranda

Noranda Mines Ltd. announced Friday a first-quarter profit this year of $14.7 million or 62 cents a share, compared with $18.3 million or 78 cents a share in the first quarter last year.

The company said in a news release that first-quarter revenue this year amounted to $381.1 million, compared with $343.5 million in the similar period last year.

However, the company said it was hard hit by the closure of the Noranda Aluminum operation due to a failure of the local utility to supply power during the last stages of the U.S. coal strike.

It said this resulted in a reduction of first-quarter earnings by an estimated 58 cents a share.

Noranda said its mining and metallurgical earnings were 41 per cent better than the same period last year, due mainly to a better result at its Gaspe copper operations and reduced exploration expenses.

It said Noranda Aluminum is expected to reach full production again in June and results for the balance of the year may be better, but a restoration of earnings to satisfactory levels is not expected.

Reichhold

The president of Reichhold Ltd., of Toronto, says the company's goal of $500 million in sales by 1982 is realistic.

George Hagan, speaking at the company's annual meeting, also said that directors feel the company's best interests would be served by remaining independent.

He was commenting on recent speculation that Sun Oil Co. of Canada Ltd. would be making an offer for Reichhold shares.

He said the company can grow internally at an annual rate of 12 to 20 per cent without adding any acquisitions, depending upon the health of the economy.

But the company does plan on adding new businesses and making new acquisitions, he added, saying an acquisition likely to take place in 1979 could be for a company with annual sales of $25 million to $50 million.

Not Enough Men To Use Them

Vans Driving Police Bats

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP units outside Vancouver and Vancouver Island complain they haven't enough men to efficiently operate a Breath Alcohol Testing Mobile Unit and, in some cases the units sit idle in police parking lots for lack of trained operators.

"We share it with three or four other detachments, and when we get it, we're so low on manpower we don't have any men to operate it," said one unidentified police spokesman.

"It spends three days in our parking lot, then it goes on to another detachment, where it spends three days in their parking lot and then it goes on to another detachment, where it spends three days sitting in their parking lot."

Fourteen BATmobiles, worth $14,000 each, were distributed to the main population centres last year: Vancouver, North Vancouver, Delta, New Westminster, Coquitlam, Langley, Victoria, Courtenay, Hope, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Nelson, Kamloops and Kelowna. Surrey council purchased its own and operates it independently.

Each unit is assigned to an area and, in some cases, is shared by several police detachments.

Nelson's BATmobbile is shared by 22 detachments; the Kamloops unit is shared by 13 detachments and an additional 13 detachments share the Prince George unit.

A Kamloops officer said substantial time is wasted shuttling the unit from detachment to detachment.

"We share it with 18 other detachments on a monthly route, and relaying it from one unit to another takes four men off two detachments," he said.

A Prince George officer said the unit goes unused if police are busy elsewhere while an officer in Chilliwack said the detachment doesn't always have the manpower to operate it.

The problem is compounded, he said, when a suspect refuses to blow without his lawyer present. Officers then must take him back to the station or to the nearest phone booth to make the call.

Gary Martin, department policy analyst, said the Counter-Attack program against drinking drivers has been effective in reducing fatalities.

The Counter-Attack program budget will be increased to $800,000 from $750,000 for 1978-79, he said.

RING REFUND ORDERED

VANCOUVER, (CP) — The Vancouver police board has voted to overturn an earlier decision and return to hotel manager Andreas Meyn the $1,375 he paid at a police auction for three brass rings he believed to be gold. The board originally voted 3 to 2 against a refund but changed its position at a regular meeting Wednesday.

Fitness Staff Waits for Pay

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The director of the British Columbia Native Sports and Recreation Federation says he and his two full-time staff have been working the last two weeks without pay awaiting funds from Ottawa.

Roger Adolph, said that he is advising his staff to start looking for other jobs.

The federation has requested $277,000 to operate its program for the next 12 months, but is still waiting for word from Ottawa, he said.

The federation offers sport and recreation programs for 60,000 natives in 192 bands, and while those have not been abandoned, a leadership training program may be jeopardized, he said.

The issue will be discussed at a meeting attended by Fitness Minister Iona Campagnolo in Ottawa today, said Adolph.

Paint Jobs On Ferries To Be Unique

B.C. Ferries' Queen of Vancouver and Queen of Victoria will have paint jobs that are unique in Canada when they complete their extensive refits this spring.

The refits, at a total cost of $9 million, are being done by Vancouver Shipyards Ltd., much of the work being carried out in the Esquimalt Graving Dock.

The paint is a new British product called SPC (Self-Polishing Copolymer) and has been imported by International Paints (Canada) Ltd. of 760 Bay Street.

. It automatically polishes itself to a smooth surface as vessels pass through the sea, getting smoother the longer the ship is in service. This results in a cleaner bottom and the maintenance of maximum speed.

International Paints has received federal approval to import the new product and SPC has been modified to meet Canadian standards. It has also now been approved by the United States.

The Queen of Vancouver leaves Esquimalt Graving Dock on May 11 to have new German engines fitted in Vancouver.

Bulbous bows added to the two ferries will increase their speed from 17½ to 19 knots.

The two ships also have new separators installed to take oil out of bilge water, reducing pollution.

Tom Medforth, project manager for Vancouver Shipyards, says the contract to the yard for each ship is roughly $2 million.

Freighter On Way

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — After spending an unscheduled 1½ months in Canada and more than $1 million for repairs the troubled Panamanian-registered freighter Adriatik was expected to depart for the People's Republic of China by Sunday, say ship officials.

The 192-metre vessel carrying grain was reported sinking March 20 415 kilometres south of Kodiak, Alaska, where it battled 12-metre seas and winds up to 60 kilometres an hour while en route to China from Vancouver.

Metallurgists in Vancouver determined that the 11-metre-long crack in the ship's hull that opened 1.5 centrimetres wide was caused by the stress of high seas.

Sex Case Accused Was On Parole

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man facing 15 sex charges involving two juvenile girls, allegedly purchased in Seattle for $200, was on mandatory supervision — a form of early release — from the British Columbia Penitentiary at the time the offences are said to have occurred.

Mark Jerald Foslette, 35, made a brief provincial court appearance Wednesday and was remanded in custody for one week to have a trial date set.

Defence lawyer G. A. Goyer told the court bail would not be sought because Foslette had his parole suspended when new charges were laid and now was back at the penitentiary.

Foslette was released under the mandatory supervision program last Aug. 18 after serving approximately two-thirds of a sentence for an assault causing bodily harm. His full term was to have expired in July of this year.

Lawyer Loses Libel Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Supreme Court judge ruled Wednesday that Paul William Halprin, a lawyer with the federal department of justice, was not libelled by a story in The Sun last April.

Mr. Justice R. P. Anderson dismissed the action by finding that Halprin never was mentioned in the story and that the words about which he complained were not capable of defaming him.

NORTHERN FORESTS AT FLASHPOINT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Forests north of Prince George are already tinder dry and this year's fire season is only a few days old, Hank Doerksen, chief suppression officer with the British Columbia Forest Service, said Wednesday.

"The present conditions are what would expect to find in the middle of a hot, dry summer," he said.

Doerksen said that a slight increase in temperatures could mean an early start to troubles in the forests.

One of the big advantages fire fighters will have this year is the increased use of air patrols using an infra red heat detection system.

Ottawa Sets $3B Credit

Canada Savings Bonds as a source of new funds.

Last fall's Canada Savings Bond campaign raised about $2.3 billion for the government, after bonds cashed are counted. But Chretien has noted that the $11.5 billion deficit this year includes about $2 billion of accrued interest on two special series of the bonds.

Chretien said the program of foreign borrowing and credit arrangements "best ensures continued progress toward our objectives of higher growth and employment in Canada at declining rates of inflation."

Chretien told the traders he expects a resumption of capital inflows into the country over the year. "The needs of Canadian borrowers, particularly the provinces and their agencies, are if anything greater this year than last."

The inflow would help finance the country's current account deficit, which hit $4.2 billion in 1977, and which has been a major influence on the recent decline in value of the dollar.

Chretien said that with reasonably favorable developments in the economy, federal deficits would continue large over the next four to five years, although as a percentage of the economy's total output, they would decline by about a third.

"Such continuing substantial federal deficits will probably be desirable," he said.

"In this period, savings are likely to remain high in relation to investment requirements. If Canada is going to get sufficient growth in overall demand, some offsetting federal deficit will probably be required."

. . .DEAR MR. RENT

TORONTO (CP) — Even Tilden Rent-A-Car Co. is not immune from the zeal of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada.

The company recently received a form letter asking it to help give Canada a new government by joining the PC Victory Club.

It was addressed to Mr. Tilden Rent.

The letter began "Dear Mr. Rent."

$100,000 to Save $10

OTTAWA (CP) - It has taken 10 years and cost the government at least $100,000, but it still has the $10 claimed in 1969 by R.J. Tucker, a retired customs officer, for working 1 1-2 hours of overtime.

Edward Done, head of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) collective bargaining section, Wednesday said Tucker felt he was entitled to four hours pay at straight time under the PSAC collective agreement.

His grievance was finally heard by an adjudicator Nov. 17, 1970, but a decision to allow the grievance was not reached until May 3, 1972.

The federal treasury board, unhappy with the adjudicator's decision, referred the matter to the Public Service Staff Relations Board for review. That review was finally held Dec. 9, 1976.

"The treasury board could have said it will give him his $10 as long as no precedent is set," Done said.

And nearly nine years after the original grievance the staff relations board upheld the adjudicator's 1972 decision April 12, 1978.

A SALUTE AS ORIOLE SETS SAIL

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

The Canadian Navy's 102-foot training ketch HMCS Oriole received a salute from her peers today as she set sail for Hawaii to take part in the Tall Ships Race from there to Victoria.

The destroyers HMCS Restigouche, Kootenay, Terra Nova, Yukon, Saskatchewan and Qu'Appelle and the supply ship HMCS Provider steamed by her in line as she made her way out of the harbor.

The Restigouche, Kootenay and Provider were returning from a southwest Pacific training cruise that began in January and were joined later by Terra Nova. They are under the command of Capt. S.W. Riddell, commander of the Second Canadian Destroyer Squadron.

The other three ships, under the command of Capt. C.M. Thomas, were returning from an exercise off the United States coast.

Her paintwork gleaming and her decks trim, Oriole gave no indication that it is 57 years since she first hit the water.

Lt.-Cmdr. Bill Walker and his crew have spent weeks ensuring Oriole will be a competent competitor in the Tall Ships Race.

She has had a radar fitted, as well as a Loran set, and her radio equipment has been vastly improved. She has a new spinnaker to add to the other two in her sail inventory. Her ice box has been converted to a freezer for her long sortie.

One of the tasks of coxswain PO Keith Hanna has been overseeing the stowage of about 600 gallons of water, much of it in plastic bags.

While it will be the first time under sail for cook AB Robert MacClam, he is an old hand at cooking at sea in naval ships. He thinks the fresh meat on board will last two weeks and has plenty of canned food. He also has flour and yeast aboard to make his own bread. Menus have been drawn up for each day away from port.

Walker says the new radio equipment will enable Oriole to maintain daily contact with Pacific maritime command.

The officer cadets aboard Oriole will be flown back after they reach Hawaii. They will be replaced by other officer cadets who will board Oriole at Pearl Harbor June 5 and make an overnight sailing on June 12 to Hanalei on the island of Kauai. They will go through working-up exercises until June 16 when they put in at Lahaina on the island of Maui.

Ottawa Stifling City Industry?

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria cannot hope to attract the industries it needs unless Ottawa changes its attitude toward economic expansion, Victoria industrial development commissioner Barry Mayhew said today.

"How come Montreal is eligible for grants while Victoria and Vancouver are not?" Mayhew asked. "It doesn't make any sense."

He was commenting on a letter from the federal Department of Economic Development saying it would grant a Victoria inventor more than $200,000 — but only if he were willing to move to Prince Rupert.

"This is a big project for Victoria — we are talking about 50 permanent jobs to start, probably a couple of hundred full-time jobs a short time later. He wants to stay in Victoria but Ottawa tells him he has to move to Prince Rupert."

The problem is a Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE) requirement that companies obtaining large grants in British Columbia must establish north of 100 Mile House. Those getting smaller federal grants can locate anywhere in the province — but outside the Victoria area or the Lower Mainland.

The inventor, who will produce a new model drill bit without using ball bearings, has attracted private financial support but needs a total of $2.2 million to get started.

Mayhew said DREE should change its regulations to permit grants to be given to deserving projects anywhere in Canada.

"Even Nanaimo is eligible while Victoria is not. I don't understand that at all. Nanaimo is a thriving community and doesn't have any more problems than we have."

Mayhew said Victoria has been told it is not eligible because its unemployment is cyclical.

"That doesn't mean anything," Mayhew said. "Look at Sudbury. One day it is a prosperous community with just about the highest per capita income in all of Canada and then there is an Inco layoff and Sudbury is a disaster area. The situation can change almost overnight."

Mayhew said the biggest obstacle to new industries is lack of funding, not a shortage of land, although more industrial land is needed.

More private venture capital must be located and both levels of government should play a leading role in attracting private capital.

"DREE must change its rules and we would also like to see the provincial government put some money toward the formation of a B.C. Development Corporation, similar to the Canadian Development Corporation."

OLD HOMES: TAX NEWS IS STILL BAD

Saanich council wrapped up its 1978 budget Wednesday night and lopped more than four mills off the net municipal mill rate for general purposes and debt.

But the 4.05-mill decrease (from 54.30 mills to 50.25, or 7.46 per cent) is scant comfort for most taxpayers living in older single-family homes.

As earlier predicted, they will face an average increase of about 14 to 15 per cent in their tax bills this year due to increased property assessments, under an assessment shuffle which has seen this category of taxpayer assume a heavier share of the over-all tax load.

Although it's impossible to generalize on specific dollar impact, council was given the example of a typical home valued at $60,550, within the Greater Victoria School District, whose taxable assessed value has risen $1,074 or 16 per cent.

The tax bill for this property will go up $100 or 14.4 per cent this year, from $694 to $794. And the increase is broken down this way: $27 in municipal taxes, $5 for the regional district levy, $61 for school taxes and $7 for other levies.

But the the bad news doesn't end this year. As Mayor Mel Couvelier noted, the impact of the assessment increase is being phased in over three years, and there are "downstream" shocks still ahead in the next two years.

The over-all budget total including about $11 million in school, regional, hospital and other levies stands at $35,371,680 for 1978, an increaae of $3.6 million or 11.4 per cent on last year's actual spending.

Total municipal expenditure this year is budgeted at $22,965,280, up $1,652,110 on last year. That's a 7.75 per cent increase, which exceeds the 6 per cent target fixed at the outset of budget preparation by the mayor and council earlier this year.

Helping Saanich to offset the higher expenditures were an additional $800,000 from the provincial government in revenue-sharing programs, $285,000 more from tax income on government-owned property and lower welfare costs. Council also carried forward a $184,000 surplus from 1977.

For taxpayers living in School District 61 (Greater Victoria), the combined mill rate including all levies is 101.790 mills; for those in school district 63 (Saanich) it's 102.985 mills.

Teamwork Supported

Two Victoria aldermen today supported a pilot project in James Bay to test the team policing method.

Aldermen Bill Tindall and Ron McKenzie said during a meeting of finance committee they felt James Bay would be an ideal location to try out the concept.

Ald. Robin Blencoe has been promoting the idea which emphasizes contact between officers and residents of a neighborhood.

Court Rules Condo Rebates Illegal

The city of Victoria illegally paid out more than $19,000 in rebates to condominium owners last year, the B.C. Supreme Court has ruled.

In a decision handed down earlier this week in Vancouver, Mr. Justice J.S. Aikins stated the city had exceeded its authority in giving refunds to condominium owners.

Condominiums that had to have their garbage collected by private contractors were getting rebates of $19 per unit per year from the city last year. Council had set up a $27,000 fund to rebate condominium owners who were in effect paying twice for garbage collection — once through taxes and then a second time for private collection.

A move to quash that section of the bylaw requiring apartments to pay a fee for collection was declined, however. Aikins ruled that the time limit for such an application had passed.

The more than $19,000 paid out in refunds is unrecoverable.

Only those condominiums that could not get on the city garbage system for one reason or another qualified for rebates.

Some apartment owners took exception to council's refund program, however, saying it was unfair to apartments that still had to pay for collection.

Elsie Wedman, 1050 Pemberton, and Tudor Estates Ltd., 837 Burdett, jointly petitioned the Supreme Court over the matter.

In a two-part ruling, Aikins declared that the section of the bylaw providing for refunds to certain buildings was discriminatory and ultra vires or beyond the city's authority.

Need a Tow? You'll Pay More in Suburbs

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

While towing companies are expected to toe the line in the city of Victoria and operate under controlled rates, they can charge whatever they please in neighboring municipalities.

As a result, a wayward motorist in Saanich, Esquimalt or Oak Bay could find himself paying a towing fee 56 per cent higher than if the parking offence had occurred a few feet away within city boundaries.

Keary Bott, manager of Gordon's Towing Ltd., said the former $19 standard towaway fee in those three municipalities was recently increased to $25 to reflect the company's higher operating costs.

But in Victoria, the maximum charge permitted by city council is $16 (recently increased from $14).

Why the difference?

Saanich licensing inspector Dick Gibson acknowledged that there have been some complaints from car owners but said as far as he knows there is no authority under the Municipal Act for a municipal council to dictate how much a towing company can charge for its service.

He speculated that Victoria can do so because it operates under a private act equivalent to its own charter.

"If we could regulate the rates they (towing companies) charge, why not regulate the rates a retail store charges for its goods," he added.

Gibson said a business licence is normally issued to any applicant provided he complies with zoning bylaws, health regulations and the like.

He did say, however, that he is awaiting an opinion from the municipality's legal adviser, and if the advice is that Saanich can set the rates he may recommend council adopt a bylaw to that effect.

Meanwhile, according to one legal source, the Municipal Act does empower a municipality to take such action.

The particular section he cited states: "The council may by bylaw regulate the carrying on of business within the municipality . . . for the purpose of protecting the public or preventing or minimizing nuisances and misleading business practices, and such regulations may be different for different classes of business."

"That section contains all the authority a council would ever need," the lawyer added.

Oak Bay Mayor Brian Smith said council has never discussed the possibility of controlling towing fees and he cannot recall that there have been any complaints on the subject.

"But everybody seems to hate the guy in the towing truck," he said.

In a passing comment, Smith expressed surprise that the city's permitted fee is as low as $16, considering today's business costs.

Sprays Eyed

Chemical sprays may be used to control roadside thistle and gorse in the Langford district this summer.

The provincial highways department is considering the use of sprays or pelletized herbicide on heavy infestations of the weeds on sideroads in the area. Langford is one of 82 areas in the province in which weed control is being considered.

Spot control and spraying or granular control over infested sections of right of way is planned for 22 highways and 22 secondary and sideroads.

District highways manager George Harper said he has not drawn up a program for the Saanich district, but he noted weeds in the Langford area are becoming prolific.

Harper said the herbicide likely to be used in solution or pellet form would be Tordon K, containing a minor amount of 2-4,D. He said the department does not use defoliants to control underbrush growth.

Neighbors Fight to Save A Small Oasis of Nature

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

Residents of a picturesque area of Central Saanich are fighting to preserve the quality and character of their neighborhood.

The district near Butchart Gardens mostly involves Greig Avenue, well known for its 11-acre Gore nature park with is profusion of wildflowers, arbutus, Garry oaks and fir trees.

The problem arose when the Central Saanich community plan, approved by home-owners, zoned some properties facing the park into two-acre lots and others into 8,400-foot lots.

The entire area is now under a five-acre freeze, but residents say once this subdivision restriction is lifted, there is nothing to prevent the owners of five parcels of land, ranging between five and nine acres in size, from subdividing into 8,400-foot lots.

"This means more than 100 homes could spring up adjacent to the park" said Mrs. Jean MacDonald, 966 Greig. "It's too great a density for an area like this. It would mean the end of Gore Park as a nature park. It is a sensitive area and won't stand heavy use."

She said more than 100 persons have signed petitions opposing high-density development on Greig.

T.G. (Gill) Bunch, 1026 Greig, said the topography of the area does not lend itself to heavy development.

"The park and the character of the area would suffer," he said. "The park is known for its native wildflowers. It is a showpiece in the spring."

He said residents would like all remaining properties surrounding the park zoned into two-acre lots, but most are ready to compromise for one-acre or one-third acre lots.

Ald. George MacFarlane, chairman of the zoning and subdivision committee, agrees Greig Avenue with its park is a picturesque place because of its rocky and hilly terrain.

"It lends itself to winding roads following the contours of the land," he said.

"But the problem is that residents approved the community plan and to start changing it now would complicate the whole matter of zoning in the municipality," he said.

"If you start changing the zoning for one area, you've got to do it for another. Already we have requests from other areas in the municipality to reduce two-acre lots to half-acre lots."

He said he has called a meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the issue with homeowners.

"It is an informal meeting to see if the property owners can come to some understanding," he said.

Mrs. MacDonald said when residents approved the community plan they were naive and had no idea of its implications.

"This area then was not in the sewer area and the threat of large-scale housing development seemed far away," she said. "Now it's in the sewer area and overnight, developers can erect 140 homes in the district.

"We are not opposed to residential development. But we are opposed to high-density development because it is not suited to this area."

The Derby Winner: You Better Believe It

It's derby time — the Kentucky Derby that is — this Saturday; and if not everyone is certain as to which of the colts is going to win the Run for the Roses, stay tuned. You may get the winner right here. Remember Seattle Slew?

First of all, there will be only one unbeaten colt going to the post at Churchill Downs and if he can live up to what his daddy did before him, then he'll still be unbeaten when the race is over. That's Sensitive Prince, who has won all six of his starts, one last year, and that's exactly the same number of victories his sire, Majestic Prince, carried into the 1969 derby. And everyone should remember that derby year. Majestic Prince was at least a Canadian favorite because he was owned by Frank McMahon of Calgary and Vancouver and Johnny Longden was the trainer. Majestic Prince won that derby after a duel with Arts and Letters.

The only problem facing Sensitive Prince, besides the other horses in the race, is that he has never gone further than 1 1-16th miles. But he did beat Believe It at that distance, but only by a head while getting an eight-pound pull in weights.

Then, of course , there's everybody's favorite from the West Coast. Affirmed has won everything he's been asked to run in this year, including the Santa Anita Derby and the Hollywood Derby and had little trouble in handling his opposition on each occasion.

Affirmed will be ridden by Steve Cauthen, the young jockey who set the racing world on its colletive ear by winning over $6 million in purses his first full year around the big apple. And naturally, he will carry all the sentimental guff associated with youth. Besides, the horse can run a bit.

* * *

A favorite as well undoubtedly will be Alydar, who is seeking to break a 10-year drought for the Calumet Farms.

Alydar dominated the Eastern racing scene this spring just as Affirmed did in the West and the two of them were battling last year before Affirmed squeaked out two-year old honors.

Naturally, none of the horses are there for the fun-of-it and Alydar, despite Affirmed's fine record, will likely go the post the favorite.

After all, wasn't he right with Affirmed last year, and didn't he whip Believe It in Florida earlier this year.? And as Believe It was the best of the crop in the Wood Memorial which often is the foreteller of the Derby, Alydar would appear to rate right up there at the top.

The secret with Alydar, says famous trainer Jimmy Jones of Calumet, is that he doesn't really overpower other horses, but somehow he just gets to the wire first. Which is handy enough, isn't it? And even his jockey Jorge Velasquez says he is the best three-year old he has ever ridden and he's sittin' on a win. Which is just about the same thing Cauthen said about Affirmed when he was in Vancouver earlier this year. But then jockeys don't always know everything and they're biased as well. How can they honestly say anything else if they want the mount on a derby horse?

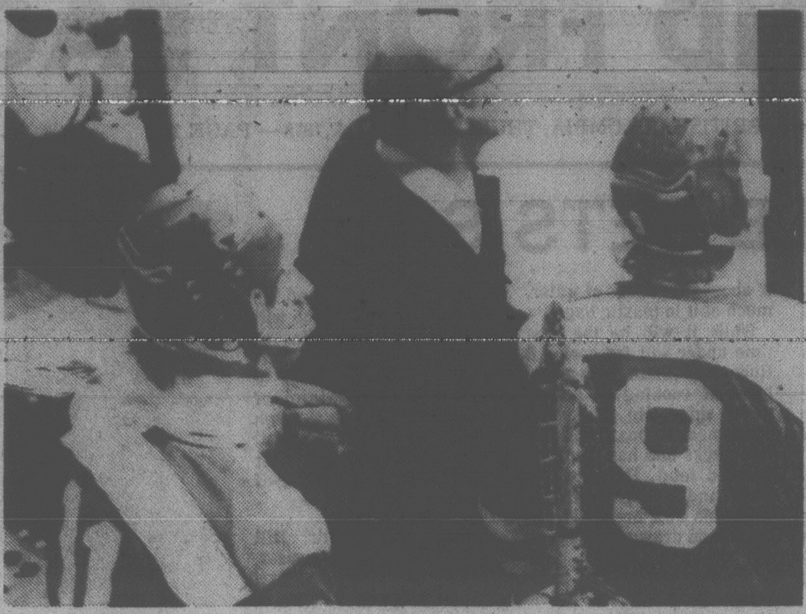
* * *

So there you have it, unless of course you are a long-shot player, or it comes up rain. Then anything can happen and likely will.

For the record, the rest of the field will probably read like this: Chief of Dixieland, Hoist The Silver, Esops Foibles, Dr. Valeri, Derby Creek Road and Raymond Earl. All have their credentials.

As for the race, it should set up this way. Raymond Earl will likely lead with Affirmed and Alydar lying close up and Sensitive Prince and Believe It back a few lengths. Derby Creek Road who chased Believe It home in the Wood, should be far back. But only until they turn for home. Then he will come with a rush. It could be his race if there is a speed duel on the head end, but this doesn't seem likely. So his charge will be good, but not good enough; and Believe It held him off easily in the Wood even if the distance was an eighth of a mile shorter. Meanwhile, Affirmed will have hung on, only to be caught by Alydar about two steps from the wire. But already there on the front end will be the winner.

Believe It.



LIKES OLD TIMES for Ward Sanderson (11) was this visit to penalty box at Memorial Arena Wednesday night during opening game of Western Lacrosse Association season. League's most penalized player in recent seasons, Sanderson promptly grabbed lead in "bad man" department by drawing 13 minutes in penalties, including major sentence for part in second-period fight. Sanderson and Vancouver Burrard clubmates, including Bob Holmes (9) payed price for trips to penalty box as Victoria Shamrocks scored eight power-play goals on way to 16-8 triumph over Burrards. ANOTHER PINEDA DIES IN RACE-TRACK MISHAP

The 25-year-old jockey was killed Wednesday in a four-horse spill at Pimlico Race Course—three years after his brother died in California.

He was the first jockey to be killed in action at Pimlico since the death of Bernard Hanford, who died of a fractured skull 45 years ago today.

Pineda's 30-year-old brother, Alvaro, was was crushed to death in a starting-gate accident at Santa Anita in 1975.

Two other jockeys—Canadian Rudy Turcotte and James Thornton—were taken to hospital Wednesday and one horse, Easy Edith, had to be destroyed.

Turcotte, 28, from Grand Falls, N.B., was listed in fair condition in hospital with a fractured collarbone while Thornton, 37, was in serious condition with a fractured vertebrae and chest injuries.

Pineda died of multiple head and internal injuries less than an hour after the fatal spill in the second race.

Turcotte was aboard Easy Edith when the five-year-old mare went down as a foreleg snapped below the knee.

Pineda, riding Easter Bunny Mine, was directly behind Easy Edith. Jockey Gregg McCarron said Pineda was thrown about 10 feet in the air "and was driven straight down into the ground" after the collision.

John DiNatale, the trainer of Easter Bunny Mine, said Pineda appeared to have been kicked in the head. "There was a crease dented in his helmet," he said.

West Germans' Rally A Jolt for Americans

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The United States slid to the bottom of the world hockey championship standings Wednesday after West Germany humiliated the Americans 7-4 for their fifth defeat and East Germany upset Finland 4-2.

Earlier wednesday, the Americans gained a 4-3 lead in the second period after trailing 3-1 against the rough-playing, aggressive West Germans, only to collapse in the final period.

The results of the two games dropped Team USA to to eighth place at the bottom of the standings, with the threat of B Group relegation looming closer unless they can beat East Germany or Finland in remaining opening-round matches.

The Americans now are the only winless team, with Finland and the two Germanys each having scored one win in five games.

Two goals by centre Tom Younghans of the National Hockey League's Minnesota North Stars and one each by team-mates Craig Norwich and William Gilligan of the World Hockey Association Cincinnati Stingers gave the Americans a 4-3 lead going into the final 20 minutes.

Rainer Philipp's unassisted goal tied the score for the Germans early in the third period against goalie Pete LoPresti of the North Stars. Twenty seconds later, the Germans went in front to stay on an unassisted goal by Ignaz Berndaner.

The Americans, hampered by injuries, have two more opening round games, against East Germany today and Finland on Saturday.

Three Sluggers Spur Batesons

Glen Wallis, Alf Hass and Jim McHattie each connected for two hits on three trips to the plate Wednesday to help Elks to a 9-0 shutout over Batesons in a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League game at Central Park.

Wallis connected for a triple and a double to score twice and drive in two runs, Hass tripled and singled to score twice and drive in one run while McHattie turned two singles into a run and an RBI.

Bob Harris struck out five batters, allowed no bases on balls and scattered five hits to pick up the pitching victory.

In Victoria Senior Women's League play, MacDonald's Furniture whipped Ingraham Hotel 11-3 and Combos tripped Butler Brothers 17-12 at Hyacinth Park.

Linda Lalonde, Noreen Rodrigue and Kathy Ross each had two hits to lead MacDonalds while Ross and Marilyn Bolton combined to earn the pitching victory.

Iris Soroka hit two triples and a single while Kathy Cave and Mavis Turner each smacked a triple and two singles to lead Combos. Pam Jones and reliever Carrol Newcombe combined to earn the pitching decision.

At Heywood Avenue Park, Remco Office Systems topped Captial Builders 5-2 in a Heywood Men's League game.

Marv Carver struck out seven while allowing only four hits and two bases on balls for the victory while Al Mann came up with three singles in four trips to the plate to lead the Remco hitters. John Clemens led off Remco's three-run rally in the seven inning with a home run.

In Sidney Men's Association play, Don Scotney fired a four-hitter and struck out seven while pitching Sindey Hotel to a 5-3 win over Tsawout at Sanscha Park.

Rocks Powered By Old Standbys

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Victoria Shamrocks turned out five of their six new players in their Western Lacrosse League opener against Vancouver Burrards at Memorial Arena Wednesday night but when it was over it was the old guard that had done most of the damage as the Shamrocks routed the reigning Mann Cup champions 16-8.

And maybe there was good enough reason.

Last year, Burrards won the season opener, 15-14; won the league by a single point and the WLA final by a single goal in the last game of a best-of-seven final. And that didn't sit well with the Shamrocks then, or all winter long.

Wednesday they had been waited for; and Wednesday they got some of their own back against a club that coach Ross McDonald of Burrards said: "Until tonight, I thought we were pretty good. But I guess we weren't."

McDonald pointed to the fact that the Shamrocks had scored three short-handed goals in the matter of 71 seconds in the first period as the turning point. "And no, they weren't lucky," he said. "They earned them."

He might have mentioned that all-star goalkeeper Dave Evans didn't play because of an injured hand, but he didn't use that as an excuse. He gave the Shamrocks full marks and said: "It looks like a three-club race again. Salmonellies should be stronger."

But it was that short-handed outburst that set the pattern after a scrambly beginning with both clubs suffering from the fact their timing was off badly. And it gave the Rocks a 5-2 lead from which they were never to look back. It was 6-2 for the Shamrocks after one and 10-6 after two, a period in which the Shamrocks scored four power-play goals, three in succession to take a 9-2 lead at one stage.

In the third period when things deteriorated, the Irish ran in another four power-play goals. Three came in two minutes and 10 seconds as Vancouver's Rico Bellusci took three minors on the same play.

The big guns on the power play were Charn Dhillon and Norm Baker. Dhillon, who scored four goals, the first into an unguarded net, had three on the power play, as did Baker. Ron MacNeil and Larry Green got the others. The short-handed goals were scored by Ivan Thompson, Larry Bell and MacNeil.

Baker, that's Norm, also had six assists, as did MacNeil.

Thompson finished with two goals and three assists. Dhillon had three assists while the other goals were scored by Chris Hall, Rick Baker and Gordie Lyons.

Rick Baker, a cousin of Norm's, played on the odd-man play and, according to MacNeil, the mere fact that he was there on the edge of the crease made the play that much more effective as he and Jim Lynch of Nanaimo had tied for the most power-play goal last season.

"We practice the power-play a lot," said MacNeil," and it paid off tonight. And Baker (that's Rick) will get his goals."

For Burrards, it wasn't an auspicious debut. They were outhustled — "and we're supposed to be a fast-break team", said McDonald — and they took some stupid penalties.

The Rocks on the other hand started slowly, but always held the upper hand and managed to keep their cool against the heavy checking of Burrards especially in the late going when it appeared the game might get out of hand.

Oh, yes. Ward Sanderson was back with Burrards. He threw the first punch of the season and got a penalty for it; and he got in the first fight, and leads the league in penalty minutes with 13.

Which is by way of introducing another new member of the Shamrocks. Art Webster, formerly of Brampton of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, didn't get any goals for the Shamrocks, but he didn't take any guff either and ended up with 10 minutes in penalties.

Big Doug Hayes led Burrards with three goals and one assist. Dave Tasker and John Krgovich each had two goals while Rico Bellusci had one to go with 12 penalty minutes.

Linesmen Fall In Line of Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — Complaints about officiating are nothing new; coaches in the National Hockey League have been yelping about officials since the league was formed in 1917.

But this spring, the whines have taken on a new tone with the linesmen, instead of the referees, under the gun by some coaches.

Coach Roger Neilson of Toronto Maple Leafs was upset after the first game of the Toronto-Montreal Canadiens semi-final series because veteran linesman Neil Armstrong was throwing centre Jimmy Jones out of the face-off circle.

"It's ridiculous," said Neilson. "In one game against the (New York) Islanders it didn't happen once and in the next game it happened about 28 times."

Perhaps Neilson was trying get a change for tonight's second game as the Leafs try to even the series after losing the opener 5-3, but he was not getting any sympathy from the man in charge of the officiating staff.

"Based on what I saw last night, the coaches just have to correct two players (Jones and Montreal's Jacques Lemaire) and the problem will be solved," Scotty Morrison, the NHL's referee-in-chief, said Wednesday.

"There were no rigid instructions to the linesmen. We told them to try and make sure each player had an equal opportunity to get the puck.

"We are not inventing this. The clubs want the sticks to be still.

"We are having the same problems with the same players we had trouble with during the regular season. Surely the clubs have to take some responsibility."

YANKEES' HOT BATS COME ALIVE

By Canadian Press

New York Yankees' long-dormant home run bats finally came alive Wednesday night, but that wasn't what impressed Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog.

After all, the Royals got three home runs of their own from Amos Otis, Clint Hurdle and Al Cowens, matching the ones hit by New York's Jim Spencer, Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles.

But while being swept in a three-game series against their American League playoff rivals of the last two years—including a 6-5 decision Wednesday night on Nettles' solo homer in the bottom of the eighth—the Royals failed to score in eight innings against the New York bullpen trio of Sparky Lyle, Rich Gossage and Rawly Eastwick.

Gossage took over in the ninth inning for starter Ed Figueroa and blew the Royals away on nine pitches, striking out Pete LaCock and Fred Patek and retiring Joe Lahoud on a soft fly ball.

"I'll tell you one thing," Herzog said. "If you don't get ahead of them in the late innings this year, you're gonna get beat 90 percent of the time, at least. They've got Sparky Lyle, the Cy Young Award winner, and then they give the best reliever in the National League (Gossage) $2 million. That's got to impress you.

"When the year is over, it wouldn't surprise me if Gossage is the most valuable player in the league. That son of a gun can throw."

BOOKIE LOSES APPEAL

LONDON (Reuter) — Bookmaker John Banks has lost a high court appeal against a three-year suspension imposed on him by The Jockey Club, which accused him of receiving confidential training information on horses from a jockey.

Pleau's Late Goal Beats Nordiques

QUEBEC (CP) — A goal by Larry Pleau with 50 seconds remaining in regulation time Wednesday night gave New England Whalers a 5-4 triumph over Quebec and a 2-1 lead over the Nordiques in their best-of-seven World Hockey Association semi-final series.

Pleau notched the tie-breaking goal on a backhand shot that went between the legs of goaltender Ken Broderick after the Nordiques came from behind to tie the game in the third period.

Mix Even Sells Tickets

By The Associated Press

You've heard that old line about the player who performed so well he did everything but sell tickets.

Well, Steve Mix of Philadelphia '76ers did it all Wednesday night, including getting into the ticket act.

Mix, who substitutes for Julius Erving or George McGinnis, came in and collected 22 points, grabbed six rebounds, handed out six assists and made two steals in a 110-104 victory for Philadelphia over Washington Bullets.

The triumph evened the National Basketball Association best-of-seven semi-final series at one win each. The third and fourth games are at the Bullets' Landover, Md., home court Friday and Sunday.

In Wednesday's other NBA playoff game, Denver Nuggets beat Milwaukee Bucks 116-110 in the seventh and deciding game of their quarter-final. The Nuggets advance to the semi-finals against Seattle SuperSonics. That series begins in Denver Friday night.

Mix was interviewed after the game on a Philadelphia radio station and began by thanking the sellout crowd of 18,276 for coming out.

"I know the price of tickets is high, but we thank you, and we'll come back here next week with at least one victory in Landover," said Mix. "We appreciate your support. Please come back."

Mix, of course, didn't forge the Philadelphia win by himself. Doug Collins led the scoring with 28, and Erving contributed 22 points, 11 rebounds and four assists. Henry Bibby handed out nine assists.

In Denver, David Thompson tossed in 37 points and Anthony Roberts added 26, including two key baskets at the end of fast breaks late in the game as the Nuggets held off a Milwaukee rally.

FIFTH ANNUAL PUBLIC PARKS TOURNAMENT

It's Times Tennis Time Again

Wonderful is the magic of sunshine.

It warms our bones, lightens our step and brings tennis racquets tumbling out of the closet.

And it makes us down here realize it's time we got round to announcing the fifth annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament.

So there you are — I've done it!

This year the popular event (there were a record 249 entries last summer, including a massive 108 in the men's singles, making it the biggest tennis tourney on the Island) gets under way on the first weekend in June. It runs all summer and winds up with a finals weekend at Oak Bay's Henderson Park on Aug. 19 and 20.

Entries close at 5 p.m. on Thursday, May 18 — giving you just two weeks to get your name in. All you do is fill in the entry form on page 14 and mail it or drop it in to the Times editorial department.

The tournament, co-sponsored each year by the Vancouver Island Tennis Association (VITA), is the only one of its kind here that is designed specially for public parks players. Entry is free but is restricted to those who play mainly on public parks courts. Members of private clubs or those playing for public-court teams in the Island Tennis League are not eligible.

This year also, in a bid to return to the original concept of the wide open tourney, a committee from VITA and the Times has decided that no former winners will be eligible to compete in the same event.

This has been done with some reluctance as it means it will eliminate players of the calibre of Elvira Kapus, a one-time tennis instructor in Hungary who last year won both the women's singles and the mixed doubles with Alex Shane, and Greg Booth, the former club player who easily took the men's singles title. But we hope that our decision will make the whole event fairer and more attractive to the average public parks player for whom it was designed.

Last year's other winners were Perry Evans in the boys' singles and Amelita Mandap in the girls' singles.

We are, though, only barring former champions from entering the SAME event. A former junior winner for example can compete in the men's or women's singles or in the mixed doubles.

Those who have played in any of our first four tournaments will have the idea by now how they work. For the newcomers, this is roughly the way it goes:

- There will again be five events: men's singles, women's singles, mixed doubles and boys' and girls' singles. The first three are "open" events but all competitors must be at least 14 years of age as of Oct.1, 1977. The junior singles events are limited to players who have reached their 14th birthday and are under 18 as of last Oct.1. Juniors must put their date of birth on their entry form.
- After all entries are in, a committee headed by VITA president Ted Smythe will make out the draw and send postcards to half of the players notifying them of the opponents against whom they have been drawn.
- The postcards will tell one of the players involved in each match that he or she is responsible for contacting the opponents, arranging a mutually-suitable time and place to play (on a nearby public parks court); for providing good balls and for filling in the card with the result and mailing it back to the Times. The same procedure will be followed for each round.
- Anyone living within the Capital Region District can enter, but all tournament matches must be played on public courts within the four greater Victoria municipalities — Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt. Players in the tournament have no preference over those already using public courts and must wait until a court is available.
- All matches up to the semi-finals will be of one pro set with the winner being the first to win nine games. A tiebreaker will be played at 8-8 if necessary to produce a 9-8 result. Semi-finals and finals will be the best of three normal sets to six.
- After first-round matches start June 2, players will be given one week to play their game and get the result card back to the Times. If no result is received in that time, both players will be defaulted.
- Prizes will be awarded to the winners and runners-up in all events.

New this year will be the first pre-tourney social, being staged in the badminton hall at the Racquet Club of Victoria on Monday, May 29, at 7:30 p.m. as part of the first-ever "Tennis Show" to be held in Victoria.

All the latest styles of clothing, racquets and other tennis equipment put out by the various firms will be on display at the show, which will be open to the public on Sunday, May 28.

Times Tennis Tourney entrants are invited to attend the special social evening on the Monday — and to bring a friend each — to see the show, watch themselves serve on a closed-circuit TV and view a 55-minute film, supplied by Molsons Brewery, on the 1977 Wimbledon championships.

Orient Still in Danger

LONDON (Reuter) — One of the last questions of the English League soccer season — Who goes down from Division II? — moved close to an answer Wednesday night when two threatened London clubs, Orient and Charlton, played a goalless draw.

Charlton's point takes it clear of the danger area. For Orient it means that it must win its final match at Cardiff which moved out of the relegation zone by a 2-1 win over Notts County—to survive.

Orient, whose success in reaching the FA Cup semifinal distracted attention from its perilous league position, can send Blackpool to Division III in its place by winning at Cardiff next week.

Geordie Dean had three goals for the losers, which were outshot 63-40. Les Dobray and Rob Dalzell also added two goals each for the junior 'Bellies

Mt. Doug Grabs Track Lead

Mt. Douglas took over the senior lead and Lansdowne padded its junior margin Wednesday during high school events in the 10th annual All-Schools Relays at Esquimalt High School.

Trailing Claremont by one point following the first day, Mt. Douglas came on strong Wednesday and opened up a 34-point margin. Mt. Douglas now has 62 points after five finals while Claremont has 28.

In junior high events, Lansdowne has 106 points after nine finals with Central following at 52.

The remainder of the finals are scheduled to start tonight at 5:30 at Centennial Stadium and the elementary school portion of the meet is scheduled for the same sites May 16-18.

Judy Tobacco of Mt. Douglas cleared 1.60 metres to win the senior girls' high jump with Alix Peden of Claremont finishing second and Janet Harvey of Norfolk House third. Norfolk House, along with St. Michael's University School, is third over-all in senior standings with 19 points.

Brian Alexander gave Mt. Douglas another first in the senior boys' shot put, reaching out to 13:44 metres. Clubmate Dan Reimer placed second and Rick Bronson of Spectrum was third.

Mt. Douglas also won the 4×800 mixer relay in a time of 9:39.09 while Esquimalt was second in 9:48.1.

Other results:

Junior boys B shot — Tim Christian (Brentwood) 12.74 metres; Randy Jacobsen (L); Tony Peremiczky (Spencer).

ROBINSON AGREES TO JOB IN MINORS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson, who rejoined Baltimore Orioles as a coach this season, agreed Wednesday to manage Baltimore's Triple A farm club, Rochester Red Wings in the International League.

Robinson is due to take over the Red Wings Monday after spending the weekend with the Orioles in Baltimore.

The first black manager in the major leagues, Robinson was fired by Cleveland Indians last June 19 after directing the American League club for 2½ seasons.

Vic High Favored

KELOWNA — Victoria High School is favored to repeat as provincial high school rugby champion when the annual spring tournament begins here Friday.

Sixteen teams have qualified for the championship, which begins at 9 a.m. and winds up with the title contest on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Three other Island clubs, Claremont, Oak Bay and Alberni are also entered in the event. The other teams are Kelowna, Penticton, NorKam and Kamloops from the Okanagan; Elphintone from Lower Coast; Mt. Baker of Cranbrook from the Kootenays; Fort St. James from North Central; Mountain Secondary of Langley; and North Delta, North Surrey, South Delta and Centennial from the Fraser Valley.

BOWLER-OF-THE-YEAR ROLLOFF SUNDAY

Five Former Champs In Field

Five former winners will be back in the running for another Bowler-of-the-Year crown when women fivepin qualifiers in the 15th annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest roll off Sunday at Town and Country Lanes.

Defending-champion May Wallis will be chasing an unprecedented fourth title. In addition to winning last season, Wallis topped the rolloffs in 1965 and 1969.

Dorothy Krimmer will attempt to take a third title after winning in 1973 and 1975 while Muriel Ordano (1968), Sandra Wood (1971) and Marie Fisher (1976) will be trying for second titles.

Krimmer topped the entries with a 921 series during the 15th week, Wallis opened the season with a 911 and Fisher topped her division with a 910 during the 20th week.

Rolloff contenders qualified by capturing Bowler-of-the-Week titles in each of four divisions — men's and women's fivepins and men's and women's tenpins — during the season.

The male fivepinners will be rolling off at the same time and site Sunday while the tenpin rolloffs were held last Sunday at Mayfair Lanes. Emmy Plesch took the women's title and Bob Willis nailed down the men's crown.

Like the regular season, the rolloffs will consist of three-game scratch series.

Rolloff winners will receive a Times Trophy and any winner who is also a daily subscriber to the Victoria Times will receive a bonus award of $150.

MAY WALLIS
. . . veteran always threat

Through the co-operation of Ken Jones, manager of Town and Country Lanes, no bowling fees will be charged for the rolloffs.

Women's fivepin contenders, listed in order of the week in which they qualified:

1. May Wallis	311-309-310 — 911
2. Lyn Hickey	193-334-314 — 841
3. Sandra Wood	285-279-240 — 804

Morton in Fold

DENVER (AP) — Craig Morton, the veteran quarterback who led Denver Broncos to the Super Bowl in his first season with the team, signed a series of one-year contracts covering three years, the National Football League team has announced. Terms weren't disclosed, but Morton's salary was believed to be near $200,000 per year for the three years.

TV Rights Started At $7m

NEW YORK (AP) — Top Rank Inc., promoters of the Ali-Spinks rematch, has announced the fight would be televised live by ABC Sports on Sept. 15 from the Louisiana Superdome.

Neither the amount that ABC bid for the fight nor the purses the fighters will receive, were revealed. However, bidding for the television rights was known to have started at $7 million, and the live gate at the Superdome is expected to reach $5 million from the sale of 85,000 seats.

The fight will be part of a championship tripleheader, ABC said, and would be telecast from 8-11 p.m. EDT. The other fights were not announced.

Starry English Striker Agrees to Join Kicks

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — England's Charley George, highly regarded as one of that country's top strikers, agreed Wednesday to join Minnesota Kicks as a loan player from Derby County of the English First Division.

Kicks' president and coach, Freddie Goodwin, negotiated the agreement and said he hoped George would be able to join the North American Soccer League team in time for Sunday's home opener against Dallas Tornado.

George is 27.

Why the Four Seasons? Because it's a hotel as serious about its business of service as I am about the business I'm in.

I judge a hotel by the same standards on which my own business is judged.

Quite simply, does it deliver what it promises—or does it not? Well, the Four Seasons does. It's one hotel in which service is a fact.

I notice it particularly in the attitude of the staff. There's more staff per guest than in any other Vancouver hotel, by the way, and the attention to detail is absolute. Their manner—well, even more than responsive, I'd say. If I want room service at 2 a.m. or a shoeshine, I get it. They actually seem to anticipate what you need, and, in fact, what will please you most.

The best hotel in Vancouver? I have no doubts at all about that.

Bull Killed, Man Charged

A 41-year-old Central Saanich farmhand was accused in county court Wednesday of turning a vicious dog on a young bull, resulting in the animal's death.

Donald Harry Schultz is charged with wilfully killing a Highland bull March 5. He is also accused of having sexual intercourse with a girl aged between 14 and 16 between July 1 and Aug. 31, 1977.

The girl, who owned the bull and kept it at a farm where Schultz worked, told Judge Leslie Cashman she went to the farm to work on a daily basis at the beginning of 1977 and lived there for seven weeks in July and August babysitting a niece of Schultz and working.

She said she has never had sexual intercourse with any man other than Schultz and she resisted him each time by struggling and hitting him.

A dog at the farm named Susie had attacked her bull several times, once driving him into an irrigation pond in self defence, and had bitten a deputy sheriff. By last March, she said, the dog was vicious.

She said she didn't tell her mother about the occurrences of sexual intercourse until after the bull was killed because he had threatened to beat her and kill her animals if she told anyone.

Around the end of February and the beginning of March, she said, she decided she wasn't going to go to the farm any more because Schultz "slapped me around."

She said Schultz telephoned her at her family's home March 4 and asked her to come over but she refused. The next day another person phoned her and Schultz came on the phone and said "he had tied up my bull and sicked Susie on it." She said Schultz told her the bull was dead "and he started laughing."

The girl was to complete her testimony when the trial resumed today.

Two Central Saanich policeman, Consts. James Earl and Donald Mann, testified about a conversation they had with Schultz March 5 after finding the bull dead.

They said Schultz told them the dog killed the bull. The dog was kept in an old car because it was vicious.

When asked why the dog would be let out of the car, Schultz replied "who would want to sick a dog on a bull?"

Schultz told them he put the bull in the yard because it was a "nice sunny afternoon." The policemen also said Schultz told them something to the effect that "if they said I killed the bull I'll get them or I'll get her for sure."

Schultz also told them he had left the farm in the afternoon to make a phone call.

Const. Mann said there were nine dogs, including one locked in a derelict car, and numerous unlicensed vehicles when he arrived at the farm. The dead bull was between two parallel vehicles about two or three feet from each other. It was wearing a halter with a rope and chain attached to the bumper of a pickup truck.

Const. Earl said he received a telephone complaint from the girl and went to the farm. Among the dogs he saw was one which appeared very vicious and another locked in a car. There was no response at the house.

He also said the bull was between two parallel vehicles with its rear quarter badly torn. The animal was warm to touch and rigor mortis had not set in.

He said the bull could not have got out of the confined area except by backing out. To have reached this area, he said the bull would have had to jump over some auto debris and he agreed the bull could have jumped an axle assembly lying nearby. He said four of the roaming dogs were fully grown and the others were pups.

Veterinarian Dr. Margaret Sowden said she examined the bull the next day and described the hindquarters as severely mutilated with marks on the hip suggesting teeth or claw marks. The bull likely died an hour or less after the injuries, from blood loss. The animal was probably a year or two old and weighed 400 to 500 pounds.

The girl's brother said he had stayed once at the farm and had seen Schultz harass her and seen her resist him. He said Schultz was severely cruel to animals, beating and throwing kittens against walls, and "there was a dog, Susie, he made it go mental, by hitting it. I've had Susie come after me. She got me. She was a vicious dog."

He said he told his mother "there's something going on that should not be going on." The mother testified she brought her daughter home from the farm. She also said she visited the farm on the evening of March 5, after the bull was dead, and saw what looked like blood on Susie.

Notice of Public Hearing

Ottawa, April 27, 1978.

CORRECTION TO NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
ISSUE NO. 1
DATED JANUARY 26, 1978.
OTTAWA, ONTARIO
JUNE 12, 1978.

POSTPONEMENT OF THE RENEWALS OF THE CBC NETWORK LICENCES

On January 26, 1978, the Commission issued a Notice of Public Hearing indicating that a Public Hearing was to be held at Ottawa on June 12, 1978, to consider the CBC's six network licence renewals (AM Radio, FM Radio, Television, English and French language, including the Northern Broadcasting Service and Radio-Canada International), due to expire on March 31, 1979.

On April 20, 1978, the Commission received from the CBC its formal application for the renewal of licences, and the Commission was informed that a comprehensive submission containing back-ground information relating to the Corporation's network operations would be forwarded in a few days. The Commission was informed that this supporting material would be available on Friday, April 28, 1978.

Since this supporting material will cover the full range of information and responses necessary for a comprehensive review of the CBC network licences and since the fullest possible opportunity for a complete review of the CBC's performance in relation to its Parliamentary mandate and conditions of licence should be provided, the Commission has decided to postpone this

Public Hearing to October 2, 1978 in order to give sufficient time to those members of the public wishing to prepare and present interventions.

Maggie Caught in Middle

LONDON — It didn't take Margaret Trudeau long to get into trouble in London. She was the centre of a noisy and premature departure from a London night club Wednesday night.

She had arrived Saturday on a ten-day "working trip" during which she is supposed to be writing her memoirs for Paddington Press.

So far as can be determined, the incident at the opening of a new club in the seedy Camden Town district, called Madison, was caused by the presence of a reporter at Mrs. Trudeau's table.

The result was spilled champagne, an argument and the departure by Mrs. Trudeau and six friends, none of them identified, after about third minutes at the club, just as the U.S. pop group Gotham was starting its act.

The incident was related by David Hancock in the Evening News, who claimed that waiters brusquely ordered diners to clear a table to make way for Mrs. Trudeau and party.

"I was one of the diners ordered to leave the table although I had eaten only one hors d'oeuvre," Hancock wrote.

That other guest was Roger Harvey, "another diner invited to stay," who accidentally knocked over a glass of champagne as reporters and photographers jostled Mrs. Trudeau."

Hancock quoted Harvey as saying Mrs. Trudeau told him she had come for a quiet night out and did not expect to be harassed by reporters and photographers.

"But as she left she told me she had been particularly irritated by the photographer who forced me to spill my champagne," Harvey said.

Mrs. Trudeau was quoted as saying: "It was becoming too uncomfortable in there. Someone was making himself very unpleasant." She then left in a car.

The rival Evening Standard quotes Bernard Joy, who handles entertainment for the club, as saying: "The guy was a drunk."

"I believe he is the gay friend of an Evening News reporter. He was molesting Mrs. Trudeau and that's why she left."

Money Isn't Answer

EDMONTON — Quadraplegic Gary Thornton has $859,628 in the bank. But, he has discovered, money can't buy everything.

Thornton was awarded the money in January by the Supreme Court of Canada for injuries he received in a high school gymnastics class in Prince George in 1971.

The accident left him paralysed from the neck down, and dependent on government support. For seven years he was in and out of hospitals — the only place he could get proper care.

To live a normal life on his own, Thornton, now in hospital in Edmonton, said he needs two orderlies to work for him, one on a day shift, the other at night.

He is prepared to pay the $1,000 a month trained orderlies earn, but a thorough search has so far been fruitless. To use a company's services would cost him more than $100 a day.

Thornton is still suffering from the last time he tried to go without proper care.

In June, 1977, he moved in with his brother. He had to return to hospital when bedsores developed from periods when his brother slept and no one could turn him.

"I used to be pretty optimistic, but I'm not anymore," he said.

Katimavik.
It's a new way of life.

You're probably saying to yourself, "KatimaWHAT"? Katimavik. It means "meeting place" in the Inuit language. If you're between the ages of 17 and 22 it can mean a lot more. Katimavik is a total life experience for 9 demanding, challenging months of living and working with young Canadians from other places and backgrounds. What will you be doing? Working on projects that are a service to Canadian communities. Learning to communicate in both official languages. Living simply, conserving resources, and developing new skills and ideas. In other words, Katimavik means a unique adventure in group living.

Katimavik means going places and doing things.
Groups of approximately 30 of you are assigned to 3 successive projects (one of which is in a francophone environment), in 3 different provinces, for 3 month periods. These projects involve 3 things: outdoor physical work aimed at protecting or improving the environment, community service through local organizations, plus cultural and educational aspects.

Katimavik means getting back to basics.
Living conditions vary at each project, but they are all simple and basic – with emphasis on self-sufficiency, respect for the environment, and exploration of alternative ways of living. You'll do your own cleaning and cooking (in many cases with food you've produced from greenhouses and gardens), and you'll learn how to conserve resources in all aspects of your life.

Katimavik means "action-learning".
Learning is basic to the Katimavik experience. It includes training time on arrival at each project. There is also structured and informal learning throughout the 9 months, ranging from language and interpersonal skills needed for intensive group living, to crafts, soft technology, basic manual skills, and research into the historical and cultural heritage of the area.

An optional military experience.
Candidates may also apply for a military option within the general Katimavik program and spend 3 months learning and participating in a program sponsored by the Department of National Defense.

Katimavik's $1000 reward for volunteers.
Katimavik is a voluntary program. You'll work hard and receive no pay. But you will get an allowance of one dollar a day and, at the end of 9 months, an honorarium of one thousand dollars. Katimavik also provides food, lodging, transportation and basic expenses for program activities.

How to join in

Katimavik, 2270 Pierre Dupuy Ave., Cité du Havre, Montréal, Qué. H3C 3R4 (514) 861-9901

But do it now, because the deadline for projects starting at the beginning and end of August is May 26th. You can write to the same address for further information on Katimavik.

Has the Strangler Been Slain?

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Police say they are investigating the possibility that a man killed in an apparent double slaying was connected in some way to the Hillside Strangler murders.

They say they have no reason to suspect Richard Reynolds, 37, of La Crescenta, in any of the 13 murders of young women since September that authorities believe are linked; but there are puzzling aspects which make a connection possible.

Reynolds and Roxanne Barnwell, 29, of Glendale, were found shot to death in her car Monday night. Two handguns were in the vehicle, authorities said.

Police said the bodies were found in a residential neighborhood two blocks from where the seventh strangler victim, Kristina Weckler, and the latest victim, Cindy Lee Hudspeth, lived in separate dwellings.

Also, Mrs. Barnwell's husband told police he had given his wife a handgun recently to protect herself from the Hillside Strangler.

Barnwell said his wife told him two weeks ago that she would kill the strangler if she had a chance.

"I believe she did," Barnwell said Wednesday.

McDonald Rejects RCMP Secrecy

OTTAWA (CP) — The McDonald royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing Wednesday ruled out an RCMP attempt to force the commission into secret sessions on the way the security service tried to recruit informers in Montreal in the early 1970s.

RCMP lawyer Richard Mongeau had said as hearings on the subject resumed this week that the commission should go behind closed doors because of the risk of exposing RCMP investigative techniques in public.

Mr. Justice David C. McDonald, commission chairman, reminded Mongeau that six days were spent on the subject in March and essential details have already been made public.

"It is late in the day now to contend that these disclosures have injured the public interest."

Insp. Laurent Hugo testified in March that he and Dubuc plucked a potential informant off a Montreal street on Oct. 4, 1971, and took him to a motel where they spoke to him for 15 hours before allowing him to go.

Mongeau raised further objections Wednesday as commission counsel Ross Goodwin attempted to question Dubuc about statements he had given to RCMP superiors last June 22 and July 28 in Montreal.

Mongeau questioned a paragraph at the end of the statement saying that it had been given voluntarily.

Royal Commissioner Guy Gilbert of Montreal reminded Mongeau that he is representing the RCMP before the commission.

"What you're asking us to do is not to trust a statement the RCMP had a member sign," Gilbert said. "You're here as a lawyer for the RCMP."

Mongeau said he was trying to establish facts.

"We all want to establish facts and we want to get at the truth," Gilbert said.

Dubuc, he added, could always explain why he wanted to change what he had said in the statement.

MP Lobbies For Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government should encourage British Columbia to begin laying charges against RCMP personnel who have conducted break-ins in that province shown to be illegal, Stuart Leggatt, New Democratic party justice critic, said Wednesday.

Leggatt told the Commons evidence before the McDonald royal commission into RCMP wrongdoings has indicated that members of the force entered private premises on 419 occasions between 1970 and 1976 to "look around" on what were termed "intelligence probes."

He said 402 of those took place in B.C. and asked Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais if he has recommended that the provincial attorney-general begin prosecutions.

Blais replied that the commission, headed by Alberta Supreme Court judge David McDonald, will decide whether the "surreptitious entries" are legal.

Leggatt (New Westminster) said in an interview the government is hiding behind the commission and lacks the courage to charge the policemen even though there is evidence of criminal acts.

"They think its unpopular to lay charges against police officers," the B.C. MP said. It may be unpopular but it is necessary, he added.

Earlier, William Jarvis (PC—Perth Wilmot) asked Blais to correct any misinformation he may have given the House last week when he indicated that a justice department legal opinion on the break-ins showed "that these procedures are legal."

The solicitor-general replied that last week he was answering a question that referred generally to surreptitious entry.

"The question was a general one and I replied in general terms indicating there was a legal opinion," he told Jarvis.

Blais said the legal opinion, tabled before the commission, deals with surreptitious entry to instal electronic devices.

When pressed by Jarvis to state whether there is a justice department legal opinion which does not relate to the installation of electronic surveillance devices Blais replied:

"No, I have never indicated that I had that kind of opinion."

NEW JOB QUERIED

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Benno Friesen told the Commons Wednesday he is concerned that a former RCMP officer who had access to sensitive security information now is working for a former employee of American billionaire Howard Hughes.

Former RCMP S.Sgt. Ed Hameluk has left the co-ordinating law enforcement unit in Vancouver to work with John Meir, a former Hughes associate, said Friesen (Surrey-White Rock). He did not specify what the men are doing.

He said police forces in Canada are concerned about this because Hameluk was in "a sensitive security position analysing intelligence and information sources."

Gyproc Makers Fined

TORONTO (CP) — Three of Canada's largest producers of gypsum wallboard were fined a total of $275,000 Wednesday when they pleaded guilty to conspiring to rig prices in Western Canada from 1966 to 1974.

Domtar Inc. of Montreal and Westroc Industries Ltd. of Mississauga, Ont., were each fined $100,000. Genstar Ltd., also of Montreal and the smallest of the three, was fined $75,000.

The firms were charged under the federal Combines Investigation Act.

Mr. Justice Gregory Evans, chief justice of the Ontario Supreme Court, said the fines, proposed by lawyers for the firms, were realistic under the circumstances.

New VD Spreads

HAMILTON (CP) — A previously-rare type of sexually-transmitted disease is beginning to rival gonorrhea in prevalence and Canadian doctors should begin testing suspected cases to control its spread, a symposium held by the central Ontario branch of the Canadian Society of Microbiologists was told Wednesday.

Dr. Max Chernesky, head of the regional virology laboratory at St. Joseph's Hospital, said the disease is caused by chlamydia organisms, acting like both a virus and a bacteria.

He said the infection can cause inflammatory eye diseases in adults and newborn babies, pneumonia in newborn babies, and inflammatory diseases of the rectum, anus, urethra, cervix and fallopian tubes. Treatment with appropriate antibiotics is effective, he added.

Dr. Kathleen Given of the Women's College Hospital in Toronto told the symposium that syphilis has become largely a disease of male homosexuals.

Dr. Given said 1,614 cases of syphilis were reported in Ontario last year and neither of the traditional patients—sailors and prostitutes—was a major source.

Public Announcement

Ottawa, April 26, 1978

NOTICE TO BROADCASTERS
FEDERAL GENERAL ELECTION

Pursuant to Section 99.1(11) of the Canada Elections Act, the CRTC announces that the 6½ hours of prime time for the next federal general election has been allocated amongst the registered political partis as set out below. This allocation was arrived at after receipt and consideration of objections to the proposal issued by the CRTC April 14, 1978, and after consultation with the political parties on those objections. This allocation is binding upon political parties and broadcasters.

According to Section 99.1(1) "the broadcaster and the network operator between them, shall, subject to regulations made pursuant to the Broadcasting Act and to the conditions of their licences, make available to the registered parties, . . . an aggregate of six and one-half hours of broadcasting time during prime time on the facilities of the broadcaster."

Progressive Conservative Party of Canada	34.36%	134 minutes
New Democratic Party of Canada	16.15%	63 minutes
Social Credit Party of Canada	5.65%	22 minutes
Communist Party of Canada	2.05%	8 minutes
Marxist-Leninist Party of Canada	2.05%	8 minutes

Broadcasters are reminded that under no circumstances can a party buy more than the amount of time indicated in the above allotment.

Under the Canada Elections Act Section 99.1(18) (19) (20), network operators are also required to make free time programming periods available to the registered political parties. This time shall be in network reserved time periods but need not be in prime time periods.

As previously announced in the CRTC Public Announcement of February 2, 1978, the radio and television networks, to the satisfaction of the CRTC, have agreed to allocate the following free time periods during the next federal general election.

Television
CBC English	3½ hours
CBC French	3½ hours
CTV	3½ hours
TVA	1 hour
Radio
CBC-AM English	2 hours
CBC-AM French	2 hours
Radiomutuel	1 hour
Telemedia	1 hour

Network operators are reminded that these network free time periods must be allocated amongst political parties in the same proportions as the 6½ hour allocation.

Ban on Lobbying Lifted for Charities

OTTAWA (CP) — The revenue department was ordered Wednesday to revise a controversial circular which warns charitable organizations to refrain from political activities if they want tax-free status.

Monique Begin, acting as revenue minister in the Commons, said officials have been told to "update it to today's democracy."

The circular — dated February, 1978, but based on decades-old court interpretations of the terms charitable and political activity — was ordered by Revenue Minister Joe Guay, now a senator.

The circular says charities applying for tax-free status for their income are barred from attempting to influence legislation by making representations to MPs, from writing letters to editors to sway public opinion on a political issue and from public demonstrations to embarrass or put pressure on a government.

"I'm asking my officials to review and clarify the bulletin now that there's a controversy over this thing," Guay said.

Miss Begin and Guay were expanding in a joint interview on remarks they made in their respective Houses following four consecutive days of protests from Progressive Conservatives who called the circular intimidating, regressive and a violation of freedom of speech.

Both ministers said it will be made clear charities have the right, as do all citizens in a modern democracy, to write letters to MPs and present briefs to cabinet ministers. They said officials interpreted the law strictly in the circular.

While the government does not mean to bar charities from communicating their views to a government, it has to prohibit heavier political activities as the law now stands.

Miss Begin's example was use of tax-free funds to fight a government policy in court. Guay's example was a charity financing the campaign of an election candidate.

"If anybody is in disagreement with the bulletin's interpretation of the Act then let's change the legislation," Guay said.

SOLAR TAX CUT URGED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives called on the federal government Wednesday to provide up to $400 million in tax breaks to homeowners as an incentive to solar power development.

Stan Schellenberger, an Alberta MP and the party's renewable energy spokesman, proposes tax credits of up to $2,100, retroactive to 1970 and extending to 1985, and credits of $1,200 from then until 1990.

The aim, he says, is to reach a goal of having 200,000 homes heated by solar power by 1990.

He challenged Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie "to introduce our proposed policy as amendments to the present budget."

Release of the Conservative policy statement came on Sun Day, being observed today world-wide to attract attention to solar power.

Volare Recalled Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Chrysler Canada has begun its fourth major recall to correct defects in its troublesome 1976-78 Volare and Aspens.

The federal transport department said Wednesday that Chrysler will recall 150,000 of the vehicles to correct possible defects in the front suspension.

The cars have already been recalled to repair faulty front hood latches that could allow the hood to fly up at high speeds, to repair a design defect in the carburetor that causes chronic stalling and to protect brake lines from possible corrosion by battery acid.

The transport department said in a release that it began receiving reports in late November last year of a failure of the upper control arm pivot bar support plate on the front suspension of Aspens and Volares. An investigation led to the latest recall.

AIB Lists Excesses

OTTAWA (CP) — The anti-inflation board released a list of 23 companies Wednesday that it says earned $2,265,000 of excess revenues that they have agreed to return to consumers.

Anti-inflation guides require companies to set prices to cover allowable costs and a limited margin of profit. Any earnings above this amount are considered excess revenues.

Since the anti-inflation program was imposed in October, 1975, a total of $164.24 million of excess revenues were generated by 667 companies.

SNOWBIRD PLUMMETS TO DEATH

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — Captain Gordon deJong, 32, of Moose Jaw, Sask., a two-year member of the Canadian Forces aerial acrobatics team the Snowbirds, was killed during an air show Wednesday night.

DeJong's C-41 Tutor training jet plummeted to earth shortly after pulling out of a manoeuvre that required it to fly upside down.

Alta. Only 'Have' Province?

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta will be the only so-called "have" province in Canada within two months, the head of the C.D. Howe Institute said Wednesday.

Carl Beigie told a conference on economic and social trends in Western Canada that under current government definitions, Ontario will move into the have-not range with the pending natural-gas price increase.

Unless the federal government redefines have and have-not provinces, Beigie said, Alberta will be paying a large part of the Confederation bill.

"And Alberta cannot be a long purse to finance federalism," he said.

He said Alberta is going to have to make decisions on the number of people it wants and what type of development it will encourage.

"People in this area may say 'we have to go it alone,' and this has profound implications for the future of this country and the harmony we want to achieve."

Beigie said Alberta is in a "very, very favorable position" and how the province handles the shift of power to Alberta from the east could have a major impact on Confederation.

"Alberta will play a new, more powerful role," he said, noting that Premier Peter Lougheed understands the responsibilities of power.

Beigie said the Lougheed government will have to determine how best to handle the riches of Alberta and provide the province with a sustained economic base.

Senior Pep Talk . . . Vander Zalm Style

Vander Zalm, summing up a speech on home assistance and health care programs, said pensioners are being encouraged to do more for themselves.

He said although the ministry is expanding its assistance programs, it would like to see more volunteers.

The minister said people are expecting too many services from the province and that the government is getting into debt trying to maintain an artificially high standard of living.

By cutting back some programs, the human resources ministry is trying to achieve accountability. Eliminating bad or ineffective programs leaves more resources to expand the good programs, Vander Zalm.

The Pharmacare program, first intended to provide prescription drugs to senior citizens, was tightened up to the extent that all B.C. residents who need it can make use of it, he said.

Sloppy administration during the first eight months created serious abuses, Vander Zalm charged, but the problems are being cleaned up.

A team of auditors travels around the province checking the books of human resources branches and welfare offices to make sure they are accountable.

The emphasis is on enabling senior citizens to stay in their own homes where possible, and providing inexpensive daily care — at $6.50 a day — when they have to be hospitalized.

Housing Starts Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing starts dropped to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 206,000 in April from 302,900 in March, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporatio reported today.

CMHC said in a release that housing starts for the first quarter of 1978 were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 306,900 compared with 251,200 in the fourth quarter of 1977.

Actual starts in urban areas in April were 12,452 dwelling units, a decrease of 17 per cent from the 14,994 actual starts in the same month a year ago.

Starts of single detached dwelling units in April totalled 5,114 compared with 5,916 in April, 1977, a decrease of 14 per cent.

HOSPITAL TRUSTEES MEET

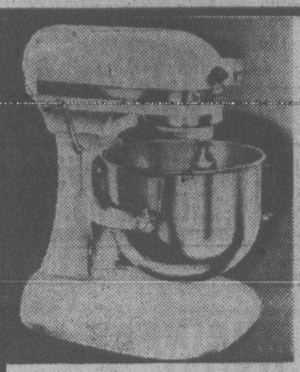
Directors Frances Thompson, Corinne Tench and Charles Jackson of the Juan de Fuca Hospitals Society will represent the hospitals of the Priory, Mount Tolmie, Glengarry and Aberdeen at the annual meeting of the B.C. Health Association in Vancouver May 9-11.

Also attending will be administrator George Harrison, director of nursing services Mrs. Vera McIver and director Allan Fraser.

More than 600 hospital trustees, administrators, nurses, medical staff, directors of volunteer services and others are expected to attend the conference which will include lectures, panel discussions, displays and a full day devoted to trustee education.

Health Minister Bob McClelland will give an address. Guest speaker will be Canadian-born Dr. Vernon Nickel, director of rehabilitation services with the United States veterans administration in Washington, D.C.

Following Nickel's presentation a panel discussion is to focus on the long-term care program.



For the home baker

It's a 5-quart KitchenAid mixer, Model K5-A, for the homemaker with a big family or who loves to bake. It's got the power to knead yeast dough or to make fruit cakes, as well as handling cookie batters, meringues and all general purpose mixing.

It mixes more volume, faster and more thoroughly because the single beater turns in one direction while revolving around the bowl in the opposite direction. Just like the big Hobart commercial mixers. The K5-A is rugged and built to last.

Complete with stainless steel bowl, flat beater and whip. Over a dozen work-saving attachments are available to help you get more done in less time.

Priced the imports lately?

If you have already, you'll know what we're talking about. If you haven't, we'd better prepare you for a shock.

Would you believe over five grand for a VW Rabbit?! And the other popular imported Hatchbacks are all up there over four grand!

Now you're probably thinking, "Okay, if that's the kind of money you have to put out to get the kind of standard features you want, well, what can you do?"

You can get down to your Pontiac dealer and check out the '78 Acadian. Not only does Acadian set you back less than the four leading imported Hatchbacks but you get a low-sill rear hatch and flat loading floor, a 1.6 litre 4-cylinder overhead-cam engine, four-on-the floor, centre console, reclining buckets, AM radio, carpeting, body side molding, whitewalls, wheel covers, and more, as standard equipment.

THERE'S NO MAGIC TO MAKING BREAD

If you enjoy the aroma of bread baking in the oven, it's well worth the effort to make it, say food consultants at Agriculture Canada. It's really not all that difficult to do.

The main ingredients in yeast breads are simple — just flour, liquid, yeast, salt, sugar and fat. The sugar and fat ensure an acceptable flavor and texture. The actual making of the bread involves four steps — mixing, kneading, fermentation and baking.

After mixing, bread dough is kneaded until it is smooth and elastic to develop "gluten". This is the framework that holds in the gas produced by the yeast during fermentation. The dough is allowed to sit in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. This is the longest part of the procedure usually requiring about 1½ hours.

Food consultants at Agriculture Canada recommend that you try this Oatmeal Bread recipe, just to see how easy it is to prepare. The Honey Oatmeal bread is delicious too.

OATMEAL BREAD

1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup lukewater water
1 package active dry yeast
2 cups hot milk
½ cup molasses
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoon shortening
2 cups rolled oats
5 to 5½ cups all-purpose flour

Dissolve sugar in water and sprinkle yeast over top. Let stand 10 minutes. Combine next four ingredients and stir until shortening melts. Cool to lukewarm and stir in yeast mixture and oats. Gradually beat in 3 cups flour. Work in enough remaining flour to make soft dough.

Turn onto floured board and knead until smooth and elastic (8 to 10 minutes). Shape into ball and place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover and let stand in warm place until double in bulk (about 1½ hours).

Punch down, divide in half, cover and let rest rest 10 minutes. Shape into 2 loaves and place in greased 9x5-inch loaf pans. Brush with melted fat.

Cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Bake 30 to 35 minutes at 375°F. Makes two loaves.

HONEY OATMEAL BREAD: Make as Oatmeal Bread, but use ½ cup liquid honey in place of ½ cup molasses.

Unbaked bread dough may be frozen. Complete the recipe method to the end of kneading, but use 2 packages active dry yeast and 2 teaspoons sugar to activate the yeast. Cover the dough and let it rest 20 minutes, then shape it into loaves or rolls.

Place these on greased baking sheets and brush with melted fat. Cover and freeze until firm (about 1 hour), then transfer to freezer bags and return to freezer. Frozen bread dough keeps well for a month in the freezer.

To bake, remove dough from freezer, grease tops and place in greased pans. Cover and allow to thaw in refrigerator (about 16 hours). Remove from refrigerator, leave uncovered and allow the dough to rise in a warm place until it has doubled in bulk (about 1 hour). Bake as you would for fresh.

Bread may also be frozen after baking. Package cooled loaves in freezer bags or aluminum foil for freezing. Frozen baked bread keeps for 2 months in the freezer.

Refrigerating bread is not recommended as it encourages the bread to go stale. However, refrigeration of bread during hot, humid weather is acceptable as it will prevent mold growth. If you store bread at room temperature in an airtight container, it will keep well for 4 to 5 days.

After Graduation. . .Pounds

Nutrition Buyline

QUESTION:

My son, as well as some of his friends, have gained weight following their graduation from university. Why is this so?

ANSWER:

The decreased need of calories for growth after adolescence, plus the frequent shift from an active campus life to a sedentary way of life, may compound the tendency to gain weight. All people would count on reducing their caloric intake in their early 20's if their total activity has lessened.

QUESTION:

ANSWER:

Yes, chocolate milk is a good source of calcium, vitamin A and vitamin D. However, a very small amount of the calcium is locked chemically with the oxalate in the chocolate so it makes a very small amount of the calcium unavailable to the body. The fact that chocolate milk contains added sugar makes it less desirable than ordinary milk from a nutritional point of view.

QUESTION:

Do raw vegetables provide more nutrients than cooked ones?

ANSWER:

Raw and cooked vegetables are both nutritious. They supply fibre, vitamins (especialy A and C) and minerals to our diet. The reason for eating vegetables raw is that in cooking some of the vitamin C is destroyed by heat and oxidation. This can be minimized by cooking your vegetables for as short a time as possible, only until they are tender crisp.

Provitamin A is contained in deep yellow orange and dark green vegetables. Cooking these vegetables helps the body to absorb more of the provitamin A. The cooking weakens the cell walls of the vegetables which allows more of the vitamin to escape and be absorbed in digestin. it is best to eat a variety of cooked and raw vegetables, and the more variety the better!

An Inspired Two-Crust Pie

Mary Moore

We had a mini-inspiration. A letter had just arrived asking for my Heavenly Rhubarb Jam recipe. It was popular at the time it was first given because it was a combination of rhubarb and pineapple.

When summer comes rhubarb will be plentiful for thousands of Canadians have a clump in their gardens. My mother would run out and gather an armful to make a pie and sometimes add a couple of sliced apples to it.

Inspired by her and your enthusiasm over my Heavenly Rhubarb Jam I combined rhubarb with crushed pineapple in a two-crust pie. As I write this, a newspaper reporter is behind me eating a piece while she writes a story about me.

RHUBARB PINEAPPLE TWO-CRUST PIE

Pastry:

1 c. stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
1 c. stirred but unsifted cake-and-pastry flour
1 tsp. salt
⅔ c. shortening
2 tbsp. hard butter
5 tbsp. cold water (see below)

Filling:

One 19-oz. can unsweetened crushed pineapple, DRAINED
2½ tbsp. minute tapioca
¾ c. sugar

Before making your pastry in a large bowl mix the rhubarb, drained pineapple, tapioca and sugar and let stand to soak.

To make pastry combine flours and salt. Add shortening and butter and cut in with pastry blender until size of peas. Drizzle in cold water tossing with fork. (Note: four tablespoons cold water results in flakier pastry but is more difficult to handle than pastry moistened with 5 tablespoons cold water.)

Pack half of pastry between your palms and roll out on lightly floured board to fit 9" deep pie plate. Line pie plate and trim off ragged edge. Tip in rhubarb-pineapple filling. Cover with rolled out second half of dough. Gash at centre. Seal and crimp edges. Brush top with mixture of 1 tablespoon each sugar and milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes longer or until juice bubbles through gashes and rhubarb is tender.

Riviera Rejected

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The French Riviera apparently is no longer attractive to Danish tourists. Tjaereborg, a big travel agency, announced that it is cancelling its tours there this summer because only 20 per cent of 2,500 scheduled travel packages have been sold.

GURU PEALE KEEPS GOING

DENVER (AP) — At 79, Norman Vincent Peale, the self-improvement guru, says he's not even thinking about retiring.

"I've got six or seven jobs at the moment," the minister and motivational authority said Friday. "Which one am I supposed to retire from?"

Although you hear and use the expression mental health frequently, you would probably find it very difficult to define its meaning.

According to the four-page folder What Is Mental Health? in broad terms mental health means the well-being of a person's mind and emotions. Some experts describe mental health simply as 'the ability to hold a job, have a family, keep out of trouble with the law and enjoy the usual opportunities for pleasure.'

The folder highlights other indications of mental health, like feeling comfortable with oneself, feeling right about others and being able to meet the demands of life.

In relationships with other persons, the mentally healthy person assums they will like and trust him. Also, he is able to establish lasting and satisfying personal relationships.

Furthermore, the folder points out that nobody has all the characteristics of good mental health at all times. Brief ups and downs are nothing to become concerned about.

To obtain the four-page folder What Is Mental Health?, write to: Public Relations Department, Canadian Mental Health Association, 2160 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont. M4S 2Z3.

Nutrition Ad Ban Easing

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

It is a little-known fact that government regulations do not allow, let alone encourage, food manufacturers with nutritionally valuable products to advertise them or label them for their nutritional features.

A recent issue of the Medical Post, a biweekly medical newspaper aimed at the general practitioner, carried a two-page spread (no pun intended) on Fleischmann's soft margarine and Egg Beaters. The title, which occupied a quarter of the space allotted to the ad, read, "The law won't let us tell your patients about the dangers of dietary cholestrol. But there is no law to stop you." The ad proceeded to explain to the physicians' readers that "Canadian law is very specific: food manufacturers may not dessiminate information to the general public about fat-modified diets and their beneficial relationship to life threatening disease. Yet, at the same time, the Canadian government has been just as explicit in stating, in the Report of the Committee on Diet and Cardiovascular Disease, 'The relationship of dietary fat and cholestrol to high plasma cholesterol levels and atherosclerosis has been repeatedly confirmed in many species of animals including sub-human primates.' "

Nutritional labelling is allowed in a very limited way in Canada. The manufacturers may declare a product to be "good" or "excellent" source of certain nutrients. There may be a statement of the number of calories, and the grams of protein, fat and carbohydrate in 100 grams of the product. Now, any one connected with the art of advertising would tell you that all these statements are meaningless to the average consumer. As a result, very few manufacturers bother to take advantage of these regulations. So, as far as informing the consumer of the nutritional value of the foods they buy, these regulations are obsolete.

There are indications, however, that the government's current thinking may be changing. In a recent speech to the Grocery Products Manufacturers of Canada, Health and Welfare Minister Monique Begin came out strongly in support of informing the consumers of the nutritional value of the foods they are buying. She specifically indicated the need for cereal manufacturers to state, on their products, the percentage of sugar added. If this trend continues, maybe one day we will be able to know the nutritional value of the foods we eat.

DEAR RUTH AND ZAK:

I would like some advice on my eating habits. I am a woman of 54 years of age. I eat meat only once a week, maybe a hamburger at McDonald's. Sometimes, I eat chicken breast twice a week. I have tuna in a tin. I eat no eggs, but would eat cheese every day, along with about 9 ounces of 2% milk a day. I eat 2 slices of 100% whole wheat bread daily. Now, my bad habit is eating many arrowroots between meals, and red licorice (I can eat one package of 24 sticks of licorice in a day).

The doctors say I need to lose 10 pounds, so I am joining TOPS. I belonged to Weight Watchers and lost 10 pounds, but I gained them back.

I never drink coffee, tea or alcohol. I drink gingerale, maybe twice a month. I drink mainly water. I drink no fruit juice, because I have an ulcer. Of fruits, I eat only bananas and melon.

What do you feel I am lacking? — B. M., LONDON, ONT.

eating right

DEAR B. M.:

Our first impression is that you are not eating enough or that you did not count everything. From what you told us, we calculated that you are averaging 600 calories a day, without the arrowroots and the licorice of which you did not give us amounts. Let us assume that what you told us represents the pattern of eating rather than a complete account of everything you eat.

Your eating pattern sounds good with few exceptions: The most obvious one is the "many arrowroots" and the 24 sticks of licorice that you have a great love for. Nothing is wrong with having one or two arrowroots, but there is no place for licorice in the diet of someone who is trying to lose weight.

Your diet seems to be lacking in fruits and vegetables. You did not tell us which vegetables you are particularly fond of. Eating a wide variety of vegetables will give you very few calories and would help balance your diet with vitamins and minerals. It will also, at times satisfy your hunger and help you overcome any craving for high-calorie foods. Your doctor should advise you on the type and the cooking of vegetables so as not to aggravate your ulcer.

In fact, you should ask your doctor to refer you for dietetic counselling. You should have a qualified dietitian plan a diet for you that is nutritionally balanced, moderate in caloric content and helpful to your ulcer condition.

As far as we know, either Tops or Weight Watchers could help you adhere to your diet. It will always be true that if you resort to poor eating habits (and you don't appear to have many), you are likely to regain your weight.

Another point we should mention is that you may not need to lose all of the 10 pounds. That amount is not excessive and it is possible that you would be comfortable carrying it. With a bit of exercise you should be able to take some of it off and keep it off. Exercise witll also re-distribute the excess weight, and that alone may make you feel and look better.

* * *

DEAR RUTH and ZAK:

I enjoy reading your column and have noted the one on oatmeal.

I use the long cooking type but have an easier way of preparing it. I use the required amount of boiling water to soak the oatmeal overnight. Next morning, add a little milk and cook for about 10 minutes. Using a fairly heavy pot, and keeping the heat low, I find no difficulty in clean ups. Red River cereal can be prepared the same way and it just slips out of the pot with no sticking.

Being aware of "eating right" whenever I bake cookies, date squares, cakes, etc. from scratch, I halve the amount of sugar required and find no adverse effect. — M. M., SCARBOROUGH, ONT.

DEAR M. M.:

Thank you for your letter and suggestions. Your method works well enough to have us converted. It certainly saves a step on a busy morning. Thanks for the tip!

And now a tip of our own: For parents of young children who want to follow the habits of good nutrition, but haven't any recipes . . . Vicki Lanski, author of "Feed Me, I'm Yours" has written a new recipe book for the parents of small children called "The Taming of the C.A.N.D.Y. Monster." (C.A.N.D.Y. stands for Continuously Advertised, Nutritionally Deficient Yummies.) She was probably stirred to do it because of the voracious appetites of her two youngsters for anything sweet and advertised but whether from defence or offence, Ms. Lanski has written an amusing book with enough healthful recipes for cookies, snacks an meals to keep a family happy while healthy. Only one complaint: ignore the addition of artificial sweeteners when they're called for — the book was obviously assembled before the facts about saccharin were confirmed. Although she uses very little sweetener, it is there. You can just skip those. It's a dandy book and it's distributed in Canada by Musson Books.

Omelet for a Quick Feast

60-MINUTE GOURMET

A short while ago it was noted that an egg, more than any other food, is probably the ultimate item for a hastily made and excellent main course. Given a few additional and inspired ingredients, such as spinach, sour cream, mushrooms, ratatouille (freshly made or leftover), ham, cheese and so on, an egg can quickly be turned into an omelet for a feast.

Omelets, of course, take many forms. The classic and best known is the folded version, which must be made in seconds or it will become tough and rubbery. Then there is the flat omelet, with its various ingredients, which is cooked until set and served without folding.

In Spain, two basic methods are taught for making an omelet — "a la Espanola," which is flat.

In my childhood one of the favorite dishes was a flat omelet, hearty, delectable preparation made with home-cured ham cut into small cubes and thinly sliced potatoes cooked in oil until crisp, with onions. The ham and seasonings were added and the eggs cooked, stirring and lifting gently with a spatula, until set. It was all turned out onto a platter and served sliced. If any of this omelet was left over, it was often saved and served cold for outings in the country.

This makes for a substantial main course and an excellent accompaniment is quickly cooked asparagus served with a vinaigrette sauce. The significant thing to remember in making the flat omelet is to use a smooth-surfaced pan so that the omelet does not stick when transferred to a platter.

OMELETTE PAYSANNE
(A flat potato and ham omelet)

2 potatoes, about three-quarters pound
3 tablespoons peanut, vegetable or corn oil
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
½ cup halfed, very thinly sliced onion
1 cup cooked ham cut into half-inch dice
4 teaspoons butter
10 eggs
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon finely chopped tarragon
2 teaspoons finely chopped chives.

1. Peel the potatoes and slice them as thinly as possible. Drop into cold water to prevent discoloration. Drain and pat dry.

2. Heat a skillet and add the oil. When it is very hot, add the potatoes. Do not break the slices. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

3. Cook, making sure the potatoes do not stick. Brown well about 10 minutes and add the onions. Continue cooking about one minute. Add the ham and dot with three teaspoons of butter. Shake skillet and gently turn over ingredients so that they cook evenly.

4. Beat the eggs with a wire whisk. Add salt, pepper and herbs. Pour the eggs over the ham and potato mixture.

5. Gently stir the mixture from the bottom, allowing the egg mixture to flow to the bottom. Cook over high heat. Lift up the edges of the omelet and let the remaining butter flow beneath the omelet. Shade the skillet to make certain the omelet is loose.

6. Invert a large plate over the skillet and quickly invert the skillet, letting the omelet fall into the plate. This omelet is best served hot, but is also delicious at room temperature.

Yield: 4 servings.

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal 16-year-old girl with very strict parents. The only time I get away from home is to spend the weekend with my girlfriend, and then I run with a pretty wild crowd. I've never been busted for pot or gone all the way with a guy, but most of my girlfriends have, and I know that a girl is judged by the company she keeps.

I finally got a date with a decent boy for a change, and I acted as nice as I knew how. All he got from me was a good-night kiss. After two dates, he stopped calling me. He must have heard about my reputation and it scared him off.

Abby, how can I let him know that I'm really not that bad and that I have a bad reputation only because of my friends? I like him very much and wonder if you can help me get him back?

BROWN EYES BLUE

DEAR BLUE: Unfortunately, a reputation can be damaged overnight, but it can't be repaired that fast. You earned your reptutation, so now you'd better set about living it down and building up a new one.

Only by consistent good behavior and strictly staying away from "bad" company can you prove to people that you aren't the kind of girl they thought you were.

DEAR ABBY: We were given a dog as a gift, and everything is just fine, except for one matter.

After we have dinner, my husband give the dog his plate to lick clean.

I think this is a disgusting practice that could be dangerous to our health. My husband husband says that as long as all the dishes go into the automatic dishwasher and are rinsed in boiling water, it doesn't make any difference. What do you think about this?

SQUEAMISH

DEAR SQUEAMISH: Tell your husband that if "it doesn't make any difference," you'd just as soon have your own dishes and let the dog have his.

DEAR ABBY: Tom and I have been married for two years. (No kids.) Another young couple moved in near us, and we liked them at first. But once I got to know the fellow (I'll call him Frank), my feelings changed.

Frank is the type who never stays home. Of course, it was none of my business, except when he started coming over here and getting Tom to go with him. I finally found out where they went when the two of them took off — they would steal, just for the fun of it. Or rather Frank would do the actual stealing and my husband would "help" him. Frank sells this stuff, and he and Tom split the profit.

Tom never stole a thing before he met Frank. I told my husband if he got caught, he would be as guilty as Frank, but he doesn't believe me. I also told him I hate Frank, but he said Frank is his friend, not mine. I worry all the time, but there is nothing I can do. Please help me.

TOM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell your husband to choose between his friendship with Frank and his marriage to you. And if he chooses Frank, consider yourself lucky to be rid of a bad deal before there are children to consider.

Orange Juice is not the Only Route to Vitamin C

Food for Thought

By DR. JEAN MAYER and DR. JOHANNA DWYER

Q. With the price of citrus fruit threatening to go out of sight, I'm looking for some alternative sources of vitamin C — that is, something other than fortified juice drinks, which I won't use because they contain large amounts of sugar. Can you make some suggestions?

A. We hope the price of orange juice will stay within reason. In fact, one recent estimate predicts that when things have settled down, the price increase will amount to about five cents on a six-ounce can.

It is true that we have generally come to think of orange juice as synonymous with vitamin C, and for good reason. Just a half cup provides the entire Recommended Daily Allowance of 60 milligrams. But there are a number of alternative ways to meet your vitamin C requirement.

One excellent source is broccoli. A cup of chopped broccoli provides 105 milligrams. Many dark green leafy vegetables, such as spinach and kale, provide 50 milligrams per cup, and a cup of steamed cabbage 40 milligrams. A half cup of tomato juice contains 20 milligrams, as does a medium baked potato.

In addition, many brands of pure fruit juice, such as pineapple, which are naturally low in vitamin C, are now fortified to increase their vitamin C content. And finally, even canned fruits provide some vitamin C. And finally, even canned fruits provide some vitamin C.

So, while we traditionally turn to citrus fruit to meet our need for vitamin C, it is quite possible to get all you need without it.

In preparing cooked vegetables, it's important to remember that vitamin C is soluble in water and quite vulnerable to heat. Therefore, try to cook them in a small amount of water for as brief a time as possible.

Citrus fruits may not be the bargin they once were, but what is? Try looking at it this way: grapefruit halves or orange wedges may cost no more than a piece of pie for dessert, but they're certainly a lot better for you.

* * *

Q. I was particularly interested in a recent column in which you discussed lactose intolerance. But I'm afraid I still don't clearly understand exactly how lactose intolerance and milk intolerance differ. Could you please explain it again?

A. As you may know, in order for lactose to be absorbed, it first must be broken down in the intestine into the two simple sugars, glucose and glactose. For this to occur, the intestinal enzyme called lactose must be present.

To discover whether this reaction is proceeding normally, you must undergo a simple test that usually involves going a day or night without eating and then swallowing a "load" dose of lactose. The exact amount is based on your body weight, up to a limit of 50 grams, which is as much as is found in a quart of milk.

If lactose is present, the blood sugar level should begin to climb. A rise of no more than 20 milligams per 100 millilitres of blood indicates lactose malabsorption.

But this laboratory finding is of no particular significance unless you also experience abdominal cramps, diarrhea, nausea and flatulence. All these are symptoms considered typical of lactose intolerance.

With the exception of teenage boys, whose capacity for milk seems almost limitless, most of us drink far less than a quart of milk at one time. Moreover, children and adults who indeed have lactose intolerance can often still enjoy reasonable amounts of milk without experiencing even minor symptoms. Indeed, nearly one out of three people who are found to have lactose malabsorption do not show symptoms even after drinking a quart of milk.

Of far greater practical importance, then, is the problem of milk intolerance — that is, the development of symptoms after taking an ordinary amount of milk. Interestingly, however, in controlled studies both at Cornell and at M.I.T., many participants who reported symptoms were given lactose or milk also complained when given a lactose-free placebo. Thus, milk intolerance remains an ill-defined phenomenon.

Finally, many individuals who experience milk symptoms do not consider the discomfort severe enough to warrant giving up milk altogether. Others who cannot take a whole cup of milk, find that they can tolerate half that amount, particularly if it is not ice cold. It now looks as if the number of individuals in whom serious gastrointestinal sysmptoms can be clearly related to the ingestion of small amounts of milk is really quite limited. These few are about the only ones who should become teetotalers where milk is concerned.

Common ¢ents

By KATE MacQUEEN

A dark, greasy spot on your soft leather handbag or boots may never disappear, said the leather shop owner — but it may, too. Try erasing the stain with a naptha-like grease spot remover. If that doesn't do the job, you can always apply a darker shoe polish or leather dye to blend the rest of the leather with the dark stain.

* * *

That drawer in the bottom of your refrigerator may be for fruits and vegetables, but often not for both at the same time. If you store carrots and lettuce with pears and apples, a gas from the fruit will give a bitter flavor to the carrots and brown spots to the lettuce. Of course, you can put the vegetables into air-tight plastic bags to protect them from these fruits . . . just remember to do it.

* * *

What's the most energy efficient pan you can use on a conventional or smooth-top electric range? Researchers found that a stainless steel pan with aluminum-interior heated food the most efficiently rapidly and evenly on all ranges, including smooth-top ones. That's contrary to the claim of some range manufacturers that special pans are needed for smooth-top surface cooking.

* * *

You could be wasting a postage stamp and stationery if you write to a food manufacturer complaining that a box of cereal, package of noodles or any other dry food wasn't as full as it should be. Surveys have found 11,000 dry foods to be over-packaged by an average of four per cent.

Strep Throat Still Anxiety

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Strep throat is still a source of great anxiety to patients, even though the antibiotics are so effective in controlling and curing it. In order to accurately determine if the streptococcus is really responsible for a sore throat, tonsillitis or pharyngitis, a smear and culture of the infected area is necessary.

Unfortunately, it sometimes taks 36 to 48 hours before the culture report is completed. This delays starting treatment and sometimes can prolong the duration of the illness.

Ten years ago, it was suggested by Dr. Frank P. Brancato, of the United States Public Health Service, that a "gram stain" technique could immediately determine if the strep was indeed present. He proposed that a swab from the infected area should be immediately placed on a glass slide, stained with a special dye and then placed under the microscope for identification.

It took almost 10 years for Dr. Brancato to convince other physicians interested in infectious diseases to try this method. Now it is possible to begin treatment immediately with antibiotics, as soon as the microscopic study is made.

Colleagues of Dr. Brancato at the University of Oregon have already started an extensive program for this rapid determination for the presence of the streptococcus germ.

Undoubtedly, hospitals all over the country will also be using this technique.

The successful control of a certain type of epilepsy has been studied in Europe with a new drug, dosium valproate. Almost 200,000 patients showed about 60 per cent effectiveness with this drug for the treatment of "petit mal."

The right to use the drug has been delayed in the United States while the federal drug administration scientifically proves its effectiveness and studies it for possible side effects.

It is understandable that the Epilepsy Foundation of America is exerting great pressure on the Food and Drug Administration to release the new drug. Certainly, the many thousands of epileptics in the United States should be given every available benefit of new drugs that science produces. Yet, the FDA must be supported for its diligence and dedication in safeguarding every single user of a new drug from potential harmful side effects.

It will be only a short time before the value of the drug is determined. Until then, conflicts between organizations and the FDA about this drug can serve to do an injustice to both.

A by-product of the brewery industry is called "spent brewer's grain." Sometimes this is thrown away or used as cattle feed.

Now it has been found that this gain may become an inexpensive source of food fibre and protein. Dr. Neville Prentice, of the University of Wisconsin and the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, believes this will be nutritionally excellent for cookies, muffins and whole wheat bread.

Saved from Whale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 14,000-pound killer whale held a Marineland animal trainer underwater for several minutes before it was lured away and the trainer rescued, officials said. A county fire department spokesman said Jill Stratton, 27, was in good condition in hospital.

CALGARY HEAVES OUT SWEETS

CALGARY (CP) — Pop, sugary sweets and carbohydrate-cluttered treats are to be given the heave-ho from city public schools.

When students return to school this fall, machines despensing pop, chocolate bars and the like are to be replaced by units selling competitively-priced juice, granola bars and fruits after trustees unanimously supported a motion by trustee Scott Saville.

"It's zero food . . . I'm sure the millions the junk food companies spend on advertising doesn't tell students there's nine spoons of sugar in a can of cola," said Saville.

He said profits from the candy machines used to finance extracurricular projects did not justify higher dental and medical costs.

The junk food issue has popped up several times before the board and Saville said he introduced his "cold turkey" motion after being told progress had been sluggish in efforts to put in machines selling nutritive food alongside the junk food dispensers.

Several board members hesitated about trying to turn youngsters off sugar and board chairman Sam Blakely wondered if trustees might be forcing youngsters out of schools to neighborhood stores in search of fatteners.

"But how do you KNOW the light goes out in there whenever you shut the door?"

The Bridge Expert

In today's deal, East perpetrated a swindle that was really a thing of beauty. The deal arose in a team-of-four championship event.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2♡	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ◇.

West's opening diamond lead was taken by East's ace. After a few moments of reflection, East played the ten of spades, dummy's jack winning the trick.

If you were the declarer, and saw only the North-South cards, wouldn't you be certain that East had started with the singleton ten of spades? And that if the finesse in trumps lost to West, a spade would be returned for East to ruff? Declarer was scared of that possibility.

So, to trick three, he led a trump to his ace — after all, there was a fair chance of catching a singleton king. As can be observed, both opponents followed suit with low trumps.

A spade was led next, dummy's nine being finessed successfully. Declarer's hope, of course, was to discard his five of clubs on the fourth spade lead. But when he led the third round, East ruffed wit his king. He then led the queen of clubs, and two tricks later declarer had incurred a one-trick set.

From East's point of view, when he took the ace of diamonds at trick one, he indulged in the wishful thinking that his partner possessed the ace of clubs. But even if this were the case, it would not in itself be sufficient to defeat the contract, since it was obvious that the defenders couldn't make any tricks in spades or diamonds.

The hope, therefore, was that declarer could be talked out of taking the trump finesse, for fear that if it lost, dire consequences might result. And so out came the ten of spades — and declarer fell for it, hook, line and sinker.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, May 5
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis on money, reaching beyond present boundaries. Another Aries, a Taurus and Libran could figure prominently. You can be rid of financial drain. One familiar with distribution, display, advertising can provide what had been missing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get going on your own! Take initiative, be a self-starter. Cycle is such that you succeed by breaking new ground. Be innovative, a pioneer. Wear bright colors. Make personal appearances. Love, creativity, self-discovery command spotlight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much that occurs is behind the scenes. Key is to know how to keep a secret. Don't tell all you know. If in a mood to "confess," analyze motives. You may merely want to share guilt, which is the opposite of being noble. Be mature enough to be discreet — concerning others and yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Wish can be fulfilled — you can shine at social gathering. Popularity increases. Member of opposite sex is on your side, despite your skepticism. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently — and so does the number 3.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis on authority, superiors, goals, achievement, treading through red tape, becoming familiar with basic material. Aquarius, Taurus and Scorpio figure prominently. You can prove assertions. Key now is an abundance of confidence. A "smart aleck" is bluffing. Know it and refuse to be intimidated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Key now is communication, getting thoughts organized, ideas protected and on paper. Member of opposite sex professes love and probably means it. Gemini, Sagittarius — and another Virgo — are part of scenario. Long-distance call or message may alter original plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Aura of beauty, art and the occult prevails. Personal magnetism, sensuality also figure in major ways. Taurus, Scorpio — and another Libra — could play key roles. Accent on getting valid information on costs, investments and involvements.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be cautious, be positive of terms, interest rates, legal rights, permissions. Listen, observe and learn — let others do most of the talking. Be alert to needs of partner, mate. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently — and so does the number 7.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): practical affairs dominate — relationship arrives at point where you "have to do something." Work ethic dominates, but you deserve proper recognition — and compensation. Capricorn, Cancer figure in picture. One who relies on your judgment makes valuable concession.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Creativity, personal magnetism, sensuality are highlighted. Your influence now is far-reaching, perhaps more so than you might suspect. Aries, Libra individuals figure in scenario. You complete project and win additional allies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): New deal is in offing; you get chance for fresh start and "to be in love." Leo is in picture. End of a cycle and birth of another is indicated — take a chance, be daring, display spirit of pioneer. Don't waste opportunity to establish yourself on solid structure.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Ideas, hunches blend into viable procedures. Yes, a relative is on right track. Aquarius, Cancer persons figure prominently. Short trip, visit, unique message could be on agenda. A favor is returned. You feel better as result.

IF MAY 5 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are stubborn, analytical, bright, active. You have a natural talent for expressing yourself, especially with the written word. Gemini, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. September could be your most memorable month of 1978, a year featuring business, intensified relationships, marriage, addition to family. This is a power-play year in which you get off sidelines and into the game.

Cancer Hostel Goal

One of the long-range plans of the Victoria Cancer Clinic, housed in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, is to establish a hostel for out-of-towners.

Clinic director Dr. Peter Coy says the hostel is needed because of the many patients being treated since the clinic became the centre for Vancuver Island.

Plans for the hostel hinge on the over-all plans for the hospital's future, yet to be determined, he said.

Wilfred Burton, executive officer of the Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, said the society is prepared to provide the hostel.

He said once a hostel is established it would be handed over to the clinic because the society is unable to own property of its own.

This is the time of the year that the society makes its main thrust in fund-raising, Burton said. This year's target for the Greater Victoria area is $200,000 and, to date, $125,000 has been realized through the mail canvass which began April 5.

Burton said the slump in the fund-raising campaign is probably due to the many appeals being made and the fact there are 14,000 unemployed in the area.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Judge William Ostler said in Victoria provincial court Wednesday that it was particularly reprehensible that a 17-year-old wrote forged cheques on his mother's bank account before sentencing the young man to three months in jail.

Crown counsel James Main told the court the two counts involved cheques cashed at the Royal Bank of Canada, 1019 Hillside, on Oct. 12, 1977, for $150 and on Oct. 26, 1977, for $25.

In noting that Willey was on probation for one year starting Aug. 29, 1977, Ostler mentioned that a probation officer, at that time, was of the opinion that Willey was unlikely to appear in court again. Ostler said the prognosis was "overly optimistic."

The judge said he had difficulty in deciding whether he should send Willey to Boulder Bay camp but that the length of sentence needed in order to qualify for that program was more than what he anticipated giving out.

Ostler decided on a three-month term and said he would recommend Willey spend the time working in a forestry camp somewhere.

In addition, he placed Willey on a year's probation and ordered him to repay, within four months of his release, the sum of $175 to the Royal Bank.

Willey was given a suspended sentence by Judge Blake Allan last August after a conviction for theft under $200. He was placed on 12 months probation and ordered to pay $132 restitution at that time.

Three persons charged following a Greater Victoria Joint Forces Operation raid on a Colwood home April 17 elected trial by judge without jury on charges of possession of a stolen motorcycle and possession of a restricted, unregistered .22 calibre pistol.

Charged following the Coordinated Law Enforcement Unit (CLEU) raid were 40-year-old Emil Joseph Dobrovolny, 36-year-old Janet Louise Weening, and 37-year-old Vernon Monty Weening, all of Humpback Road.

A police spokesman said items seized included motorcycles, chainsaws, a pistol and blasting caps and wiring.

Judge Harold Alder set the preliminary hearing into the charges for July 14.

Richard Allen Ferguson, who gave an address of 270 Burnside Road East, pleaded guilty to the charge and Crown counsel Nicholas Lang related the April 3 incident.

Lang said Ferguson was stopped in the 1500-block Pandora at about 3:30 a.m. and told police that the auto he was driving was lent to him by a friend. Police let him proceed but found out two days later the owner did not give permission to anyone to use his vehicle.

After learning that Ferguson was already serving a 90-day term for another conviction, Alder placed him on 12 months probation and ordered him to attend the Metchosin Camp program after he was released from jail.

* * *

March and Lousier were also ordered to perform 100 hours of community service work.

Colder Lake To Save Char

DOLWYDDELAN, Wales (AP) — Lake Ffynnon Llugwy in the Welsh mountains is being stocked with more than 3,000 arctic char, a cousin of the salmon, to save the species from extinction.

Dr. Graeme Harris, the Welsh Water Authority's fisheries expert, said the fish can only survive in deep cold water.

Its present home, Lake Llyn Peris, is being used for an electric power development that will lower the level and heat up the water in a few years.

Sabotaged, Says Union

The Hospital Employees Union has accused the Health Labor Relations Association of sabotaging the union's efforts to get summer jobs for students at B.C. hospitals.

Union secretary-treasurer Jack Gerow says the HLRA, which bargains for 121 public hospitals, has rejected the union's latest suggestion to have the matter put to arbitration for a binding decision.

"This refusal can only mean the association and its president are frightened and unsure about the reasonableness of their proposals with regard to the 1978 provincial Youth Employment Program," Gerow says.

Earlier this year, association president Chester Hooper said the student jobs were being jeopardized by the union's attempt to get union pay for the students.

Last summer, with the union's agreement, the students were paid $4 an hour with hospital boards providing $1 and the provincial government $3.

This year the government is prepared to subsidize wages by $3.20 an hour and the hospitals will pay 96 cents.

The HEU originally asked that the students be paid the basic union rate of about $5.25 an hour but has since lowered that demand to the level agreed to by the provincial government and the B.C. Government Employees Union.

These rates provide for payments of $4.03 an hour for students employed under the program who are in Grade 12 or below and rise in stages to $6.28 an hour for graduate students.

The deadline for participating in the province's student employment program was last Monday but the union has been granted an extension to May 15.

HELP KEEP YOUR HAIR!
Finnish scientists have developed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.
Among volunteers who applied the formula to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.
The product, called Bioscal, contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hair and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.
Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which has resulted in the growth of new hair. If not available (at your hairdresser or stylist, obtain yours at

THURS., FRI. AND SAT.
Here we go. I managed to pick up 1000 pair of dress slacks (less 300 sold) from a top clothing house who must remain nameless (Mr. Nameless) from flannels and worsteds to beautiful tweeds and definitely all wool. Full top or side pockets, loops or extension waistband, Honest to Goodness $50 value — your price $33.
Away we go, and what a buy on sweaters from Italy. It makes my chest swell with pride (don't be jealous, Sophia Loren). Three super styles with intricate detailing and just $13.88, great, eh! (Oh Murray, the magnificent).
Am I getting to you? Now we come to sport jackets and oh, how I wish I could mention the maker's name . . . bright and right for Spring from muted checks to plain tweeds, all wool, of course, hanging ever so proudly on our racks (all choked up, aren't you?) and made to sell at $150-$175. We bought them right and your price is $88-$109-$119.
And now, dear Readers, why don't we all go to blazers. The most versatile piece of clothing in your closet is a blazer, for casual or dress up wear. Our selection is at its best in single and double breasted styles carrying labels from England, Montreal and Chilliwack (I'm kidding) . . . are you ready for the price? Every blazer at a generous 25% discount
(Goldman, you're a benefactor!)
I know you're waiting with bated breath to (you might gargle, it'll go away) hear about my suits, so listen. We bought right from a manufacturer we're proud to be associated with.
So help me, regular values from $225 to $295 (and a few at $325) selling at $144, $166 and $188 and when you consider the tailoring, the fabrics and mostly in 3 piece vested styles, take my word for it, this is a bargain, Sir.
Ah, school days, and are we ever ready for the Grad. Our sales people speak fluent Algebra . . . import suits by Van Gils of Belgium just received. They're super fashion European styled and shaped vested suits (and that's a mouthful). Arrived to sell at $325 and $250, but your great price — just $188.
And for the big finish — sweaters once again. Not just sweaters, but sweaters sweaters. Mostly imports with labels you'll recognize (come in and read a few). A heaping table full at a whopping 50% off. If that pleases you, come in and buy a sweater to please me . . . have a good day . . .

Picking the Best Squash

Squash vary considerably in size and shape, also in texture of flesh, color of flesh, and in storage life. To some gardenrs squash means only the Warted Hubbard type, since these are all they have grown.

Less known to gardeners are the Hybrid Zucchini, the Marrow, Hybrid Butter, Vegetable Spaghetti, Delicious, Table Queen, Acorn, Butternut, Scallop or Patty-pan, Sweet Potato, and the Naked-seeded Squash.

The last named is grown only for its seeds which are high in vitamins and minerals, and devoid of the usual hard covering. After drying or lightly roasting they make nutritious between meal snacks.

The summer varieties are harvested just as the blossom drops from the end of the fruit, when the length is 15 to 20 cms. (6 to 8 ins.). The first fruits to set on the winter varieties are allowed to mature for storage, and the later fruits which have no chance of maturing are picked young for immediate use.

Zucchini Select (47 days) is the earliest; short trailing, green with lighter flecks, reselected for longer fruit stems which make picking easier. An abundance of fruits are produced throughout the season, picked when 7.5 to 15 cms. long (3 to 6 ins.), delicious in texture and flavor; pickings can be made every 3 to 5 days.

Other Zucchini selections are mainly for eye appeal in markets, but the finest eating quality is found in Greyzini, a green-gray cylindrical blunt ended fruit. Goldzini is similar with a butter-yellow skin.

Two Marrows worth considering are Cocozelle (Italian Vegetable Marrow) 60 days, and English Vegetable Marrow, 70 days. Both are good when fruits are picked 20 cms. long (8 ins.).

The Hybrid Butter Squash include Baby Crookneck and Baby Straightneck, 50 and 51 days. Both give high yields, flesh smooth with buttery texture, used when 15 cms. long (6 ins.).

Vegetable Spaghetti is something different in both texture and delicious flavor when 20 to 25 cms. long (8 to 10 ins.). The fruit is cooked whole in boiling water, then cut in half, seeds removed, and the flesh pulled out in long strings like spaghetti.

There are two kinds of the heart-shaped Delicious, Golden Delicious, and Green Delicious 100 and 102 days. The Golden was developed for baby food, having the highest vitamin content of any squash. The Green has thick, sweet, finely grained flesh and freezes well.

Table Queen (90 days) is excellent for storage; 15 cms. in diameter, hard skin and nutty flavor. Table King is a bush acorn type, compact plants, ripening earlier than vine types. Both produce fluted fruits. Royal Acorn is slightly larger than Table Queen, has same high quality and is good for storage.

Butternut, 85 days, is cylindrical with an enlarged seed pocket on one end, giving a surprising amount of flesh for its 3 to 4 lb. size. Enjoyed by those who "never liked squash".

Buttercup, 90 days, is the familiar circular, flattened squash with smooth zone around stem. One of the best for home gardens, deep orange flesh, dry, sweet, and excellent for storage.

Scallop Squash, or Pattypan, 75 days, is a bush type needing warm soil and a warm location. Fruits flattish, creamy white, about 10 cms. in diameter in our climate. Steamed whole, each fruit is a single serving.

Delicata, 100 days, is oblong like the Marrow, 15 to 20 cms. in length, belonging to the winter group. The texture and flavor is well described by its synonym, Sweet Potato Squash.

The large Hubbards and the 80 lb. Hungarian Giants are of little interest to the home gardener. They need heat night and day throughout the growing season, and a location free from frost through October. Baby Hubbard and Kitchenette (100 days) have the Hubbard texture, more convenient size for home use, and will store until Christmas.

309 IN MEMORIAM

FENN — In memory of Guy O. Fenn who passed away May 4, 1972.

Time cannot steal the treasures
That we carry in our hearts
Nor ever dim the shining thoughts
Our cherished past imparts
And memories of him we've loved
Still cast their gentle glow
To grace our days and light our paths
Wherever we may go . . . .
—Sadly missed by his wife Winnie and the family.

STEVENS — In loving memory of dear Mum, who died May 4th, 1966, and Dad, who died March 7th, 1961 — Ever remembered, Glad and Tom.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.

WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate

MUSIC FESTIVAL HEADS INTO FINALS

One of two major senior trophies was awarded Wednesday as the Victoria Music Festival headed into its final two days of competition.

The B.C. Electric Rose Bowl, which first became the peak prize for singers prior to the Second World War, was awarded to soprano Anne Bennett by adjudicator Sherrill DeMarco. The other three contenders, soprano Corinne Eckert, mezzo Nancy Holmes and baritone Dennis Goodwin, were equal runners-up, said DeMarco.

The junior winner was Jackie Moffat, with Juliette Kirk, Eric Prossnitz and Jill Rooke as runners-up. Carmen Gozdan was winner of the intermediate final. Also contending were Gordon Thompson, who received the Catherine Young book award, and Eleanor Underwood and Coralee Johnson.

Anne Bennett and Jackie Moffat will be senior and junior representatives in the Provincial Music Festival in June. Cash awards went to all finalists with Anne receiving the Musical Art Society-Community Arts Council prize and Jackie the Henrietta Anderson Memorial Award.

Also announced Wednesday was the CBC Award, which includes a broadcast, to the Arion Male Choir. Recommended for the City of Lincoln Choral Trophy was the Metropolitan United Church Choir, and for the junior choral George S. Mathieson Trophy, Glenlyon School Choir. These awards will be decided at the National Music Festival in August.

The dance honor program completes that section of the festival Friday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior Secondary auditorium. The last contest in the festival, with the piano championship trophy — the Victoria City Medallion — as top award, takes place Saturday at 8 p.m. at UVic's MacLaurin auditorium when winners ranging from junior to open classes will meet in a play-off.

But the curtain does not finally descend until Monday, when the whole festival will be summed up in the Highlights Concert at McPherson Playhouse.

CBC Television Plans Satellite for Sooke

Sooke will have a television satellite transmitter by the end of the year if an application before the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission is approved.

The request for a 10-watt satellite repeater station on channel 3 is from the CBC as part of its accelerated coverage plan that includes the opening of radio and TV studios in Victoria.

New studios, whose construction on Blanshard began this week, are expected to open early next year but the Sooke repeater and a new CBC transmitter on Saturna Island are likely to be on the air before the end of 1978, said Reg Jessup in Vancouver.

These facilities will broadcast the regular channel 2 and CBC network program schedule from Vancouver and will incorporate programs originating in Victoria studios as they become available.

Jessup said it was too early to forecast whether residents as far along the west coast as Jordan River and Port Renfrew would be included in the Sooke transmitter's broadcast radius.

RCMP Takes To Air

The RCMP will take to the air again this summer to watch for speeders and dangerous drivers on provincial highways.

RCMP Traffic Insp. Bob Rivers said the air patrol program, initiated last year, will be expanded to take in the entire province.

Rivers said the highways department is marking highways throughout the province with speed zone markers.

That job is expected to be completed later in the month and when it is patrols will be set up at 20 locations including Victoria, Cassidy and Comox on Vancouver Island.

Rivers said 30 to 40 more officers will undergo training in aerial surveillance of traffic. The force has 14 trained operators now in the province.

Fixed wing single engine aircraft and helicopters will be used on the patrols, Rivers said. Some will be the RCMP's own aircraft, but the majority will be chartered.

B.C. is one of the last provinces in Canada to commit itself to an air patrol program. The program has been working in Alberta and Ontario for more than 10 years and in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and parts of the Maritimes for almost as long.

In addition to the main function of spotting speeders and dangerous drivers, air patrols have proved helpful in finding lost children and stolen vehicles and in tracking suspects fleeing from major crimes such as bank robberies, Rivers said.

AIB Okays Teacher Pay

The Anti-Inflation Board has approved a 31 per cent pay increase for Greater Victoria substitute teachers.

They will be increased from $34 to $43 for the first three days and from $40 to $50 for the fourth to 19th day under the AIB ruling.

As a result, the Greater Victoria School District estimates it must come up with an additional $97,000 this year to pay the approximately 400 teachers.

Funds will probably be pulled from another source to pad the $349,000 allotted to substitute teaching salaries, chairman Susan Brice said.

Substitutes were awarded the 31 per cent increase through arbitration in December. The school board decided to limit the raise to six per cent, in keeping with AIB guidelines.

Brice said she was surprised by the ruling because she had been confident the AIB would stand by the school board's decision.

The 31 per cent increase represents substitute teachers' first raise since 1974. The wage scale for substitutes has not changed much since 1970 when it was $32.08.

Brice said the 31 per cent increase is "larger than we were prepared to give."

There has already been a considerable draw on the substitute teaching fund this year through sickness, and any additional money will have to be taken from other areas.

Other options would be to hire fewer substitutes or overrun the budget and declare a deficit at the end of the year, Brice said.

Carol Beatty, chairman of the Substitute Teachers Association, said the AIB's ruling is justified in light of other substitute teaching rates in the province.

Penguins Off to Africa, Via Iceberg

LONDON (AP) — An iceberg 36 times the size of Bermuda and inhabited by penguins was reported Wednesday to be drifting slowly in the South Atlantic from the Antarctic towards the coast of Africa.

The iceberg, said to measure 60 kilometres by 40 (32-by-24 miles) with a draft of at least 180 metres, was observed by scientists aboard the British Antarctic survey ship John Biscoe, which docked at Southampton port Tuesday.

"It looked really magnificent, with 100-foot sheer ice cliffs," chief officer Andy Baker said in an interview with Adrien Berry, science correspondent for the London newspaper Daily Telegraph.

But British scientists and Defence Ministry officials who have been tracking the runaway iceberg told The Associated Press they believe it poses no danger to shipping because it is not travelling on any recognized lanes and should break up when it hits warmer waters.

Christopher Doake of the British Antarctic Survey at Cambridge University said he has pinpointed the iceberg's present location at about 200 nautical miles northwest of South Georgia Island east of the southernmost tip of South America.

The iceberg's speed of travel has not yet been estimated but the nearest point of Africa is still more than 4,000 nautical miles away.

Doake said U.S. satellites and British scientists have been tracking the iceberg's progress over several years.

"This iceberg originally broke off from the Antarctic mass 10 or 11 years ago, but just kept drifting around down there. Then in the last year or so it got out into the open sea," Doake said.

Berry said he was informed that the iceberg is covered with penguins and that it keeps changing course on its way to Africa. He said he assumed the penguins had been living on the iceberg when it broke away from the Antarctic ice mass.

Brezhnev Trip A World Issue

By MICHAEL GETLER
Washington Post

BONN, West Germany — The long-delayed visit of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev to West Germany begins today, with intensive Western interest focused on the ailing health of the Soviet chief and on his attitudes toward the ailing state of East-West detente.

Though Bonn and Moscow have many long-standing issues on their agenda, including trade and the security of West Berlin, Brezhnev's decision to visit here now — nearly four years after Bonn's invitation and after repeated Soviet postponements — has given this trip potentially far wider political significance.

The 71-year-old Soviet president comes here just before two key meetings this month of the North Atlantic Alliance in Brussels and Washington and a special session on disarmament of the United Nations in New York.

Perhaps more importantly, he comes during a period in which, over the past year or so, both Soviet and West German relations with the Carter administration have deteriorated and while some confusion lingers within the Western alliance about U.S. defence, economic and nuclear export policies.

This has led to some concern, as it did last summer when Brezhnev visited Paris, that the Soviets may be trying to take advantage of the situation and drive a wedge between the United States and its NATO partners, especially the West Germans who are the most poweful economic and military ally in Western Europe.

"The confusion in the alliance gives Brezhnev the maximum potential for disturbance," the respected Swiss newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitung cautioned this week, "by showering the Western public with protestations of peace and creating doubt about the need for intensified defence efforts, while the Soviet arms machinery is in full swing."

But the Soviets, as one top West German official put it, "are not illusionists. They know it is not possible to split the United States and West Germany, and if they tried openly it would be counterproductive."

Brezhnev was last here in 1973, when Willy Brandt was chancellor.

U.S. 'Blast Bomb' Rapped

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party launched a new campaign against U.S. nuclear weapon development today by criticizing plans to produce a "blast bomb."

Senior commentator Yuri Zhukov wrote in Pravda, the party newsppaper, that peace-loving people around the world would reject the reduced residual radiation (RRR) bomb just as they have the neutron bomb.

The Soviet government conducted a major propaganda effort against the high-radiation neutron warheads and regarded President Carter's decision last month to defer their production as a victory. Zhukov said that decision followed worldwide protest and stirred "the fevered brains of Pentagon generals to create plans for a new mass-destruction weapon" that would produce increased heat and blast but reduced radioactive fallout.

The commentary referred to an Associated Press report from Washington Sunday which said funds for preliminary basic research on the blast bomb are contained in an energy department budget request for $1.5 billion for nuclear weapons and other research activities next year.

Zhukov said while developers of the neutron bomb hid their intentions by stressing the defensive nature of the weapon, proponents of the blast bomb do not conceal their dream of a super-powerful offensive weapon.

Skylab Given 50-50 Chance

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — U.S. space officials say they are giving themselves only a 50-50 chance of breathing new life into Skylab and keeping the 85-ton orbiting space station from making a premature, possibly disastrous return to earth.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said Wednesday scientists have begun sending commands to the laboratory, deserted since the last of three astronaut teams departed four years ago.

The spokesman said computer systems aboard Skylab have responded to commands and attempts are being made to charge its batteries.

"We think that we can eventually get 22 of its 28 batteries charged," he said. "As for the gyroscopes (which control the craft's attitude) we think we have one good one, one not quite so good and one bad one."

He said that if all goes well NASA officials will ask their chief, Robert Frosch, who has taken personal command of the operation, for a go-head sometime next month to fire Skylab's thruster attitude control system. "We've got a 50-50 chance of success," he added.

SUN PROJECTS GET $100M

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — President Carter marked Sun Day on Wednesday with a surprise announcement of a $100-million increase in proposed spending for solar and renewable energy projects next year.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, made the announcement aboard Air Force One as Carter flew here from Washington on the first leg of a three-day trip to Colorado, California, Oregon and Washington.

Powell said the $100 million would be spent on such projects as photovoltaic cells, windpower projects and conversion of wood into gasoline and other fuels. He said the money would be "reprogrammed" from the other projects in the energy department's proposed budget for the 1979 fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

In remarks prepared for delivery at the Solar Energy Research Institute here, Carter noted that his proposed budget for fiscal 1979 contains a 64-per-cent increase in money for development of solar power over the budget of two years ago.

Brezhnev Pleaded: Nixon

CHICAGO (AP) — Former president Richard Nixon says Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev, at their second summit meeting, tried to get him to impose a Mideast peace settlement on Israel, based on Arab terms.

In an excerpt from his book RN: The Nixon Memoirs published in Thursday editions of several North American newspapers, Nixon says the conversation occurred June 22, 1973, during their stay at the former president's San Clemente, Calif., home.

Earlier in the day, in Washington, the two leaders had signed a treaty renouncing the use of force between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Nixon writes that he was reading in bed that night when Brezhnev knocked at his door wanting to talk.

"For the next three hours we had a session that in emotional intensity almost rivaled the one on Viet Nam during Summit I," Nixon writes. "I pointed out that there was no way I could agree to any such 'principles' without prejudicing Israel's rights."

UN URGES S. AFRICA BOYCOTT

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly wound up an eight-day special session on South-West Africa on Wednesday, adopting a resolution critical of South Africa and condemning its administration of the territory.

The resolution was adopted without dissent, although 21 countries, including Canada, abstained. There were 119 votes in favor and eight members were absent.

The resolution, among other things, calls for a trade blockade against South Africa, including an oil embargo. However, such economic sanctions must be approved by the Security Council and similar measures have, in the past, been routinely vetoed by the Western powers.

Demand Spurned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Halibut fishermen voted 86 per cent Wednesday to reject the latest demand of British Columbia vessel owners to increase their boat share of the catch by five per cent. John Radosevic, spokesman for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said the union and its membership believe there is no justification for an increase in the boat share. Less than half the province's halibut fleet is involved in the dispute. The halibut fishery off Alaska opens May 15.

Babysitter Sex Crime Warning

CALGARY (CP) — At least 10 Calgary babysitters have appeared in juvenile court so far this year charged with sexual attacks on young children, says Staff Sgt. Bob Short of the city police youth detail.

Short said it is not always a case of a teen-age boy abusing a younger girl — there have been both heterosexual and homosexual incidents.

Short lays a large part of the blame on parents who don't bother checking out their babysitters.

"Quite often people who need a babysitter in a hurry will take the first person to happen along. That's stupid. I just can't understand parents who are not careful about choosing the person who, in their absence, will be responsible for their children."

He said babysitters who molest young children mostly "are teenagers who have heard about sex and are exploring."

McKinnon Raked By Labor

Victoria Labor Council delegates voted Wednesday night to chastise Allan McKinnon, Conservative MP for Victoria, for his handling of the right-to-work issue in a recent questionnaire.

The delegates complained that the question was "loaded" and that the right-to-work concept was not explained.

McKinnon asked "Do you favor the right to work movement, yes, no, undecided." The results showed that 75 per cent were in favor.

The MP then commented: "The size of the vote favoring the right to work movement surprised me; to my knowledge no political party supports the movement as yet, perhaps it is time we started taking it very seriously."

"It probably appealed to unemployed people who thought it meant they had a right to a job."

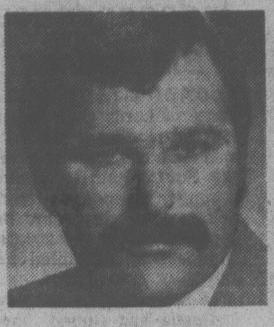
The right to work supporters want an end to the union shop whereby those working for a company have to belong to a union.

The delegates also voted to form a women's rights committee headed by a co-ordinator of women's programs.

On another matter, the council called on the Canadian Labor Congress to apply pressure in the appropriate area so that those citizens wronged by illegal RCMP break-ins could be compensated.

The delgates supported an executive motion to inform Prime Minister Trudeau, Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais, Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Garde Gardom that the council found the police break-in situation "totally unacceptable in a free society."

Saanich Pat On Pay Freeze



PATERSON

Saanich council stood firm Wednesday night on its decision to pass up a salary increase for the second straight year, despite strong protests from finance committee chairman Ald. David Paterson.

In an eleventh-hour appeal for council to reconsider its decision made last week — when he was absent from the meeting — Paterson deplored both the no-increase policy this year and the fact that council has asked ratepayer groups to recommend what the 1979 council stipends should be.

"If we cannot come to grips with this decision we are not demonstrating to the taxpayers that we are capable of making very many decisions at all," he said.

Paterson said in determining how much elected representatives should be paid, council should follow the policy applied to its senior, non-union staff, "whereby we pay increases equal to the market."

On the basis of comparisons with indemnities paid in 13 other B.C. municipalities, he proposed that Mayor Mel Couvelier's salary be increased this year by six per cent, to $19,787, and aldermen's by 10 per cent to $6,600.

Also defeated by the same 5 — 3 margin was a Cass amendment which sought to have the extra money placed in the municipality's contingency fund, while council awaits the response of the ratepayer groups.

Ald. John Mika said at a time when council has had to make drastic budget cuts to minimize the impact of higher assessments, council should forego an increase as a gesture of leadership.

"It adds to our credibility in the public eye if they realize we, in a spirit of leadership, are prepared to make this sacrifice, to show that our bona fides are entirely above board," he added.

Paterson retorted that if taxpayers are dissatisfied with their elected representatives' performance, their recourse is to toss them out of office at the next election.

How Your Garden Grows

Delectable vegetables

Anyone with a small patch of ground in a sunny location can enjoy an abundant crop of succulent, fresh vegetables. It's a matter of simple preparation, beginning in early spring.

In March or April, apply Green Valley Dolomite Lime to your garden area. This will overcome the acid soil conditions which prevail in our region. Then add Green Valley Flower & Vegetable Plant Food to provide essential nutrients, following this with an application of Green Valley Steer Manure or other organic matter, such as compost. Finally, spade or rototill the entire area to a depth of 6 to 8 inches.

In May, plant vegetable seeds in rows. Two weeks after germination, thin rows to recommended spacing. Two or three times during the growing season, apply supplementary nitrogen in the form of urea dissolved in water to the rows of leafy vegetables, such as lettuce and cabbage. For tomato plants use the specially prepared Green Valley Tomato Food.

Plants should be checked frequently for insects, and an appropriate insecticide used where needed. Once a week, water thoroughly, ideally with a soaker type hose. Finally, be sure to cultivate between rows regularly to eliminate weeds which compete with your vegetables for plant food and water.

Trees From Test Tubes

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — California scientists say they have discovered how to clone redwood trees, a process they say may someday revolutionize the timber industry by producing millions of exact copies.

Dr. Ernest Ball says he has perfected the first tissue culture process for reproducing the coastal redwood, the tallest living tree. It grows up to 367 feet high and produces lumber highly favored for its beauty, durability and workability.

Ball, a professor emeritus of biological sciences at the University of California-Irvine, said that cloning has already been done with orchids, asparagus, tobacco and other annual or semi-annual plants, including many house plants reproduced through cuttings.

Now, he said, test tube trees can bring something new to the timber industry, whose product takes decades to mature. They would offer a sure winner rather than a chance on nature's whims.

"If we can expand this to other trees, it would be highly beneficial to the timber industry," Ball said. "We could improve production and growth rate."

Ball has been working with foresters from the Simpson Timber Co. and received $71,000 from the company to conduct experiments.

Coal Deals Shelved for Policy Debate

Premier Bill Bennett promised Wednesday that no new coal exploration licences will be granted by the government until after the issue is thoroughly debated in the legislature.

Bennett made the commitment in response to criticism levelled at him by Liberal leader Gordon Gibson who accused the government of acting with haste and secrecy in the granting of the licences.

Bennett told the legislature that no such licences will be signed until after the budgetary estimates of Mines Minister Jim Chabot are considered and until after new coal laws are introduced and passed this session.

The premier said the only qualification on his promise is that if the debate drags on abnormally, the government might proceed with the licences.

A five-year moratorium on new coal development was lifted in February by the Social Credit government. Contrary to Bennett's earlier policy announcement, the government said licences would be granted on a first-come, first-serve basis rather than on a bidding system.

Gibson said that under the new system, large multi-national energy corporations are lining up to put a stranglehold on the province's coal reserves. Eighty-five per cent of the requests — involving about 600 square miles — for exploration licences have come from the large multi-nationals.

The applications for exploration licences are in the hands of Chabot's ministry, and none have been granted.

During debate on Bennett's budgetary estimates, Gary Lauk (NDP — Vancouver Centre) suggested that the government reversed its previously-announced policy because of pressure from the multi-nationals.

He said Imperial Oil contributed money to the Social Credit party during the last campaign, and, while not specifically making a charge, suggested the policy change was to pay off a campaign debt.

Bennett denied the allegation, saying he has no knowledge of such contributions and makes it a point not to know who contributes to the party.

Lauk also suggested that the government lifted the freeze and changed the licence policy in order to spark a flurry of false activity in the coal industry.

He suggested the government panicked when it learned that Japan had entered into an eight-year, $20 billion trade agreement with China calling for up to 10 million tons of coking and thermal coal to be shipped to Japan, and therefore had a desperate need to create new business.

Independence Bill Passes

LONDON (AP) — The House of Lords gave an unopposed reading to the Solomon Islands bill, which gives the South Pacific island group independence from Britain later this year. Independence for the 200,000 islanders is scheduled for July 7.

Garbage? Maybe, But Not to Bonnie

Bonnie Cole and her new-found coat

One man's garbage may be another's good coat — then again, it might just be garbage.

Bonnie Cole of 1044 Queens picked up a sheepskin coat apparently thrown out of a Salvation Army truck at the Herald Street garbage wharf Saturday, and concluded that it was a valuable piece of merchandise.

Salvation Army spokemen, however, said clothes are examined carefully, and even rags are usually sorted and bailed for sale rather than being discarded.

But the woman who found the coat says just about anyone would be glad to have it.

(The proprietor of an import store that specializes in sheepskin goods and has a number of $240 sheepskin coats on the racks told the Times the coat in question would sell for between $300 and $400 new. Its current value, with some slight wear around the cuffs and collar and with a few minor tears along some seams, is debateable, said the storekeeper. "But it's beautifully made . . . it's of better quality than what I have.")

Salvation Army Major Ronald Walker, administrator of men's social services, says he's at a loss to explain how a good coat could be thrown out.

In fact, he said, he wonders whether the coat had been discarded by someone else at the garbage wharf.

"My driver said there was a long line-up at the wharf that day . . . we wonder whether it came from our truck."

Walker said that "I know things are sorted very carefully here. Even rags are bailed and sold because they have some value . . . we're certainly very cautious."

Army assistant manager David Parry says his people don't throw anything away unless it's worthless. But, he added, that doesn't mean that not much is thrown out.

Parry said a person wouldn't have to spend long at the garbage wharf to see another Sally Ann truck unloading.

"We are there at least three times a day . . . our garbage bill is about 10 times what it was 12 months ago and it's really a grave concern to us."

"Some people are just using our drop boxes as garbage boxes . . . they dump dirty mattresses, broken down fridges that may be a danger to children . . . it's really causing us a concern."

Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped recently withdrew its drop-off boxes because of the garbage problem and the Salvation Army, Parry said, has often considered making a similar move.

And what about the coat that Bonnie Cole picked up on Saturday?

"You may have a lovely overcoat, but if it's got lice or there are smells coming from it then it's garbage," Parry said.

Cole, however, insists there is nothing wrong with the coat.

She has not cleaned, deloused or treated it in any way. It does not smell and doesn't look like it even needs to be washed.

Some repairs are needed. There are a few minor tears along seams under both arms, along the back and around button holes.

But somebody threw it out and the finder is glad he did.

The coat, styled and tailored with 100 per cent sheepskin imported from France by the J.J. Sheepskin Co. of Montreal, is definitely not garbage to Bonnie Cole.

U.S. PRICES TAKE JUMP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices in the U.S. soared 1.3 per cent in April for their biggest gain in 3½ years, the labor department said today.

On an annual basis that represents a 15.6 per cent advance — more than double the administration's 6.75 to seven per cent projection for inflation in 1978.

The New York Stock Exchange reacted to the news by losing ground for the third straight session today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 15.50 points in the past two days, dropped another 5.29 to 823.54 by 2 p.m.

Rapidly climbing food costs were again a major problem last month, advancing at an annual rate of 22.8 per cent. But unlike past months, the non-food sector also registered a sharp gain.

The 1.3 per cent jump in the department's Producer Price Index for Finished Goods — those products ready for sale to final users — was the steepest since a 1.9 per cent gain in November 1974.

It was also more than twice as high as the 0.6 per cent climb during March, and even exceeded February's 1.1 per cent increase when much of the nation was suffering from severe winter weather.

The consumer foods sector moved up by 1.9 per cent last month. With the exception of a huge 2.9 per cent gain in February, the food price increase was the biggest since the 2,5 per cent advance in February 1977, the department said.

NEW DEAL BOOSTS DOLLAR

Ottawa Gets $3B Credit

Times News Services

TORONTO — Another massive federal borrowing program, in the form of $3 billion in standby credits with U.S. banks, was announced here Wednesday by Finance Minister Jean Chretien.

News of the credit line boosted the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar in early trading today.

When the New York market opened, the Canadian dollar traded at 88.77 U.S. cents — up from Wednesday's close of 88.56. Shortly after trading began, the exchange rate jumped to 88.95, then retreated one-fifth of a cent by midday.

Chretien also said the government plans a large Canadian Savings Bond campaign this fall, despite ealier announcements that Ottawa would rely less on CSBs to raise funds.

Chretien said the eight-year standby agreement was with a nine-member consortium of U.S. banks led by Citicorp International Group of New York. The total line of credit will be available for four years from the date of signing, with interest rates based on U.S. bank prime lending rate.

The size of the U.S. credit deal was a surprise to the Toronto Bond Traders' Association, to whom the finance minister made the announcement. Earlier predictions were that the figure would be only about $1 billion.

The government has already arranged a $2.5 billion U.S. standby arrangement with the Canadian chartered banks with the money being used to defend the dollar on international money markets. To April 30, about $1.35 billion of that had been used.

Chretien announced last week the government was borrowing 1.5 billion West German marks (about $725 million U.S.) and was arranging the standby with U.S. and other foreign banks. He did not specify the amount of the new standby then.

The government borrowings have been severely criticized by opposition members of Parliament, who claimed last week interest rates on the loans totalled some $750,000 a day, although Chretien has dismissed that figure as "false."

Chretien, who noted the federal government's deficit for the current fiscal year—which began last April 1, will be $11.5 billion, said debt financing this year should be accomplished without "disruptive effects on the market."

"Some part may be financed through a reduction of the present very high cash balances and part through increases in holdings of Canada Savings Bonds, treasury bills and marketable bonds," he said.

"There will be a large Canada Savings Bond campaign this fall, in view of the overall size of cash requirements and in order to encourage the reinvestment of the special $2 billion in interest coming due," he said.

Yet he added the government will stick to its policy that "generally less reliance" should be placed on

NOT WORRIED

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is not worried that Canadians are investing record amounts of money outside their own country.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien Wednesday said in the Commons he does not consider it bad or unusual.

He said Canadian firms which invest abroad open new doors for Canadian technology and expertise to gain ground in new markets.

"If we want capital to come into Canada we have to be in a society that permits the free movement of capital," Chretien said.

United States commerce department figures mentioned in the Commons show that last year, Canadians invested $440 million in the U.S. That is the highest amount ever recorded since the American government began compiling statistics 33 years ago.

"This minister is always late to recognize a crisis," NDP leader Ed Broadbent said. "At the current rate of export of capital, in 1978 we will export some $1 billion. That means thousands of jobs lost to Canadians."

Gas Port Banned

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — City council has voted to ban any development of liquified natural gas ports in the city's harbor.

With the Tuesday vote, gas ports joined petroleum as substances that Port Angeles prohibits from large-scale delivery into the harbor.

IRA Hits Station

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Provisional Irish Republican Army guerrillas damaged Londonderry's main railway station in a multiple bomb attack early today, police said.

Three raiders, one of them armed, were disturbed while planting the bombs by a porter who was held at gunpoint in a signal box.

The gunman told him to warn the police that four bombs had been planted. The gang then fled.

The first bomb went off while the porter was telephoning police. The second exploded as police arrived seven minutes later and two others went off within the next half hour.

It was the second Provisional IRA attack on railroad installations in Ulster in the past 24 hours.

OUT-OF-CONTROL FERRY HITS WHARF

NANAIMO (CP) — An equipment malfunction aboard the Queen of Coquitlam ferry is thought to be the cause of an accident Tuesday which resulted in about $250,000 worth of damage to the British Columbia Ferries loading wharf here.

A spokesman for the Crown ferries corporation said Wednesday that the Queen of Coquitlam was approaching the dock according to normal procedure at 4:57 p.m. It came into the dock much faster than expected, however, damaging the vessel's loading doors and the overhead ramp on shore.

There was no problem unloading the vessel and it made a return trip to Vancouver where it was put in dry dock for repairs.

The spokesman said $250,000 was only a tentative estimate. The ferry was expected to be operating again by the weekend.

5-Cent Battle On Booze

B.C. drinkers will pay a surcharge of up to a nickel a bottle to finance a $2 million advertising campaign telling them to imbibe less.

Mair said the moderation program will definitely go ahead, but the five-cent levy may be less if the federal government, as is hoped, supports the project.

"The five cents has been authorized so that we can go that way if necessary," Mair said.

The surcharge will apply only to hard liquor.

Asked if the campaign would be blunt or soft-sell, the minister said: "I get the mood of the government as being the same as my mood — that you don't pussy-foot on messages of this sort."

School Buried

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — A mudslide engulfed a provincial schoolhouse in northeastern Bahia state, killing as many as 40 schoolchildren, newspaper reports said today.

The Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Globo said the school, located in Fazenda Tombador some 80 miles north of the provincial capital of Salvador, was buried in mud shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday after days of rain had loosened the soil of a drought-parched hill overlooking the building.

O Globo said authorities in Salvador sent at least 30 federal police and rescuers to the scene, but by midnight only four bodies — those of three children and a teacher — had been recovered.

The Rio newspaper O Dia said firemen in Alagoinhas, a few miles from the school, told them that the building had been completely covered, trapping the entire student body of 40 children inside.

Quebec Byelection Chance for Ryan?

Times News Services

Quebec Premier Rene Levesque Wednesday called a July 5 byelection for Montreal's Notre Dame de Grace riding, vacated by the resignation of Bryce Mackasey.

The call came just as Claude Ryan — the man most observers feel could easily win the seat — was winding up a highly-publicized jaunt to Ottawa to confer with Prime Minister Trudeau on constitutional reform.

Ryan, who took over as Quebec Liberal leader less than three weeks ago and has no seat in the provincial legislature, refused to tip his hand on whether or not he will run.

In Ottawa, Trudeau and Ryan "agreed to proceed differently" in an intensive examination of fundamental constitutional matters which divide Quebec and the rest of Canada.

The agreement came during what Ryan called a "frank and cordial conversation" that lasted three hours over lunch at 24 Sussex Drive.

The meeting was the first between Trudeau and Ryan since he took over the Quebec Liberals last month.

Both leaders appeared to have made a conscious effort to bury past differences. The luncheon date had been expected to break up about 2 p.m. but lasted almost 90 minutes longer.

Ryan contended some of the unity problems now facing Canada have resulted because "some of the fundamental aspects of our situation have not been thoroughly examined."

Trudeau said he had told Ryan much the same as he told the provincial premiers when he visited them last November and December, that his government intended making certain constitutional proposals.

They'd Deal With Devil

OTTAWA (CP) — A government corporation that helps finance export sales would do business with the devil, provided the devil had a good credit rating.

John MacDonald, president of the Export Development Corp. (EDC), said Wednesday the corporation's sole interest is to promote export business and it does not consider the politics of the people and countries it deals with.

He was testifying before the Commons finance committee as some members questioned EDC dealings with countries such as Guatemala and Indonesia, whose governments hold political prisoners.

John Rodriguez (NDP—Nickel Belt) said EDC financing will create more competition for Canadian businesses and eventually lead to more unemployment in Canada. But MacDonald said that at least Canadian companies are getting contracts to export machinery and components to the foreign countries.

Rodriguez, apparently exasperated, finally suggested the EDC would be prepared to do business with Adolf Hitler if he was still alive. MacDonald said he first would have to consult the government.

John Crosbie (PC—St. John's West) asked MacDonald to clarify whether the government corporation would "do business with the devil."

"A credit-worthy devil," MacDonald replied with a smile.

The finance committee is considering legislation that would raise to $26 billion from $8.85 billion the EDC's operating limits.

2,000 More Troops To Join Peacekeepers

Times News Services

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council voted without dissent Wednesday to increase the UN peacekeeping force in Lebanon by 2,000 troops to a total of 6,000.

The resolution was supported by 12 of the council's 15 members. Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union abstained and China, which opposes peacekeeping forces, did not vote.

William Barton, Canada's permanent ambassador to the UN, told the council it is vital that the resources of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) be sufficient to carry out their mandate.

Barton said the member states of the UN owe it to the peacekeepers to ensure that they have adequate forces to handle the task, as well as moral and political support.

He also condemned attacks on the UN troops.

"To fire on UN troops is to fire on the member states of the United Nations."

The added troops are expected to come from Fiji, Iran and Ireland. Contingents from France, Iran, Nepal, Norway, Senegal and Sweden are already serving in Lebanon. In addition, a small Canadian group is helping provide logistics and communications.

Meanwhile, Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat began a crackdown today on radicals who launched assaults on the UN troops, reliable Palestinian sources reported.

They said Arafat ordered the arrest and court martial of everyone involved in attacking with mortars the French military barracks near the biblical port of Tyre, ambushing two French patrols in the city.

The sources said military police units of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) began the arrests early today.

Free Family Aid to Be Cut?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The ministry of human resources is considering a proposal that would apply user fees to family-support services, forcing low-income families either to pay for preventive counselling or do without.

"The target is low-income and single-parent families," said one social worker who opposes the plan. "Items like counselling, support groups and help for their kids will be the first to go.

"We'll be called in at the crisis stage. Well, it's too late and too costly to do anything then."

A draft policy, recommending that family programs be phased in under income tests by early next year, was recently distributed to senior personnel in the ministry.

The ministry now limits the user fee, based on income tests, to day-care and homemaker services. Special-need day care, the infant-development program and all ongoing social intervention will be subject to income tests under the new scheme, the brief says.

NDP Human Resources Critic Rosemary Brown (Vancouver—Burrard), a former social worker herself, says the draft policy is destructive and short-sighted.

She said Human Resources Minister Vander Zalm doesn't understand the burden of poverty on poor people.

In the long run, such a policy will cost society more because it will effect an end of preventive social work.

She said the human resources ministry is shifting the burden of responsibility onto the attorney-general and health ministries who will eventually have to deal with the problems.

Limited income people who need the services but who can't afford the extra expense will opt not to take advantage of them, she added.

Deputy Minister John Noble said payment will encourage families to be independent.

But Hugh Millar, executive director of the B.C. Association of Social Workers, said "this ludicrous plan attacks the least vocal and most powerless group."

"Besides, who is going to collect the bills?" he asked. "They'd better hire more people or services will be cut. Workers don't have time to do all that paper shuffling."

A SALUTE AS ORIOLE SETS SAIL

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

The Canadian Navy's 102-foot training ketch HMCS Oriole received a salute from her peers today as she set sail for Hawaii to take part in the Tall Ships Race from there to Victoria.

The destroyers HMCS Restigouche, Kootenay, Terra Nova, Yukon, Saskatchewan and Qu'Appelle and the supply ship HMCS Provider steamed by her in line as she made her way out of the harbor.

The Restigouche, Kootenay and Provider were returning from a southwest Pacific training cruise that began in January and were joined later by Terra Nova. They are under the command of Capt. S.W. Riddell, commander of the Second Canadian Destroyer Squadron.

The other three ships, under the command of Capt. C.M. Thomas, were returning from an exercise off the United States coast.

Her paintwork gleaming and her decks trim, Oriole gave no indication that it is 57 years since she first hit the water.

Lt.-Cmdr. Bill Walker and his crew have spent weeks ensuring Oriole will be a competent competitor in the Tall Ships Race.

She has had a radar fitted, as well as a Loran set, and her radio equipment has been vastly improved. She has a new spinnaker to add to the other two in her sail inventory. Her ice box has been converted to a freezer for her long sortie.

One of the tasks of coxswain PO Keith Hanna has been overseeing the stowage of about 600 gallons of water, much of it in plastic bags.

While it will be the first time under sail for cook AB Robert MacClam, he is an old hand at cooking at sea in naval ships. He thinks the fresh meat on board will last two weeks and has plenty of canned food. He also has flour and yeast aboard to make his own bread. Menus have been drawn up for each day away from port.

Walker says the new radio equipment will enable Oriole to maintain daily contact with Pacific maritime command.

The officer cadets aboard Oriole will be flown back after they reach Hawaii. They will be replaced by other officer cadets who will board Oriole at Pearl Harbor June 5 and make an overnight sailing on June 12 to Hanalei on the island of Kauai. They will go through working-up exercises until June 16 when they put in at Lahaina on the island of Maui.

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria cannot hope to attract the industries it needs unless Ottawa changes its attitude toward economic expansion, Victoria industrial development commissioner Barry Mayhew said today.

"How come Montreal is eligible for grants while Victoria and Vancouver are not?" Mayhew asked. "It doesn't make any sense."

He was commenting on a letter from the federal Department of Economic Development saying it would grant a Victoria inventor more than $200,000 — but only if he was willing to move to Prince Rupert.

"This is a big project for Victoria — we are talking about 50 permanent jobs to start, probably a couple of hundred full-time jobs a short time later. He wants to stay in Victoria but Ottawa tells him he has to move to Prince Rupert."

The problem is a Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE) requirement that companies obtaining large grants in British Columbia must establish north of 100 Mile House. Those getting smaller federal grants can locate anywhere in the province — but outside the Victoria area or the Lower Mainland.

The inventor, who will produce a new model drill bit without using ball bearings, has attracted private financial support but needs a total of $2.2 million to get started.

Mayhew said DREE should change its regulations to permit grants to be given to deserving projects anywhere in Canada.

"Even Nanaimo is eligible while Victoria is not. I don't understand that at all. Nanaimo is a thriving community and doesn't have any more problems than we have."

Mayhew said Victoria has been told it is not eligible because its unemployment is cyclical.

"That doesn't mean anything," Mayhew said. "Look at Sudbury. One day it is a prosperous community with just about the highest per capita income in all of Canada and then there is an Inco layoff and Sudbury is a disaster area. The situation can change almost overnight."

Mayhew said the biggest obstacle to new industries is lack of funding, not a shortage of land, although more industrial land is needed.

More private venture capital must be located and both levels of government should play a leading role in attracting private capital.

"DREE must change its rules and we would also like to see the provincial government put some money toward the formation of a B.C. Development Corporation, similar to the Canadian Development Corporation."

Teamwork Supported

Two Victoria aldermen today supported a pilot project in James Bay to test the team policing method.

Aldermen Bill Tindall and Ron McKenzie said during a meeting of finance committee they felt James Bay would be an ideal location to try out the concept.

Ald. Robin Blencoe has been promoting the idea which emphasizes contact between officers and residents of a neighborhood.

OLD HOMES: TAX NEWS IS STILL BAD

Saanich council wrapped up its 1978 budget Wednesday night and lopped more than four mills off the net municipal mill rate for general purposes and debt.

But the 4.05-mill decrease (from 54.30 mills to 50.25, or 7.46 per cent) is scant comfort for most taxpayers living in older single-family homes.

As earlier predicted, they will face an average increase of about 14 to 15 per cent in their tax bills this year due to increased property assessments, under an assessment shuffle which has seen this category of taxpayer assume a heavier share of the overall tax load.

Although it's impossible to generalize on specific dollar impact, council was given the example of a typical home valued at $60,550, within the Greater Victoria School District, whose taxable assessed value has risen $1,074 or 16 per cent.

The tax bill for this property will go up $100 or 14.4 per cent this year, from $694 to $794. And the increase is broken down this way: $27 in municipal taxes, $5 for the regional district levy, $61 for school taxes and $7 for other levies.

But the the bad news doesn't end this year. As Mayor Mel Couvelier noted, the impact of the assessment increase is being phased in over three years, and there are "downstream" shocks still ahead in the next two years.

The over-all budget total including about $11 million in school, regional, hospital and other levies stands at $35,371,680 for 1978, an increaae of $3.6 million or 11.4 per cent on last year's actual spending.

Total municipal expenditure this year is budgeted at $22,965,280, up $1,652,110 on last year. That's a 7.75 per cent increase, which exceeds the 6 per cent target fixed at the outset of budget preparation by the mayor and council earlier this year.

Helping Saanich to offset the higher expenditures were an additional $800,000 from the provincial government in revenue-sharing programs, $285,000 more from tax income on government-owned property and lower welfare costs. Council also carried forward a $184,000 surplus from 1977.

For taxpayers living in School District 61 (Greater Victoria), the combined mill rate including all levies is 101.790 mills; for those in school district 63 (Saanich) it's 102.985 mills.

Court Rules Condo Rebates Illegal

The city of Victoria illegally paid out more than $19,000 in rebates to condominium owners last year, the B.C. Supreme Court has ruled.

In a decision handed down earlier this week in Vancouver, Mr. Justice J.S. Aikins stated the city had exceeded its authority in giving refunds to condominium owners.

Condominiums that had to have their garbage collected by private contractors were getting rebates of $19 per unit per year from the city last year. Council had set up a $27,000 fund to rebate condominium owners who were in effect paying twice for garbage collection — once through taxes and then a second time for private collection.

A move to quash that section of the bylaw requiring apartments to pay a fee for collection was declined, however. Aikins ruled that the time limit for such an application had passed.

The more than $19,000 paid out in refunds is unrecoverable.

Only those condominiums that could not get on the city garbage system for one reason or another qualified for rebates.

Some apartment owners took exception to council's refund program, however, saying it was unfair to apartments that still had to pay for collection.

In a two-part ruling, Aikins declared that the section of the bylaw providing for refunds to certain buildings was discriminatory and ultra vires or beyond the city's authority.

Need a Tow? You'll Pay More in Suburbs

While towing companies are expected to toe the line in the city of Victoria and operate under controlled rates, they can charge whatever they please in neighboring municipalities.

As a result, a wayward motorist in Saanich, Esquimalt or Oak Bay could find himself paying a towing fee 56 per cent higher than if the parking offence had occurred a few feet away within city boundaries.

Keary Bott, manager of Gordon's Towing Ltd., said the former $19 standard towaway fee in those three municipalities was recently increased to $25 to reflect the company's higher operating costs.

But in Victoria, the maximum charge permitted by city council is $16 (recently increased from $14).

Why the difference?

Saanich licensing inspector Dick Gibson acknowledged that there have been some complaints from car owners but said as far as he knows there is no authority under the Municipal Act for a municipal council to dictate how much a towing company can charge for its service.

He speculated that Victoria can do so because it operates under a private act equivalent to its own charter.

"If we could regulate the rates they (towing companies) charge, why not regulate the rates a retail store charges for its goods," he added.

Gibson said a business licence is normally issued to any applicant provided he complies with zoning bylaws, health regulations and the like.

He did say, however, that he is awaiting an opinion from the municipality's legal adviser, and if the advice is that Saanich can set the rates he may recommend council adopt a bylaw to that effect.

Meanwhile, according to one legal source, the Municipal Act does empower a municipality to take such action.

The particular section he cited states: "The council may by bylaw regulate the carrying-on of business within the municipality . . . for the purpose of protecting the public or preventing or minimizing nuisances and misleading business practices, and such regulations may be different for different classes of business."

"That section contains all the authority a council would ever need," the lawyer added.

Oak Bay Mayor Brian Smith said council has never discussed the possibility of controlling towing fees and he cannot recall that there have been any complaints on the subject.

"But everybody seems to hate the guy in the towing truck," he said.

In a passing comment, Smith expressed surprise that the city's permitted fee is as low as $16, considering today's business costs.

Sprays Eyed

Chemical sprays may be used to control roadside thistle and gorse in the Langford district this summer.

The provincial highways department is considering the use of sprays or peletized herbicide on heavy infestations of the weeds on sideroads in the area. Langford is one of 82 areas in the province in which weed control is being considered.

Spot control and spraying or granular control over infested sections of right of way is planned for 22 highways and 22 secondary and sideroads.

District highways manager George Harper said he has not drawn up a program for the Saanich district, but he noted weeds in the Langford area are becoming prolific.

Harper said the herbicide likely to be used in solution or pellet form would be Tordon K, containing a minor amount of 2-4,D. He said the department does not use defoliants to control underbrush growth.

Neighbors Fight to Save A Small Oasis of Nature

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Residents of a picturesque area of Central Saanich are fighting to preserve the quality and character of their neighborhood.

The problem arose when the Central Saanich community plan, approved by home-owners, zoned some properties facing the park into two-acre lots and others into 8,400-foot lots.

The entire area is now under a five-acre freeze, but residents say once this subdivision restriction is lifted, there is nothing to prevent the owners of five parcels of land, ranging between five and nine acres in size, from subdividing into 8,400-foot lots.

"This means more than 100 homes could could spring up adjacent to the park" said Mrs. Jean MacDonald, 966 Greig. "It's too great a density for an area like this.It would mean the end of Gore Park as a nature park. It is a sensitive area and won't stand heavy use."

She said more than 100 persons have signed petitions opposing high-density development on Greig.

T.G. (Gill) Bunch, 1026 Greig, said the topography of the area does not lend itself to heavy development.

"The park and the character of the area would suffer," he said. "The park is known for its native wildflowers. It is a showpiece in the spring."

He said residents would like all remaining properties surrounding the park zoned into two-acre lots, but most are ready to compromise for one-acre or one-third acre lots.

Ald. George MacFarlane, chairman of the zoning and subdivision committee, agrees Greig Avenue with its park is a picturesque place because of its rocky and hilly terrain.

"It lends itself to winding roads following the contours of the land," he said.

"But the problem is that residents approved the community plan and to start changing it now would complicate the whole matter of zoning in the municipality," he said.

"If you start changing the zoning for one area, you've got to do it for another. Already we have requests from other areas in the municipality to reduce two-acre lots to half-acre lots."

He said he has called a meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.to discuss the issue with homeowners.

"It is an informal meeting to see if the property owners can come to some understanding," he said.

Mrs. MacDonald said when residents approved the community plan they were naive and had no idea of its implications.

"This area then was not in the sewer area and the threat of large-scale housing development seemed far away," she said. "Now it's in the sewer area and overnight, developers can erect 140 homes in the district.

"We are not opposed to residential development. But we are opposed to high-density development because it is not suited to this area."
